WILLEBRANDT GETS OVATION AT DRY RALLY

450 Antisaloon League Celebrants Cheer Her Lustily.

MAKES BRIEF TALK ON STATUS OF LAW

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Mabel Walker Willebrandt may now be engaged in trying to help the California grape growers by putting potential wine into American homes, but she still is the heroine of the drys.

This was demonstrated last night at a rally of the Antisaloon League of America, when Mrs. Willebrandt was given the ovation of the evening. It was an ovation which, for spontaniety and lustiness, exceeded even the one given to Amos W. W. Woodcock, chief of the Bureau of Prohibition.

The rally, sponsored by the representatives of "Big Business" who are still behind the Antisaloon League, was staged in the basement of the Calvary Baptist Church, Eighth and R streets northwest, where the late President Warren G. Harding used to worship. Present were 450 drys, many of them nationally prominent.

Drys Stand and Applaud.

Mrs. Willebrandt, who, as Assistant Attorney General in charge of enforcement, was known as the Joan of Arc of prohibition, and who left that post to represent the aviation and the grape interests, was introduced by Dr. William P. McGarey, assistant to Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League. Dr. McGarey himself was down for a speech entitled "An Appeal to Reason."

When Mrs. Willebrandt, attired as usual in an attractive gown, arose from her place at the table, the 450 drys applauded her vigorously. But even this was not enough. The better part of them got to their feet and continued to applaud.

Mrs. Willebrandt did not disappoint them.

"I came here to hear," she said, "but since you have given me so gracious a welcome, I want to say that in the year and a half I have been out, I have observed a confusion of thought as to the strength of conviction that is back of the law, and also an increase of conversational assault upon that law.

Will Be No Weakening.

"But throughout all the increasing clamor of those who would undermine the confidence of the people in the eighteenth amendment, I have always felt a sense of intellectual nausea.

"There will be no weakening of the American people on the eighteenth amendment, nor will there be any on the laws to enforce the amendment.

"Underneath the policy of the eighteenth amendment, underneath the purpose of the voters, there is an irresistible upward reaching, a spiritual flame, that can't be argued with."

Here Mrs. Willebrandt sat down, and there was another burst of applause.

Last night's meeting not only dispelled notions that Mrs. Willebrandt's popularity with the drys is on the wane, but it spiked reports that other actual or potential dry organizations are about to usurp the place of the Antisaloon League.

Spiking Done by Wilson.

The spiking was done by no less a figure than Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

The Antisaloon League, Dr. Wilson said, still was the best equipped organization to fight the return of the saloon, and he urged that its workers not be "shot in the back" while the country is waiting for some other organization to take its place.

Representative Grant Hudson, a dry Republican, of Michigan, who, along with another Michigan dry, Louis Cramton, was defeated in the summer primary, agreed with Dr. Wilson and averred that, despite his own political misfortune, his district in Michigan, still was behind the eighteenth amendment.

The keynote of Dr. McBride's speech was "Forward, March!" Business men, he said, were beginning to realize that a real emergency exists.

Wood Given Taste Of Indian Fighting In Geronimo Pursuit

By HERMANN HAGEDORN.

CHAPTER IV.

"Acting Assistant Surgeon Leander Wood, U. S. Army," the clerk at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, recorded in the medical record, "arrived at Post, July 4, 1885."

"Leander" reported to Lieut. Col. George A. Forsyth, commanding officer in the absence of Col. William B. Royall, who commanded the Fourth Cavalry and the post. He turned Wood over to Capt. Lawton. Henry W. Lawtn, captain of B troop, Fourth Cavalry, proved to be a straight, formidable person; 6 feet 5 inches in height, 230 pounds; a gigantic Beowulf who would have seemed appropriately placed in some medieval hall taking on a roomful of bruisers or by some smoking tarn fighting a dragon with gusto and success. He had enlisted at 18, four days after Sumter fell, fought in twenty battles, the most conspicuous figure in his regiment, and come out of the war a lieutenant colonel at 22. At 43 he still was all bone, muscle, sinew and brain, able to pick up an ordinary man and throw him a rod. His black eyes burned, his black hair bristled. He wanted to know "What in hell this tow-headed young tenderfoot was doing in Arizona?" He was the new contract-doctor, Wood told him, but he intended to transfer to the line as soon as he could.

"Come along," Lawton said, "I'll see what I can do to help you."

What he did was to arrange to have Wood accompany his troop as medical officer on an expedition after the Apaches which was to start the following morning. Wood had to move quickly to get any kind of an outfit together. At 4 o'clock the next morning the post was astir, with four troops—five officers and 143 enlisted men—looking to their mounts and waiting for the bugle.

"We are out in the field," Wood wrote Jake on the 6th, in camp 2 miles north of the Mexican border, "and what's more we're out for all summer. We left Huachuca yesterday morning and came directly over the mountains by a trail which I do not

CAPITAL MAN FALLS 4 STORIES; MAY DIE

BODY IS FOUND IN ALLEY

A postholiday party ended tragically last night for 26-year-old William Horgan, jr.

Young Horgan, at some time between 8 and 9 o'clock, apparently fell from a window on the fourth floor of the American Building, 1317 F street northwest, struck the hood of an automobile parked in a rear alley, and rebounded to an iron grating over the basement of the structure. When found shortly after his fall, he was taken to Emergency Hospital in the patrol wagon of the First Precinct. There he was found to have a fractured skull and other undetermined injuries.

The tragedy, which occurred so suddenly that it was veiled in mystery for some hours, was accidentally discovered by E. C. H. McDermon, street watchman attached to the First Precinct. McDermon at first thought the body huddled on the grating to be that of a man asleep or in a stupor. When he and a policeman whom he summoned attempted to lift Horgan they discovered that he had lost a quantity of blood and that his body was limp.

Sylvester Williams, 56, colored night watchman in the American Building, who lives at 210 H street southwest, furnished police their first clew as to what had happened in the deserted and darkened office building. His story, detailed and graphic, covered an exciting half hour, which was climaxed by Horgan's critical injuries.

According to the story Williams told police, Horgan and a companion came into the building about 8

HOOVER SEES BRIGHT OMEN IN AUTO TRADE

HAILS FUTURE OUTLOOK

(Associated Press.)

Addressing by telephone the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, President Hoover last night said "the despondency of some people over the future is not borne out by the statistical evidence of prospects in respect to the automobile industry."

Analyzing the automobile production, road building and gasoline consumption during the last year, the President said the figures indicated that "we have been cheerful in the use of our automobiles.

"I do not assume," he added, "they are being used for transportation to the poor house."

The future of the automobile industry, he said, does not warrant any despondency. The address follows:

"I am glad to extend this greeting to the automobile industry of the United States as represented in your banquet in New York City tonight.

"I am informed that if I were speaking to every person whose livelihood is directly or indirectly dependent upon the industry I should be speaking to one person in every ten of the people of our country. Therefore, the prosperity of the industry is the anxious thought of the Nation, and everybody wishes you well in your plans to expand the manufacture and use of your product.

"The despondency of some people over the future is not borne out by the statistical evidence of prospects in respect to the automobile industry. I am informed by the Department of,

U. S. BUILDING TO GIVE 50,000 PERSONS WORK

FUND OF RED CROSS AMPLE, PAYNE THINKS

Chairman Sidesteps Hint of Copeland That Congress Should Swell Sum.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Government's public building program will give direct employment to between 45,000 and 50,000 men this year, it was developed yesterday before the Senate appropriations committee.

Joseph R. Wetmore, supervising architect of the Treasury, disclosed that the maximum expenditure for actual construction will total between $75,000,000 and $90,000,000. On the basis of information gleaned from the new Department of Commerce Building, it is estimated that for every $10,000,000 expended in actual construction 1,000 men are employed directly on the project, while in the fabricating process—that is, the manufacture of the material going into the building, 5,000 more men are employed, or a total of 6,000 men for every $10,000,000 expended.

Support for 250,000.

The total of 45,000 or 50,000 men employed does not make much of a dent in an unemployment variously estimated at 4,000,000 upward, of course, but figuring five members to a family, the public building program does give sustenance to approximately 250,000 persons.

It was also testified that this estimate of the number employed does not embrace thousands of other men who pick up incidental employment, such, for example, as the tearing down of a building on a site upon which the Government intends to build. The estimate that a $10,000,000 construction expenditure gives employment to 6,000 men means that it gives them employment for a two-year period, Mr. Wetmore explained.

Some surprise was expressed that not a single allocation has as yet been made under the $115,000,000 public buildings bill that was passed under high pressure just before the holiday recess. This measure authorized the President to spend the money at his discretion on public works. The interdepartmental board is charged with making the allocations which must be for public work already authorized by Congress. But when the allocations are made the appropriations must be passed by Congress.

Red Cross Has $4,500,000.

The appropriations are expected to be included in one of the final deficiency bills and Mr. Wetmore gave it as his opinion that the "dirt will begin to fly within 60 days" after the appropriations are made available.

At the morning hearing of the committee, John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, testified that his organization has $4,500,000 available for the present emergency and said he had told the President that he hoped to be able to get through the winter on this sum. He emphasized, however, that "we will yell" if any more money was needed. Above all, he insisted, the Red Cross could carry out the relief work.

He sidestepped questions by Senator Copeland, of New York, as to whether the Red Cross would appreciate an appropriation by Congress.

Mr. Copeland did not think much of the $4,500,000 fund being adequate for the present situation, either. He asserted that New York City was

LUCAS DENIES G. O. P. BACKED NORRIS FIGHT

Informs Nye Committee Treasurer Nutt Lent Funds to Him.

DIRECTOR EXPECTED NO REIMBURSEMENT

Says He Used Wet Cartoons "To Show Walsh Insincere on Prohibition."

(Associated Press.)

The Senate campaign funds committee dug deeper yesterday into the Norris-Lucas chasm between the Republican national committee and the independents.

Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the committee, retold the investigators that the national party organization had nothing to do with his efforts to defeat Senator Norris in the Nebraska elections.

Examined for the second time regarding the $4,000 loan he obtained to buy anti-Norris campaign literature, Lucas said he paid off the note several days ago by borrowing $3,500 from Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the national committee. The first $500 payment was made in December, he said, and he still owes Nutt the $3,500. Nutt will be examined today.

Bank Selection Reason.

Lucas reiterated, under questioning, that the loan was made on his own responsibility and with no understanding he was to be reimbursed by the national committee even though the committee's $50,000 special campaign account opened for his convenience last October by Nutt was pledged as security.

He said he executed the loan in the Commercial National Bank here because an unsettled banking situation in his home city of Louisville made it unwise to seek it there. He added he did not go to the two other Washington banks where he had personal accounts because he had known the presidents of those institutions only since he came to Washington as Internal Revenue Commissioner last year.

Although he had no account at the Commercial National, he said he had known James B. Reynolds, its vice president, for ten or twelve years and thought it best to go where he was well known. The national committee's special account also was in this bank.

Motive of "Wet" Cartoons.

Lucas said Nutt offered to lend him the $3,500 as a business proposition although he warned the treasurer he might be given undue notoriety in the press for doing so. He said many prominent Republicans over the country had offered to go his security, but he declined.

The Kentuckian was questioned at length regarding "wet cartoons" sent into Nebraska and other States. These were purchased also with the $4,000.

The committee reminded him that the dry views of both Norris and Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, were well known and asked about use of the wet cartoons against both these senators.

Lucas said those sent into Nebraska merely said at the bottom that Norris voted for Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Those sent to Montana, he said, bore a notation that Walsh had accepted a campaign contribution of $5,000 from John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee and advocate of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. This, he added, showed "Walsh's insincerity."

"That's the first time I have heard Senator Walsh's sincerity questioned on prohibition," observed Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York.

10 Italian Seaplanes Complete Natal Hop

Two of Balbo's Ships Are Forced Down on Ocean Trip.

Brazilian Port Warmly Welcomes Visitors in Epochal Flight.

Natal, Brazil, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Ten great Italian seaplanes roared down into the harbor here today between 4:15 and 4:30 o'clock (2:15 and 2:30 p. m., Eastern standard time), completing one of the most ambitious aviation projects ever attempted.

An even dozen ships left Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, early this morning, but one was forced to come down on the sea early in the flight and another had a similar misfortune much later near St. Paul's Rock, just off the Brazilian coast.

Both were taken safely in charge by the Italian naval vessels, twelve of which lined the course as a precautionary measure. After arriving here Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister and commander of the exploit, ordered that the disabled air-

POSTAL JOB SELLING INQUIRY IS SPEEDED

NAME STILL KEPT DARK

(Associated Press.)

Swift action was promised by the Justice Department yesterday on charges that an Indiana member of Congress had accepted money from four postmasters to obtain their appointments.

Attorney General Mitchell said the facts as submitted by the Postoffice Department were now in the hands of the criminal division, and that if the normal course were followed they would be forwarded shortly to the United States attorney at Indianapolis to be laid before a grand jury.

The representative involved remained unnamed. All four postmasters lived in the district of Representative Bowbottom, defeated by a Democratic opponent in the November elections, but neither Mitchell nor officials of the criminal division would say he was implicated.

Initial investigation in the case was instituted at the requests of Senators Watson and Robinson, of Indiana, and resulted in the dispatch of five Postoffice inspectors into Bowbottom's district. Within ten days the inquiry turned up what the Postoffice Department termed "evidence so conclusive in its character that these postmasters were dismissed."

The Attorney General said full

POLLARD IN DANVILLE AS BOMB EXPLODES

SLEUTHS MAY BE HIRED

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Jan. 6.—Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia came to Danville tonight for the second time since the textile strike began, being drawn here, he said, by his concern over the question of law and order and the recurrence of dynamitings. He had hardly been in Danville half an hour when a heavy detonation shook the west end section.

The governor came alone in his car and said tonight that he would remain here most of tomorrow and "longer if necessary."

Tomorrow morning he plans going over the whole local strike situation with Maj. Reese Grubert, in command of the troops, and he is also to go into the complaint made by Gov. Max Gardner of North Carolina, who recently said that he had heard troops were stopping trucks. There are many other "loose ends" of the strike to claim the executive's attention.

The executive admitted that he was chiefly concerned over the dynamitings and he stated that the State will retain the services of a private detective agency to come here and try and trace the "terror squad," which so far has eluded military

BULLET TEST MADE AT SCENE OF CRIME

New Figure in Case Admits Knowing Victim, According to Captors.

Ted Martin, 20 years old, professional golfer, was detained by Philadelphia authorities last night in connection with the mysterious murder of Beulah Limerick a week ago today.

Martin was being questioned early today by Inspector John J. Connelly, of Philadelphia police, but the interrogation failed to establish any connection between him and the slaying.

On information furnished to Philadelphia detectives, the youth, who is said to have been acquainted with the slain girl, was taken into custody at a furnished room in the home of Israel Solomon on North Seventh street near Rockland street in the exclusive Logan section of Philadelphia.

Soloman told Inspector Connelly that the youth rented a room from him on November 26 and had visited this city during the Christmas holidays, but he never heard the youth speak of any acquaintances in this city.

Surprised at Arrest.

Inspector Connelly said that he notified Washington police of the detention and was expecting detectives from this city to arrive in Philadelphia early today to continue the interrogation.

Solomon, in a long-distance telephone conversation with The Washington Post, said that the youth was in his room when the two detectives placed him under arrest.

He went with the officers willingly and was surprised, Solomon said, that he had been linked with the case.

Movements of Suspect.

Solomon told The Post that soon after Christmas the youth left Philadelphia on a trip to Virginia. On the Saturday after Christmas, he said, he returned.

The two days' absence, after Christmas, he said, was the only time that the youth had been away since November. New Year's Eve, the night following the murder, Martin attended a party with a group of friends in Philadelphia, according to Solomon.

Solomon and his wife are almost positive that he spent the nights of December 30 and 31 at their home.

Martin admits knowing the girl, Philadelphia police said, but added that he had not seen her since August. He met her here while traveling in this section on a golf exhibition tour.

Detectives were placed on his trail when an anonymous telephone call was received late last night by Capt. John Creeden, of the Philadelphia police. A masculine voice asked if he was interested in knowing some one who might be connected with the Limerick murder.

Gun Tests Are Made.

When Creeden replied in the affirmative the voice directed him to the North Seventh street address. The call was traced by Philadelphia police to a pay station in a railroad terminal.

Gun tests were conducted by police yesterday in the three-family dwelling where Miss Limerick, former theater usher, was murdered.

A squad of homicide bureau detectives under Capt. Edward J. Kelly accompanied Dr. Edwin Donaldson, police microanalyst, to the scene of the killing. Several test shots were fired through the mattress by a .25 caliber automatic, which is the type of gun used in the slaying.

At the conclusion of the tests Capt. Kelly said that the trial shots passed through the mattress. The tests were conducted to determine whether a

Dense Fog, Rain and Snow Spread Havoc Along Coast

Two Ships in Trouble as Wild Weather Hits Atlantic Seaboard and Blizzard Sweeps Inland Areas; Plane Service Crippled.

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—A dense fog and a drizzling rain endangered shipping off the North Atlantic coast today, while a comparatively few miles inland snowstorms of almost blizzard proportions hampered traffic over roads.

In New York harbor and generally over the waters off the coast the fog was so dense that all traffic was delayed and at least two ships got into difficulties.

The coastwise passenger liner George Washington, inbound to New York from Boston, rammed a car float in the East River, sending two freight cars into the water and driving a hole in the liner's bow. The ship reached her pier unaided.

Off the Long Island coast, the coal freighter William N. Page, bound from Norfolk to Boston, went aground near Southampton and sent out an S O S. Coast Guard cutters stood by waiting for an abatement of a high wind to take off her crew of 25.

Airplane service from the Newark, N. J., airport was badly crippled, and of 62 planes due to arrive or leave, only 5 were on schedule. A number did not attempt to take off at all.

The snowstorm was general throughout northern New York and northern New England. Serious damage was caused along the New England coast by high tides and a howling wind and rain.

At Hampton Beach, N. H., the most damaging tides in 30 years pounded the shores, wrecking several cottages and flooding roads. The summer studio of Eugene O'Neill, the playwright, located on a high cliff on Cape Cod, near Provincetown, Mass., toppled into the sea.

The snowfall in Vermont reached a depth of a foot. Lake Placid, New York, had 16 inches, while a blizzard swept through Ontario and Quebec. The snow came as a boon for the unemployed, as it provided work for hundreds in clearing the roads.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—En route from New York to Hampton Roads the U. S. S. Salt Lake City, light cruiser, last night received a severe buffeting during a heavy gale, naval authorities here disclosed today.

While the ship itself was not seriously damaged in the blow the list of lost and damaged gear indicates that the vessel was swept from stem to stern by heavy waves. The ship lost two small boats and was in need of minor repairs.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: A few years ago we were discussing Americanization of our residents of foreign birth. Not being an appropriate word it aroused considerable antagonism among those we desired to help, which we can comprehend by thinking of our own reaction if, on entering a foreign country, volunteer associations or government agencies tried to transform us into natives.

What we really intended was a course of helpful education to instruct new arrivals to the United States in the meaning of our laws and customs so that they might better avoid the perils and secure the advantages of being here. But with the natural attitude which people have and with the restriction of immigration little outside help has been necessary.

The great proportion of immigrants duly become desirable citizens. But those who fail to respond to the privileges of our country, who fall into evil ways and violate our laws, should be punished for their crimes and then deported. We have all we can do to take care of deserving people without being burdened with those who demonstrate their unfitness to enjoy our liberties.

Bar Association Hears Cleveland Judge Outline That City's Method; Plan Will Be Introduced in District, Says Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat.

A pledge of cooperation of Congress to support the local courts if efficiency is evidenced; a declaration that judges should not be immune from newspaper criticism, and an assertion that a new system of court procedure in civil cases is to be put into effect in the District Supreme Court featured last night's meeting of the Bar Association held at the District Courthouse.

The meeting, called to hear an exposition of the Cleveland plan of speeding up justice, heard not only Representative Robert G. Simmons, of Nebraska, chairman of District subcommittee of the House appropriations committee, but Chief Justice Homer G. Powell, of the Court of Common Pleas, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Representative Simmons, who last year criticized the hours judges of the District Supreme Court worked, spoke at the opening of the session. He declared he was leaving the District committee in March, but would pledge the cooperation and support of Congress—both House and Senate—if the local courts would get on a sound working basis.

Representative Simmons told the gathering that he was speaking as one lawyer to another, and declared that since he had entered Congress six years ago all he had heard was criticism of the local courts. While not apologizing for his action of last year when the justices of the District Supreme Court were "clocked," the representative defended himself and declared that as a result of that the District had gained two additional judges and the Congress was willing to aid further in order to avoid congestion in future.

Justice Powell, hailed as sponsor of the new scheme the District plans to adopt, asserted that while not attempting to criticize, he was merely telling the Washington lawyers how his court in Cleveland was run.

"Courts have not kept pace with criminals," said Justice Powell. "Criminals make use of all the modern loopholes, but the law pursues them with an ox cart."

Continuing the justice said: "Large responsibility for this attitude rests upon the judges for their failure to make use of court processes. Much criticism has been made of newspaper denunciation of judges, but my ex-bullet of that caliber would pass through the bedding and into the floor. Dr. Donaldson was there to search for powder marks and blood-stains on the bed clothing.

All the evidence taken from the home last Thursday was arranged in the position in which the detectives found it and photographs were taken. Patrolman Robert F. Langdon, who is held in connection with the murder, said that a bullet which he found in the flooring had evidently passed through the floor.

Detectives carefully watched the progress of the shells as they were ejected from the gun. Their purpose was to ascertain whether a bullet fired from the angle of the bullet Langdon found would eject its shell toward the kitchen, where Langdon said he found a shell in a coffee cup.

The police said that the shell flew only a few feet and not toward the kitchen. It would have been impossible, they said, for a shell, fired in the front basement room, to have been ejected into the kitchen, where the coffee cups were at the time of the killing.

Former Husband Questioned.

Detective Sergeants Thomas Sweeney and Carton Talley yesterday questioned Earl Aitcheson, at his home near Laurel, Md. Aitcheson's marriage to the girl was recently annuled. After their interrogation they reported that they were satisfied that Aitcheson knew nothing of the murder.

A list of witnesses is being prepared by the Police Department for presentation to the coroner's jury which will inquire into the murder at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The list will be completed today and subpenas will be issued. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt will preside.

In addition to Langdon, others who will be called before the jury are: Vernon Limerick, brother of the slain girl; William E. Paddy, her escort on the night before the killing, and Richard Reed, a roomer at the Limerick house.

Eleventh Precinct police have been assigned to guard the home of Mary Ale, at Ridge place near Fourteenth street southeast, where the girl received a death threat.

Miss Martha Bargfrede, friend of the slain girl and secretary of the "Sky High Whoopee Club," yesterday brought the club's roster to headquarters and checked over the names with detectives. Many of the members were questioned at headquarters; but none could assist toward solution of the mystery, police declared.

Langdon was temporarily suspended from the day of his arrest under an order issued yesterday by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police. Should the coroner's jury clear Langdon, he will probably be restored to duty. Soon after the order was issued it was given the approval of the District Commissioners.

The arrest of the policeman was brought about after the mother of the girl had notified police that her daughter had complained to her that Langdon was continuously annoying her. Langdon was on the beat near the girl's home on the murder night and admitted that he looked in the girl's sleeping quarters, but insisted that he was investigating a complaint against the house.

Four Oyster Dealers Found Violating Law

Four oyster dealers were fined $10 in Police Court yesterday on charges of selling oysters with more than 10 per cent liquid in violation of the law. The arrests were made following recent investigations by the District weights and measures department and the food and drug division of the Department of Agriculture.

Those convicted were: William S. Hatton, of Ninth street, near I street northwest; Thomas D. Hatton, of Park road, near Thirteenth street northwest; George H. Stanford and Charles Belfield, of Twelfth street near Water street southwest.

FOUR-STORY PLUNGE MAY KILL MAN, 26 o'clock last night. They acted, he said, as though they had been drinking, and went to a room on the second floor.

There, according to Williams, they argued loudly, and engaged in a scuffle. An empty bottle was found in a basket containing used paper towels.

After the affray, Williams recounted, they called his elevator to the second floor. There, according to Williams, Horgan's companion entered his car and was taken to the street floor, but Horgan refused to go. A little later, he said, Horgan called him again to the second floor, and he took the young man, at his orders, to the fifth.

After leaving Horgan there, Williams related, he descended to the ground floor again and walked to the F street entrance of the building, where he saw the companion standing. Williams called him in and asked him to make an effort to get the young man from the building, taking the companion to the fifth floor. There, Williams said, the two engaged in an argument, and he left them.

When he next saw Horgan's companion he had walked down to the ground floor, carrying Horgan's hat. The companion then declared that he could do nothing with Horgan and would leave him.

Williams saw nothing more of the youth until he turned his flashlight on the battered body lying on the grating. Meanwhile, he had gone to F street in search of a policeman and had met McDermon, whom he asked to locate the patrolman on the beat. In his search, McDermon came upon Horgan lying in the alley. A note of mystery was injected into the tragedy when a telephone call, claimed to be from an uncle, was received at Emergency Hospital shortly after Horgan was admitted, and asking if an unidentified young man had been brought in.

Horgan was identified by two uncles, Drs. Joseph and Edmund Horgan, prominent Washington surgeons. The young man's father is William Horgan, sr., of 4626 Thirty-eighth street northwest.

In recounting his story to police, Williams, the night watchman, pointed out that the only window open in the building was that of the fourth-floor office from which Horgan was supposed to have fallen. The office was vacant, and was at the end of a hall, where it might have been reached without difficulty by any one unfamiliar with the arrangement of the building. Williams stated his belief that Horgan had walked down to the fourth floor.

The automobile which Horgan struck in his fall belongs to Arthur Alexander Nasahal, 25 years old, of 3500 Fourteenth street northwest. Its hood was badly crushed and the right fender bore two deep dents, apparently caused by Horgan's feet. Nasahal claimed his car shortly before midnight, but was detained by police until photographs could be made for the coroner.

At an early hour this morning Horgan was reported at Emergency Hospital to be in a dying condition.

SECOND CITY JUDGE IN NEW YORK QUITS

Another Magistrate Told by Higher Court to Keep Off Bench.

EWALD'S TRIAL IS BEGUN

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—A city magistrate—the second in a month—resigned today; another was relieved of his duties until he disposes of the charges against him, and a former magistrate went on trial, accused of paying $10,000 to influence his appointment to office.

From a hospital bed Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman sent his resignation to Mayor Walker, saying his "sole reason" was that his health is bad. However, his resignation brought to an abrupt end an investigation into his official conduct which was being made by the appellate division of the supreme court. His resignation follows by less than a month that of Magistrate Francis X. McQuade, who quit two hours before the beginning of a public inquiry into his affairs.

Meanwhile, another magistrate, Louis B. Brodsky, was ordered by the appellate division to refrain from sitting as a magistrate pending a hearing on charges preferred by Samuel Seabury, referee, in the appellate division inquiry, looking to his removal from the bench. Seabury has accused the magistrate of stock market activities.

George F. Ewald, who resigned a magistracy for which he is accused of paying $10,000 to a Tammany leader, went on trial with his wife in supreme court to the opening charge of the prosecution that the Ewalds "openly boasted" of paying for the appointment.

Democrats Attack Hoover's Rail Plan

Merger Proposal Will Be Embarrassing to I. C. C., Raburn Asserts.

(Associated Press.)

Two Democrats yesterday assailed President Hoover's announcement of the plan of Eastern trunk line railroads to merge into four systems in the House. Representative Rayburn, of Texas, asserted the Interstate Commerce Commission would be embarrassed by the President's action, which, he said, led to the belief that the Chief Executive "has prejudged the questions involved."

"The consolidation of railroads," he added, "should not be thrust into partisan politics." Representative Huddleston, of Alabama, said if President Hoover were allowed to "get away with this thing he will have more power than he ever has had."

Rayburn said Congress must hold the Interstate Commerce Commission responsible and it should be unhampered by the influence of the Chief Executive. "If the commission after a hearing ever approves this four-system plan," Rayburn continued, "it matters not how sincerely, they will be embarrassed by the fact that many will charge them with having supinely done the bidding of the President."

MITCHELL TAKES UP POSTMASTER SALES

facts in the case had been received by the Justice Department only yesterday morning and that it was too early to determine whether Federal agents should be sent for additional evidence. The district attorney at Indianapolis, George R. Jeffrey, he said, has such agents at his command if further information is needed.

Mitchell frowned upon the suggestion made earlier in the day that a special prosecuting attorney handle the case. It had been pointed out that the local prosecuting attorney was in one sense a political appointee, and that he might be relieved of possible embarrassment if a special prosecutor should later be sent out. The Attorney General indicated none would be sent unless a request was made.

In discussions at the Justice Department as to what statutes would be involved if the grand jury returned an indictment, two such statutes were named. One provided that the giver as well as the receiver of alleged bribes might be prosecuted. It was recalled a former Kansas senator was prosecuted under one of the statutes on charges of accepting money to prevent the issuance of a fraud order. The maximum sentence under the law would be two years in jail and $10,000 fine.

No indication was given by officials of the department's criminal division as to when action would be taken.

ORTHWEIN KIDNAPER JAILED IN ST. LOUIS

GOES TO CELL SMILING

St. Louis, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The Negro kidnaper of Adolphus Busch Orthwein, 13-year-old heir of the wealthy Busch family, was in the St. Louis County Jail at Clayton tonight, five days after he seized the boy on New Year's Eve.

The Negro, Charles Y. Abernathy, surrendered today to Harry T. Brundige, reporter for the St. Louis Star, at Kansas City. Brundige turned the Negro over to Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County, who was waiting for him near his hiding place in Kansas City.

Abernathy was brought by automobile from Kansas City to the jail, where he was booked and placed in a cell. He was smiling as he left the sheriff's office and laughed aloud as he held up a newspaper to shield his face from photographers.

Sheriff Lill gave instructions to allow no one to talk to the Negro.

Prosecuting Attorney Castlen announced he would insist on a $50,000 bail bond for the kidnaper. Abernathy's father, Pearl Abernathy, and his niece, Frieda Robb, both charged with complicity in the kidnaping, are still in jail, unable to raise the $30,000 bail bonds demanded for their release.

An attorney for the Busch family said his clients would request their release, as they were convinced the father and niece had no part in the kidnaping.

Holy Name Director Chosen.

DESIGN IS APPROVED FOR STATE BUILDING

Fine Arts Commission Acts on Plans and Model for Alterations.

MOORE AGAIN CHAIRMAN

The Fine Arts Commission yesterday gave its approval, with minor reservations, to the design for remodeling the State, War and Navy Building so as to bring it into architectural conformity with the Treasury Building. The decision followed an inspection of a model of the proposed changes on the south side of the structure and a conference with Secretary Mellon.

The building, which was termed "an architectural monstrosity" by President Hoover, is to be occupied by the State Department exclusively after the proposed State and War Building is erected. The commission's only suggestion as to changes in the plans related to the treatment of the balustrade.

At the opening of the meeting yesterday morning Charles Moore, a charter member of the commission and one of the leading figures in the development of the Capital according to the designs of the McMillan Commission, was reelected chairman, a position he has held since 1918. Benjamin W. Morris, of New York, was chosen vice chairman.

Sculpture for Bridge.

The commission considered questions pertaining to the sculptural groups for the Soldier Memorial Bridge at the Lincoln Memorial plaza and at the entrance of the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway. The members also discussed designs for the memorial columns on the Columbia Island plaza.

Proposals to erect shelters for farmers who sell their produce along the sidewalks of the Capital were taken under advisement after a parley with Representatives R. Walton Moore and Stephen W. Gambrill, George W. Roberts, District superintendent of weights and measures, and A. L. Harris, municipal architect.

Harvey Wiley Corbett, New York architect, submitted a model for a proposed building 90 feet high as the first unit of the United Masonic Temple Heights development. The commission is also considering retaining part of the area at Connecticut and Florida avenues for park purposes.

Power Plan Sketch Liked.

The commission approved a tentative sketch of a new power plant submitted by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, to replace the one at Virginia avenue and B street southwest, where the Pan-American Office Building is to be erected. Col. Grant also submitted a design for a Federal warehouse at Virginia and Maryland avenues southwest, but the commission reserved approval.

Sketches of proposed markers for highway entrances to the District were submitted by Charles W. Eliot 3d, director of city planning, and W. L. Partridge, consulting architect, of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Questions relating to the completion of Meridian Hill Park also were considered.

Canon of Cathedral Will Address League

The Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Canon of Washington Cathedral, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of St. Monica's League at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the residence of Mrs. John Hervey Young, 2212 R street northwest. A special program of music will be furnished by the Howard University Glee Club.

Members of the league and other friends who are interested in the work among the colored people in the Diocese of Washington are invited to attend. Canon Stokes' subject will be the housing bill now pending before Congress.

FEDERAL BUILDING PROGRAM WILL GIVE WORK TO 50,000

spending $8,000,000 for its unemployment alone, and statisticians around the committee table immediately figured it out that assuming there are no more than 4,500,000 unemployed that the Red Cross only had $1 apiece for them.

Organization's Work Limited.

There exists a widespread misapprehension, however, as to the undertaking of the Red Cross in the present emergency. It has not committed itself or been charged with caring for the unemployed. Its work is to be confined strictly to the drought-stricken areas.

The national committee, headed by Col. Arthur Woods, a presidential agency, is charged with the unemployment situation. Col. Woods is to appear later before the committee.

Mr. Wetmore told the committee that the most important thing Congress can do just now to remove obstacles to the speeeding up of the building program is passage of the measure authorizing the Government to take over a site immediately it has been condemned, without waiting for the award to be determined upon, and also empowering the Treasury to employ outside architects at an earlier stage in the proceedings than is now permissible. Neither of these measures has yet been acted upon by the House or Senate.

The $45,000,000 drought relief appropriation with the Senate amendment adding $15,000,000 for loans to farmers for personal food was, in the meantime, dangling in the parliamentary twists of the House.

City Men Object.

Efforts of House leaders to send the measure to conference yesterday failed when Representative La Guardia, of New York, and other Easterners objected on the ground that they would not stand for an appropriation for human food loans for the farmers as no appropriations were being made for the city unemployed.

Their objection to sending the bill to conference was merely a gesture, however, designed to emphasize the administration's position that there should be no loans for personal food. Because the House conferees do not intend to accept the Senate provision.

The fight by Senators Robinson and Caraway, of Arkansas, for this $15,000,000 provision has been considerably embarrassed by a telegram the governor of their State sent to Eastern newspapers Monday saying the situation in Arkansas was well in hand and would be taken care of by the people of Arkansas.

Senator Robinson sent the governor a telegram yesterday, the exact wording of which is not known, but which was intended to tell the governor that if he had the situation so well in hand then there was no need of Robinson and Caraway wasting their endeavors here.

Caraway exhibited a sheaf of telegrams from his State insisting that the situation was critical.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5:25 p. m. until noon today.

Debated reconsideration of the three nominations to the power commission.

Senator Heflin (Democrat), of Alabama, said he was willing to filibuster until $15,000,000 food loan bill is approved.

Agreed to vote January 16 on $30,000,000 battleship modernization bill.

Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, introduced a bill to curb speculation on grain futures market.

Enacted fifteen bridge bills without debate.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:10 p. m. until noon today.

Representative James (Republican), of Michigan, introduced a bill providing $538,270 for construction and alteration of buildings at San Juan and Henry Barracks, Porto Rico.

Debated drought relief.

Representative Wood (Republican), of Indiana, introduced a bill to make his State one Federal judicial district of eight divisions.

Representative James (Republican), of Michigan, introduced a bill providing $35,000 for preservation and repair of historical fortifications at Fort Niagara, N. Y.

Representative Goodwin (Republican), of Minnesota, introduced a bill providing $3,000,000 for construction of a Federal building at Minneapolis, Minn.

Approved amendments to deficiency bill.

Handless Man Admits Forgery of Signature

Chicago, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The charge was forgery.

"But, your honor," said Frank Grissmayer today, "I have two artificial hands and can't write."

"H-m-m," murmured the judge.

"Pshaw," said the prosecutor, "aren't you the same Frank Grissmayer who was convicted of forgery two years ago?"

And Grissmayer broke down, confessed he was one and the same, took a pen between his teeth and demonstrated how he imitated his father-in-law's signature.

"A year in the house of correction," said the judge.

INDIAN ROUND TABLE MAY CLOSE JAN. 21

London Hears All Reports Are to Be In by End of Next Week.

MEMBER FEARS CHANGE

London, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Reports were heard tonight that the Indian round table conference, which convened November 12, would close January 21, the delegates to sail for home two days later.

All subcommittee reports are expected to be in by the end of next week.

London, Jan. 6 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Demand that the powers of control vested in the Viceroy of India be not taken from him in any new form of government established in that country was made on behalf of the English Conservative party here today by Sir Samuel Hoare, M. P., one of the Conservative delegates to the round table conference.

The remarks were made in a speech at a meeting of the subcommittee whose chairman was Lord Sankey, lord chancellor. This group is studying the possible structure of a federal government for India. The same committee yesterday heard the Liberal viewpoint from Lord Reading, former viceroy, and previous to that the attitude of British India was expressed by Sir Tej Sapru.

"I am whole-heartedly in support of an all-Indian federation," Sir Samuel said, "and I wish to see it started under the best possible conditions. I am nervous, however, of a start being made with a new government at the center."

He went on to say that from the beginning of the present parley he had been doubtful of the wisdom of trying to apply the British House of Commons system to an all-India federation. The backers of the proposed constitution, he continued, would have to convince him their plan was workable before he could conscientiously support it.

Sir Samuel insisted India is not in position to defend herself. He said she is dependent on the British army and that the British army could not be put under order by any other than the British government. He also insisted on financial safeguards—not because he wished to place obstacles in the way of India's advance, but because the difficulties were in India itself—hard facts of gold and credit and financial obligations.

"If, as suggested," the speaker said, "a defense minister is in the cabinet, how is it possible to reconcile his responsibility to the crown with the responsibility of other ministers to the legislature? How, if the viceroy is not to be the effective head of the executive government, is he to exercise his reserved powers when occasion demands that he do so?"

Sir Samuel was certain the constitution suggested by Sir Tej Sapru would be so complicated, so vulnerable to attacks of critics and so full of anomalies that it would be workable only on the basis of wide acceptance and substantial good will in India itself and he asked if there were any evidence that such good will existed.

Treasury Studies New Bonus Plan

Garner Proposal Would Pay Veterans Part Cash at Once.

(Associated Press.)

Another proposal to convert veterans compensation certificates into cash went to Secretary Mellon yesterday for a report.

Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee, announced he had sent the Garner proposal for partial payment to the Treasury, with a request for an opinion. His committee must give a hearing to any or all of half a dozen varying plans before progress can be made toward enactment. Secretary Mellon recently opposed payment in full.

Mr. Hawley said his action, in response to an urgent request by Representative Garner, the Democratic leader, meant neither that he was "for or against."

As soon as Representative Fish, Republican, of New York, learned of Mr. Hawley's action, he announced he would write the chairman demanding similar treatment for his proposal to pay the veterans 25 per cent of the final value of their bonds. Garner would pay them—if they so elected—the full present surrender value.

America Demands Slave Trade's End

Liberia Is Told in Note That She Has Failed to Punish Guilty.

(Associated Press.)

The American Government has demanded of Liberia that prompt steps be taken to suppress slave traffic. The State Department dispatched a memorandum to the African republic on November 27 urging that not only the traffic be suppressed, but that steps be taken to deal with those responsible.

The note was based on the report of the investigating committee composed of an American, a Liberian and a representative of the League of Nations. It cited the finding of investigators that high officials, including President King and Vice President Yancy of Liberia, had been involved.

These two resigned after the memorandum was received at Monrovia on December 4. The note pointed out that no action had been taken by the Liberian government against those responsible for slave trade.

BILLS TO CURB GRAIN SALES ARE OFFERED

Measures Now in Senate and House Aim to Regulate Foreign Dealings.

EARLY ACTION UNLIKELY

(Associated Press.)

The administration moved yesterday to put a legislative curb on speculating in the grain futures markets.

Companion bills placing drastic restrictions on the market operations were introduced by Senator Capper, of Kansas, and Representative Dickinson, of Iowa, Republicans. Capper said the measure bore the indorsement of the Department of Agriculture.

Early consideration will be given, but Chairman McNary, of the Senate agriculture committee, said the heavy calendar would forestall immediate action.

The legislation would bar foreign governments from operating through any representatives on the grain exchanges without first obtaining approval of the Secretary of Agriculture. Secretary Hyde has complained of the operations of Soviet Russia on the exchange.

Another provision would place a limit of 2,000,000 bushels on the amount of grain futures which may be traded in for speculative purposes in one day by a single individual or firm. This restriction however, would not apply to hedging operations.

The measure would require licensing of all commission merchants, brokers and correspondents handling or executing orders for future delivery.

"I would like to see all short selling abolished," said Senator Capper, "but this provides for drastic restrictions which would be a big help."

Denial He "Meditated" Fails to Save Prisoner

Emmett Mitchell, 54-year-old Negro, wasn't drunk and he wasn't meditating. These facts were announced in Police Court yesterday to Judge John P. McMahon, before whom he was arraigned on an intoxication charge. Mitchell pleaded not guilty. A policeman said he found the man leaning against a post, and after he had refused to say what he was "meditating about" was taken to the station.

Mitchell declared he never meditated and said he could produce witnesses to that effect. Judge McMahon, however, was not convinced and fined him $10.

LOOKING FORWARD

In slightly more than one year from now the President of the United States will formally open the Bi-Centennial celebration planned to fittingly honor the anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

It has been estimated that millions of the automobiles owned in the United States will make Washington the goal during the period of the celebration, February 22 to Thanksgiving day, 1932. Those actively in touch with the plans for this stupendous event believe that close to one-third of the entire population of the country will come to Washington during that time.

Picture to yourself the activity that must accompany so many people and so much money. Every business in the District of Columbia will feel the impetus of this increased activity and real estate will be no exception.

Whenever any large number of visitors come to Washington, a certain percentage, recognizing the many advantages of living here, remain. Those people want homes. Demand makes price. Buy before that influence is felt.

A constant trend to the suburbs has been in evidence and is growing. That is particularly noticeable to the northwestward, which is and always will be the best suburban area of the National Capital.

KEECH GIVEN DATA ON POWER PROFITS

Utilities Board Turns Over Records Covering W. R. & E. Operations.

ALL FILES CALLED OPEN

The Public Utilities Commission late yesterday turned over to Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel, certain records from its accounting division in response to an inquiry about the profits of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. from the sale of power generated in the Benning power plant, which is operated jointly by the Potomac Electric Power Co. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commisison, also formally answered the letter.

As the data did not reveal the amount of profits, but merely consisted of figures from which these could be computed, Mr. Keech instructed his statistician, John M. Nicholson, to work out the answer to his question. As the commission offered to lend the services of its chief accountant, B. M. Bachman, the latter will aid in the compilation of these figures.

Gen. Patrick said the commission was not in possession of data showing "the extent of property used for the generation of power as included in the value of the Potomac Electric Power Co. plant" because the various elements of value of the power company are not required by the consent decree. Likewise it is not aware of the values of Maryland properties of the concern, he said, and it "has not felt justified in requiring the expenditure which would necessitate a detailed allocation."

The letter explained that Mr. Keech was at liberty at any time to use the files of the commission and reviewed the attitude of the commission as to the consent decree and the reason for ordering the present rates effective until further reductions could be obtained by modification of the decree.

Mr. Keech said it would take a day or so to compute the data he sought from the records he received.

G. X. Medalie Named As Tuttle's Successor

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday appointed George Z. Medalie district attorney of the Southern District of New York.

Medalie succeeds Charles H. Tuttle, who resigned to accept the Republican nomination for Governor of New York. The nomination will be sent to the Senate today. Alan Fox, another strong candidate for the office, withdrew Monday.

TO BECOME DEAN

CHRIS L. CHRISTENSEN.

CHRISTENSEN QUITS FARM BOARD OFFICE

Takes Wisconsin Agriculture College Deanship, With Experiment Post.

CHANGE DUE IN SPRING

Chris L. Christensen, secretary of the Federal Farm Board since its creation, July, 1929, yesterday submitted his resignation to Chairman Alexander Legge to become dean of the college of agriculture and director of the agriculture experiment station of the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Christensen's resignation will become effective in the early spring. His new situation, he said in a letter to Chairman Legge, "will afford enlarged opportunity in the administrative field of agriculture education, research and extension."

A graduate of the University of Nebraska and a World War veteran, Mr. Christensen was reared on a farm near Minden, Nebr., where he later actively engaged in farming. As research fellow of the American-Scandinavian Foundation to Denmark, he studied agricultural conditions abroad from 1921 to 1923.

For three years previous to his appointment as secretary of the Farm Board, Mr. Christensen was head of the division of cooperative marketing of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Prior to that time he was a member of the staff of the bureau, devoting himself to the study of cooperative marketing.

Warrant for Levine Issued in Stock Case

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Charles A. Levine, transatlantic aviation enthusiast, was ordered arrested today by Assistant District Attorney Garrison because of alleged failure to report at Garrison's office and explain possession of mysteriously missing securities.

According to a summons issued last month, Levine pledged the stock at the Manufacturers Trust Co. as collateral for a loan last May. Levine's attorney said he would explain posession of the stock satisfactorily.

WARRANTS ORDERED IN CAMERA ATTACKS

ONE CITED IS POLICEMAN

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday ordered his assistant, John R. Fitzpatrick, to issue warrants for the arrest of a policeman and a lawyer who are alleged to have assaulted news cameramen and smashed their cameras. The case probably will be thrashed out in Police Court this week.

The two men cited in the warrants are Harry F. Kennedy, a member of the local bar, and Lieut. John Maloney, of the Ninth Police Precinct.

Kennedy is alleged to have assaulted Gustave C. Chinn, of the Evening Star, while the latter was attempting to take a photograph of Mrs. Edith L. Townshend, who had appeared in Police Court to testify against T. Guy Lucas, local organist, whom she alleged had made way with $4,500 of her money. Kennedy appeared as Mrs. Townshend's attorney.

Lieut. Maloney is said to have assaulted Joseph Roberts, of the Herald, while he was attempting to take a photograph of a policeman questioned in the Limerick murder case.

Fitzpatrick, in each instance, refused to issue the warrants when requested.

10 ITALIAN PLANES MAKE HOP TO NATAL dropped down; as they came in at intervals and flew all the way in the same fashion.

Starting at 2 a. m. G. M. T. (9 p. m., E. S. T.) while darkness still hung over Africa, the Italian squadron lifted anchor and soared out for the long flight across the South Atlantic.

Then, at 3:40 a. m., G. M. T., they passed the Dariceo, first of the Italian vessels along the route. At 4:37, G. M. T., they passed the Tarigo and 7:06, same time, flew over the Vivaldo.

Thereafter they sped over the tossing ocean and crossed the lonely island of Fernando do Noronha at 2:55 p. m., local time (11:55 a. m., E. S. T.), swung straight for St. Paul Rock and finally zipped to a stop on the waters of Natal Harbor at 4:15 p. m.

A great crowd was out to welcome the visitors, people coming from miles around despite heavy rains last night, and it was a thrilling moment not only for the natives, but for the aviators who had completed such a long and hazardous trip.

By 4:55 p. m. all the planes were safely anchored and Gen. Italo Balbo, who is Italian air minister, and also commanded the flight, disembarked with his aids to be welcomed by Brazilian officials.

The general was naturally elated, for he had said before the start that if half the planes which left Italy December 17 reached Brazil, it would be a remarkable achievement.

After three days here the Italians will go on to Rio de Janeiro.

(Associated Press.)

The flight by ten Italian seaplanes across the south Atlantic was described yesterday by Secretary Adams as marking "another distinct step in the advance of aviation."

The Navy Secretary added that "the Italians are to be heartily congratulated on their great achievement."

David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, said the flight was a great achievement and "showed conclusively the advancement that aviation has made."

Amendment Urged For Equal Rights

Women Present Pleas at Meeting of Senate Committee.

Discriminations against women in the law of State and Nation can be removed only by a constitutional amendment declaring that men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction, the Senate judiciary committee was told yesterday by Miss Maud Younger, of California, congressional chairman of the National Woman's Party, at a hearing on the equal rights amendment. Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, presided at the hearing.

Miss Younger told the committee that the method of working State by State and law by law in efforts to reduce discrimination against women has been unsatisfactory. Mrs. Maud Williams, of Typographical Union, No. 6, a member of the Industrial Council of the Women's Party, declared that protective legislation is unfair when applied to women alone.

Mrs. Burnita Sheltin Matthews, chairman of the lawyers council of the Women's Party, maintained that whatever laws apply to women should also apply to men "with whom they must compete in earning a living." Summarizing the arguments on behalf of the amendment, Miss Anita Pollitzer, of New York, vice chairman of the National Women's Party, said: "We believe that a woman should be as free as a man to decide for herself when and how she shall work."

FORECLOSURE STEPS CRITICIZED BY COURT

LOWER BENCH REVERSED

Criticism of foreclosure methods practiced in the District is contained in an opinion handed down yesterday by the District Court of Appeals.

The opinion, written by Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, may have a far-reaching effect on future real estate transaction in the District.

Under the opinion trustees making foreclosures under deeds of trust must see that there are no recorded judgments or other leins against the mortgagor before paying over to him any surplus which may remain after the trust and expenses incident to the sale are satisfied.

The opinion, which reversed a Municipal Court decision, was rendered in a case involving W. A. H. Curch, Inc., and Kirk Holmes and Edwin M. Barr. The corporation had sued Holmes and Barr, trustees under a deed of trust executed by John Jackson, but had lost its suit in Municipal Court despite the fact that it held a recorded judgment against Jackson. The suit was brought against Holmes and Barr, as trustees, after they had paid over to Jackson a surplus amount.

Holmes and Barr filed a demurrer, claiming their liability under the terms of the deed of trust was only to the maker of the trust after its other terms had been satisfied and the costs and commissions paid. This viewpoint was held by the Municipal Court, which sustained the demurrer. The corporation then appealed.

perience has been that when the newspapers get behind a judge there is reason for it. To my mind there is no valid reason why a judge should be immune from newspaper criticism."

Chief Justice Wheat thanked Justice Powell for his presence and his suggestions and told the assemblage that they should give the new proposals a trial. He declared that they were to be put into effect and asserted that all that was needed was cooperation.

Chief Justice Wheat, Justice Frederick L. Siddons and Judge Robert E. Mattingly were the only local judges in attendance.

Justice Powell offered himself freely to questioning about the Cleveland system, which is practically being adopted locally. He was asked many questions, and admitted that not including the Federal judges he had eighteen judges in his own court and seventeen in municipal court. But in answer to one question fired at him he said: "We need more judges."

"We do, too," some one chimed in.

Col. J. Miller Kenyon, president of the local bar, presided.

forces, State and county police, as well as those lured by the $1,000 rewards offered for their conviction.

The troops, the governor said when interviewed "will remain here as long as it is necessary."

Asked how much the strike has cost Virginia the governor said he did not have the figures, since the gradual reduction of the force makes it difficult to make a computation. "My sole duty," he said, "is to comply with my oath of office. I have nothing to do with the issues at stake. My duty is to see that law and order are maintained and all the resources of the State will be used for that purpose. I am particularly concerned over the frequent dynamitings and every effort will be made to catch the culprits.

With thirteen union members indicted in the corporation court yesterday for acts of violence in connection with the strike, four more were charged with arson in new presentments this afternoon. J. W. Jones, J. L. Spivey, J. R. Jeffries and L. J. Branston are accused of setting fire to the home of W. T. Dooley early Monday morning.

Commonwealth's Attorney Carter said he would press for a trial at the present term of court. The thirteen men, indicted as a mob in connection with the attack on C. W McKellar, are to be tried on January 19

Danville, Va., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—A bomb was exploded tonight beneath the Pentecostal Holiness Church in the textile strike area at Schoolfield.

Explosives were set off under the church, the blast knocking up a portion of the floor near the altar and damaging the ceiling to some extent. Commissioner of Police L. L. More said the charge was evidently the heaviest exploded during the series of dynamite attacks against non-union homes.

Commissioner Moore said he learned that threats of damage to the church had been made. For several Sundays, he said, he had a policeman stationed at the church during services at the request of the pastor, the Rev. F. A. Dail, who told Mr. Moore he feared that automobiles parked at the church might be damaged.

Irish Catholics Are Best Jurors, Darrow Declares

Tells Law Students at Howard University of Contrasting Racial and Religious Characteristics as They Affect Jury Box Decisions.

Irish Catholics make the best jurors, Clarence Darrow advised law students yesterday in the second of his series of eight lectures now being delivered at Howard University.

Since sympathy, emotion, kindliness, and generosity are qualities of a juror that make him favorably disposed to the defendant, Mr. Darrow contended that it is well to consider nationality, business, religion and politics as bearing upon the qualities enumerated.

In contrast to Irishmen, Mr. Darrow warned against Swedes and Norwegians—the latter as being harsh and severe in their judgments, and unemotional in nature. Next to Irishmen, Mr. Darrow prefers as jurors, Italians, Frenchmen, and Germans. While Germans are unemotional they are tolerant in their judgments of others, he said.

Englishmen may also be counted upon to show an attitude of fairness toward the accused. "There is no such thing as an American," said Mr. Darrow, "as it takes longer to make a race than America is old." All Americans are influenced by their foreign ancestry, and among so-called Americans farmers are the most objectionable as jurors, he said.

As war never makes people sympathetic, humane, nor tolerant in their judgments, Mr. Darrow warned against former service men as members of the jury in criminal cases.

When asked if the same rule for the selection of jurors applies to women, the speaker said that he did not feel qualified to answer this question as he had only tried two cases in which women were members of the jury.

Admiral Phelps Named New York Commandant

(Associated Press).

Rear Admiral William Woodward Phelps on April 1 will become commandant of the Third Naval District, with headquarters in New York City. He succeeds Rear Admiral Louis R. Desteiguer, who retires.

Admiral Phelps comes from duty as commandant of the Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard. The Navy Department yesterday announced that no officer had been designated to relieve Admiral Phelps.

COLD COMPELS STAR TO QUIT AS DON JUAN

Wildhagen Is Succeeded by Gross in Second Act of German Opera.

FINAL WORK PLEASES

Struggling valiantly against a heavy cold contracted on his trip from Germany, Eric Wildhagen, renowned star of the Berlin Staats Opera, singing the title role of Don Juan in Mozart's opera of that name, at the second performance of the German Grand Opera Company in the National Theater last night, had to quit at the close of the first act. The opera was continued by Richard Gross assuming the role.

Despite the huskiness in his tones, Herr Wildhagen made a favorable impression. The audience heard with regret of his indisposition.

That the German Grand Opera Company is versatile in its attainments was demonstrated by the outstanding rendition it gave Mozart's romantic opera.

Audience Delighted.

The beauty of the vocal and orchestral score was an inspiration to the singers, who gave a sprightly and brilliant performance. The audience, though not so large as that on Monday night, was again representative of the social, official and musical circles of the Capital. The applause attested genuine enjoyment.

Dr. Max Von Schillings, composer and conductor, proved equally versed in Mozart as in Wagner. Under his baton, the orchestra made its share in the opera a delight. Dr. Von Schillings, who towers 6 feet 5 inches, bowed acknowledgments to ovations several times.

"Don Juan," or "Don Giovanni," is a treasure house of melody.

The mounting of the opera was beautifully done and the costumes were vivid reminders of days when knighthood was truly in flower.

The women stars were headed by Margarethe Baumer, as Donna Anna, a winsome heroine, possessed of a soprano voice of rich qualities. Her luscious voice was exhibited in all its beauty in arias, duets and trios.

Zerline Pleases.

The audience was also highly pleased with the grace and vocal arts of Annette Royak as Zerline. She won much applause and several times this equaled that accorded other singers. Emilie Frick, as Donna Elvira, gave good account of herself.

When Gross assumed the role of Don Juan, there fell to him responsibility of completing the good showing made by his compatriot in the first act. He was efficient, and the audience showed its pleasure at his gameness.

To Max Adrian, as Don Ottavio, fell the great test, the rarely beautiful "Il Mio Tesoro" ("To My Beloved"). Regarded as a supreme test of classic song for tenors, he surmounted its difficulties with ease. His singing was enhanced, of course, by the melodic accompaniment that emphasizes the charms of the aria.

These Also Win Plaudits.

Hans Hay, as Leporello, pleased in the aria known as "Leporello's Aria" in the second scene of the first act. It was nicely done and the audience liked it. Others who deserve favorable mention were Adolf Meyer as Massetto and Laurenz Pierot as Comthur.

The German Grand Opera Company scored again, showing what a painstaking group of artists this is that is on a third transcontinental tour.

The opera was given under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

A warm welcome awaits these musical pilgrims when they return to the Capital City of the United States.

Spanish War Veterans Hold Induction Tonight

Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner, will be principal speakers tonight at installation ceremonies of the United Spanish War Veterans of the District of Columbia, to be held in Harding Hall of the Government Printing Office, North Capitol and G streets.

The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock by Department Commander Benjamin F. Motley. Department Chaplain Samuel G. Mawson will deliver invocation, followed by an address of welcome by George H. Carter, public printer. Past Commander in Chief John Lewis Smith, of the United Spanish War Veterans, will preside at the meeting.

JOFFRE NOW RESTS IN VAST CATHEDRAL

TO INVALIDES TODAY

Paris, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—France paid its last sad homage today to the still form of Marshal Joffre as it lay banked with flowers on a catafalque in the chapel of the Ecole Militaire.

Tonight, in a plain oak coffin which never will be opened again, the marshal's body lay in the Cathedral of Notre Dame. On the coffin was the simple inscription, "Joseph Joffre, Marshal of France, 1852-1931."

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, after funeral services in the cathedral, an impressive cortege will escort the body to the Invalides, where it will repose in a vault for several months before being buried at Louveciennes.

Thousands still lingered outside the Ecole Militaire, waiting vainly for a last look at their hero, when the doors were closed at 8 o'clock tonight.

A modest cortege, led by twenty mounted Republican Guards carrying torches, moved away toward the Arc de Triomphe, followed by a plain black hearse bearing the marshal's body.

Coast Guard Saves 6,004 Lives in Year

Rear Admiral Billard Tells Radio Audience of Its Work.

Only vaguely alluding to its duties as the Nation's seagoing prohibition enforcement agency, the Coast Guard's commandant, Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard last night told, over a national radio hookup, of the work of his service. The multitudinous requirements of Coast Guardsmen were simply and graphically described by their commanding officer.

Work of the Coast Guard in saving life and property at sea, Admiral Billard said, constituted its greatest responsibility. In the last year, he pointed out, Coast Guard vessels and shore patrols, the latter occupying 277 coastwise stations, saved 6,004 lives and property estimated at $49,000,000. A total of 5,241 separate rescues was effected, he said.

In describing those Coast Guard duties which include rumchasing, Admiral Billard said: "Since its creation, in 1790, the Coast Guard has been charged with the prevention of smuggling into the United States from the sea. It is today actively and energetically engaged in combating smuggling operations that are being attempted on an extensive scale. In performing this duty the Coast Guard is simply upholding the Constitution of the United States and enforcing the laws of the United States upon the water."

Worker's Benefit Law Is Restricted

Absence on Personal Business Excludes Aid, Court Rules.

An employe who is killed while away from his employment on personal business is not entitled to benefits under the workmen's compensation act, according to a decision yesterday by the District Court of Appeals.

The decision was handed down in connection with the death of James N. Bradley, and on the appeal of the New Amsterdam Casualty Co.

Bradley, an employe of the Royal Glue Co., left his place of employment on personal business, being excused by his immediate superior. He went to a bank and cashed a personal check and was on his way to an insurance office to pay a premium when run over by a street car and killed.

At a hearing before Robert J. Hoage, deputy United States Employes Compensation Commissioner, a finding was reached that the man was entitled to compensation since he was temporarily absent in the course of his work. The casualty company, which insures employes of the glue company sought an injunction to prevent enforcement of the award to the widow. The District Supreme Court dismissed the bill, and the appeal was taken.

Colored Benefit Nets $875 for Unemployed

The citizens committee headed by Representative Oscar De Priest which sponsored a midnight show and charity benefit recently at the Lincoln Theater, announced last night that $875 was realized by the benefit, the proceeds of which were turned over directly to the citizens committee on unemployment, headed by Frederic A. Delano, through the Lichtman Theater management.

The steering committee in charge of the benefit consisted of Mrs. Milton A. Francis, Judge James A. Cobb and the Rev. Hampton T. Gaskins.

Senator Fletcher Is 72; Colleagues Pay Honor

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher (Democrat), of Florida, was 72 years old yesterday and his colleagues halted debate to pay tribute to the veteran member. "No one among us," said Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, "enjoys a fuller measure of confidence than the senator from Florida."

Senators Heflin, Goff and Trammell also joined in the tribute, which came from members of both major parties. In response, Senator Fletcher said: "The greatest satisfaction and pleasure of life is the assurance of the possession of friends, and the joy of meeting and associating with them."

150 Days Meted Man For 5 Petty Larcenies

Joseph John Whitney, alias James J. Whitmore, 20 years old, of G street northwest near Nineteenth street, was sentenced by Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court yesterday to serve 150 days in jail on five counts of petty larceny.

Whitney pleaded that he was out of work and penniless, but was unable to move the judge's heart. He is alleged to have made five forays on apartments in his building and apartments in a building on H street northwest near Seventeenth street. The Government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Wilbert McInerney.

WOOD GETS TASTE OF FIGHTING IN GERONIMO PURSUIT

believe you would think a horse could crawl, it was so steep and rocky. In fact, the mountains here are solid rock, with now and then a tree. Part of the way the road wound through a beautiful canyon, in the bottom of which was a little stream surrounded by willows, from each side of which mountains rose about 2,000 feet, almost straight up, and it was up them we went by a zigzag trail. Some of the descents were quite lively, for you knew that a slip meant a roll of anywhere from 50 to 500 feet down bare rock, steeper than the steepest rock. I rode second in the line and the captain whooped her up a little in some tough places to see how I took them."

"I am feeling a little stiff * * * having rode about 45 miles in the last 30 hours."

Lawton Did Not Spare Him.

Lawton had no mercy on his "acting assistant surgeon," and the young man's blisters and abrasions "heal in the saddle," as the Army phase goes. He is on his horse eighteen hours a day, learning to know the desert empire of the Apaches—the copper dome, austere and pitiless; the monotonous stretches, the heat, the Aladdin magic of dawn and dusk, the coolness of the night, the snapping stars.

(The Apaches they were pursuing were the most troublesome Indians left in the United States, famous for their cruelty and their endurance. Gen. George Crook had kept them at peace, but, under the exactions of white Indian agents, a body of 120 Apaches had broken out of their reservation under the leadership of a particularly savage and astute chieftain, Geronimo.)

They followed the trail two weeks, with the Apache scouts on foot wearing out the cavalry's horses. The hostiles had swept around the Huachuca Mountains, where they had not dared come for years. Thirty-five miles a day; 45 miles a day. Then on Sunday, July 26—

"First Indian fight today," Leonard wrote Jake. "Captured 27 horses, but had a hell of a climb. This morning were on trail at 4:30. At 2 struck two dead men, killed by the Indians at same time. Ran across Mexicans, scared to death, who told us many Indians on mountain top. This mountain peak rises solitary above the range and is the highest mountain in this part of country. Not a tree or shrub, but almost straight up, without the least cover. You can have no idea what, but when I tell you that men gave out and that it was three hours before we reached the top, you will get some idea.

"Well, it is a place which three determined men could hold against 500 for an hour. You have just plain shooting. The top is a little flat tableland. We went, and expecting them to open on us at any minute. One Indian, stripped except the breech cloth, we saw a few yards ahead. I had nothing but a big revolver. Capt. Lawton and myself came after the scouts.

"Well, to draw it short, they cut out without giving fight, leaving everything, and we shall have a hot trail tomorrow."

Indians Elude Them.

But the Indians eluded them. Lawton and Wood returned to their base camp, rested one day and rode 60 miles the next. The Apaches had melted into thin air, and they turned back to Huachuca to give their horses a breathing spell. Leonard Wood—bronzed, lacerated, hand and foot, but happy—"got the old gun out" and made himself disliked by waking the echoes at dawn next day shooting pigeons in the canyon above the post.

Wood was at Huachuca most of August, with exciting trips now and again into the heart of the Indian country to look after the sick, the wounded, the worn out among the troops in pursuit of the hostilities.

He was in the saddle, indeed, every day, even when he was at the post, for the ranchmen for 50 miles around were dependent in time of trouble on the Army doctors. Seven hundred, 800 miles a month on horseback was his regular fare. He loved it. The heat was terrific but he felt it less, he wrote Jake, than he had felt summer days at Pocasset, and the nights were cool and the air crystal-clear. He was back and forth on the trail into Mexico, a trail which was often no trail at all, so that for days on end he had to lead his horse. He learned what it meant to go without water for 36 hours; he became acquainted with the whistle of bullets about his ears; "quite a suggestive and not very pleasing sound," he wrote Miss Haskell.

On one of his trips, the middle of August, he discovered the fresh trail of eighteen unshod ponies, Indians, in the wagon track of a supply train he had passed scarce an hour before.

"I followed for a mile or two," he wrote Jake. "As I had only two men with me and the country was getting rough, I gave it up, which was fortunate, for they turned out to be Indians, and that very afternoon they ambushed twelve Mexicans, killing three and wounding two, one of whom was brought into the post."

Considered Alien by Officers.

The officers at the post are on the best of terms with him but regard him somehow as an alien. The older officers play poker and drink rum; the younger play billiards and drink beer. His diary contains cryptic references to the leading diversions of Army posts.

"Was with Capt X until quite late (Alcohol versus Capt. X). Capt X 2d best * * * In post. Second bout between parties above named, with same results."

Such combats have no particular charm for Wood. The men his own age are romping after the four years' grind at West Point, but apart from the hunting field he does not know how to play. Life is a serious, a grim proposition. "Leonard Wood," remarks Lieut. Dorst, the adjutant of the Fourth Cavalry, one day, "is the most ambitious man I ever met. He's ambitious enough to want to be President of the United States."

Throughout that winter of 1885-86 Geronimo continued to evade Crook, finally slipping from under his very hands. As a result Brig. Gen. Nelson A. Miles was sent to relieve him.

Wood met Miles at Fort Bowie the middle of April, and at once struck up a friendship with him. There was, for all the strut of him, a touch of glamour about Miles; and if he was vain, he had, it seemed, reason enough. He was the coming man, the youngest brigadier in the service, a notable Indian fighter, who had made his mark at Spottsylvania, a major general of volunteers at 25, and had everything almost that the human heart could ask, strength, beauty, ability, friends, a lovely and accomplished wife.

No one congratulated Miles on his new job. Everyone was dubious of the prospect of catching the elusive Apaches. When, therefore, young Dr. Wood told him with emphasis that the right sort of white men could in his opinion beat the Indians at their own game and walk them off their feet, the general took notice.

Put Plan Into Effect.

He had a plan and he set about energetically to put it in effect. There were to be several expeditions, lightly equipped and composed of the ablest and toughest officers and enlisted men he could find, to keep after the Indians until they died or surrendered; and the principal expedition was to be under the most determined and hardbit soldier he knew in Arizona, Lawton, with Wood as his medical officer.

Miles himself picked Wood for a certain combination he possessed of intelligence, physical power and resolute spirit.

"We have heard a good deal about the strength and endurance of the Apaches," he remarked to Wood. "You are probably in as good physical condition as any one to endure what they endure. I want you to go with Lawton and to take every opportunity that is given you to study the Indians. If they are better men physically than the white men, I want you to find out what makes them better."

Gen. Miles' orders were: "Capture or destroy." On May 5, 1886, the expedition left Fort Huachuca.

Eighteen miles the first day, 24 the second, 37 the third. In camp near Calabasas one of the Apache scouts finds mescal somewhere and gets drunk. Wood tried to talk him into reason. Daly, the Irish chief-packer, knows that a drunken Indian is a crazy Indian, and when he sees the scout's hand fall suddenly on his hunting knife, picks up a rifle, jumps forward and cracks the Indian over the head just as he is about to plunge the knife into Wood's heart.

Learns About Tenderfeet.

Wood stares at his alert savior, only half comprehending what has happened. The Irishman is not in a mood to receive expressions of gratitude. "What kind of a damn fool tenderfoot are you, any way? Don't you know enough to keep out of the way of a drunk Indian? What the hell brought you out in this country, when you haven't got sense enough to know when an Indian is getting ready to throw a knife in you? No wonder people like you get killed in this country! You blinkety-bland * * *."

Three minutes of this. Between fright at the Indian and awe of the Irishman, Wood can only stare bewildered, with jaw dropping.

The Apaches have struck south into Sonora and the next day Wood is off with Lawton and 60 men, following the trail until it fades in the dry rock of the mountain top. Horses have proved useless and the cavalry takes up the pursuit on foot.

"A frightful country," Wood writes in his diary May 10. "The ridges are right up and down. The whole mountains are on fire * * * Fires are all about us * * * evidently set by the Indians * * * to cover the trail and to delay us as much as possible. Animals badly frightened. The air is full of immense swarms of insects flying from the flames. * * * Dense, heavy clouds of smoke in camp * * * The heat has been tremendous."

Across the border. The country is bare and incredibly rough, many of the hills almost perpendicular, so that it is difficult to get the pack mules over them. Wood is on foot with the advance all day. They come upon two dead horses, two dead men, then on the hostiles' deserted camp. A little farther, some grass shacks, and in the bed of a stream nearby five dead Mexicans, their bodies beginning to swell; killed, evidently, a day or two previous at close range; miners, surprised by Apaches.

Many Horses Drop Out.

"Long, forced marches in an intensely hot sun," Leonard writes Jake from camp in the Paharita Mountains on May 21. "Many of our men and horses have played out. We have not see our pack train for four days. * * * Struck the Indians several times and picked up over 100 horses, dead and alive, but they have avoided a fight and split up into many small parties. * * * We are all exceedingly thin, and expect to be more so before long."

Lawton baffled in his pursuit, wished to get in touch with Miles and tried to persuade some cowboy in Calabasas to carry a dispatch to the telegraph office at Pantano. But the dread of the Apache lay heavily on the country-side; and there were rumors that the hostiles had cut in behind Lawton's command. No one was willing to take the chance except at an exorbitant fee.

"I told Capt. Lawton I would go in with the dispatch," Wood records in his diary under date of May 29, 1896. "Took one man from Territt's command, an old soldier who was about used up. Mounted him on Territt's mule, which was the only available animal. Left camp about 5 p. m. and headed for Pantano, distant about twenty-five miles, but on account of the crookedness of the trail, our losing it in the darkness, etc., the distance was increased probably five to ten miles. The old soldier played out when about two-thirds of the distance." * * *

He reached Pantano, telegraphed Miles and received orders to follow the trail as rapidly as possible wherever it might lead; had his horse shod and was off again two hours after midnight.

It was hard and lonely riding through the darkness back to camp. He reached it at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, just in time to have his breakfast, turn his horse into the pack-train and start out on foot with the Indians.

Ready to Play Pinochle.

He had marched twenty miles the previous day and ridden seventy miles during the night. That day he marched thirty-five miles more through difficult, waterless country, the last seven miles at a dog-trot with the Indian scouts; not altogether conscious for weariness what he was doing, but reaching camp an hour ahead of the infantry. And that night," ejaculated Lawton long after, "he wanted to play pinochle!"

The Yaqui Indian who invited the captain and the doctor that evening to his shack to partake of venison, tortillas and coffee at 50 cents a head seemed a messenger straight from heaven; but the huge ant hill on which Wood made his bed in the dark reminded him promptly that life could be lavish in a variety of ways.

On another occasion Lawton found it necessary to send a messenger to Sinoquipe, twenty miles to the west, to find out whether any news of the Apaches had arrived there. An old Mexican scout agreed to go taking five Indians, but when the time came, refused. Wood, provoked, volunteered to go alone.

"Left camp about 4 p. m. and after I had been about an hour on the road, while crossing a mesa, noticed the tracks of eight men wearing moccasins crossing the trail to the north. As it had rained within an hour and these tracks had been made since the rain, it was evident that they were not far distant. To make matters worse, my mule, when she crossed this trail, seemed to smell something and gave a loud yell characteristic of a mule.

"I had an anxious time of it from then on. I took a position in the rocks and waited for a while, to see if the mule's bellowing had been heard. Finally I went on. As I got near Sinoquipe I killed a couple of deer and left them across the trail. It was a foolish thing to do, but the temptation was too strong. Finally reached Sinoquipe, where I found that a man had been killed nearby an hour or two before, evidently by the very Indians whose tracks I had seen. This was the only Indian news in town.

"Waited until dark and started back to camp, reaching there about midnight, nearly breaking my neck over the side of a canyon, down which my mule and I took an ugly roll in the darkness. The object of the trip was to get fresh information about the Indians. This I got."

School Association Will Honor Fathers

"Father's Day" will be observed at the regular monthly meeting of the Park View Platoon School Association tomorrow evening in the school auditorium. A musical program has been arranged, following which there will be a social hour. Dean W. C. Reudiger of George Washington University will be the speaker. Refreshments will be served.

The association will be remembered for the part it played in making the boys and girls of the Gospel Mission Sunday School happy with its Christmas party and the presentation of clothing and toys.

LINTHICUM CHARGES U. S. RAN SPEAKEASY

INDIANA TRAP ALLEGED

(Associated Press.)

The charge that a "Government-owned speakeasy" figured in a Federal prohibition case that recently resulted in conviction of six Indianapolis policemen was made in the House yesterday by Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, an anti-prohibitionist.

Prohibition Director Woodcock informed Mr. Linthicum by letter, the latter said, that the Government paid rent on a room which the representative described as a "speakeasy." The letter, read into the record, asserted, however, that "no liquor was dispensed" in the room.

Mr. Linthicum said he had received many letters containing the open charge that "the prohibition operators in cooperation with the district attorney of Indianapolis deliberately set about to build up a sensational police scandal by the establishment of a speakeasy in that city.

"As a first step in the building up of their case," he continued, "two prohibition agents sent to Indianapolis from Chicago opened a liquor dispensing establishment at 1213 East Twenty-second street. Government funds were used to finance this illegal venture, which obviously was operated solely as a place of entrapment. Horace Lyle, a Negro informer, was in charge of this Government-owned speakeasy and the two Federal agents supplied liquor through dealing with one Taylor, a notorious bootlegger, who vanished before the trial. Another informer, one Henderson, was at the time a fugitive from justice."

Reading from the Woodcock letter Linthicum said:

"The records do show the allowance of a small sum of money for the rental of this particular room, which payment, I am advised, is entirely lawful. A place for making such contacts is apparently necessary in the development of these cases of conspiracy between public officials and those who violate the law. You may rest assured, however, that they will never be used as a place in which the law itself is violated."

Mrs. B. B. Burchard Dead at Age of 53

Funeral Set Tomorrow for Woman Prominent in Club Activities.

Mrs. Bessie Baker Burchard died yesterday at Emergency Hospital. She was 53 years old.

A native of Ransomville, N. Y., Mrs. Burchard spent most of her girlhood in Carthage Mo. In 1900 she was graduated from Northwestern University with a bachelor of arts degree, and in 1909 and 1910 she did graduate work at the University of Colorado. She married Ernest F. Burchard in 1910, and traveled extensively with him throughout the Orient and South America.

For two successive terms Mrs. Burchard served as chairman of the house committee of the American Association of University Women. She was prominent in the activities of the Twentieth Century Club. She was also a member of the Eistophos Science Club and Bannockburn Country Club.

Surviving are her husband, three brothers, Clyde Baker, of Purcell, Mo.; H. Durand Baker, of St. Louis, Mo., and Wesley W. Baker, of Miami, Fla. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the residence, 3403 Lowell street northwest. Canon W. S. Dunlap, of the National Cathedral, will officiate.

Samuel R. Dove, 66, Dies at Home Here

Agriculture Department Dispatch Clerk Spent Life in City.

Funeral services for Samuel Robert Dove, 66 years old, who died Monday at his home, 511 Kennedy street northwest, following a brief illness, will be held tomorrow from his residence, with solmn high requiem mass at the Church of the Nativity. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Dove was a lifelong resident of Washington and received his education in the city public schools. In his youth he became a clerk for the Pennsylvania Railroad, serving in this position for many years. In 1905 he was made chief clerk of the Richmond-Washington Railroad and held that position until appointed dispatch clerk in the United States Department of Agriculture. At the time of his death he was employed in the latter position. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Holy Name Society.

Surviving Mr. Dove are his wife, Mrs. Mary Gertrude Horstkamp Dove, whom he married in 1903, and four children, Mary Gertrude, Charles, Francis, and Harold.

RITES FOR MRS. HUME.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Phillips Norris Hume, who died at her home, 1235 Massachusetts avenue northwest, Monday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Church of the Ascension. Interment will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery, Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Hume, who was a lifelong resident of Washington, is survived by nine children. She was one of the incorporators of the Episcopal Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, and was a member of its board of lady managers as well as a member of the board of lady governors of Garfield Hospital.

and were flocking to the support of the league.

"Every program that the wets have offered," he said, "has been a liquor-selling program. You can't solve the alcohol problem by making and selling more liquor. To accept any of the wet programs would be to surrender. The American people have never surrendered, and they won't surrender now. We will fight, but we will never surrender."

Col. Woodcock, the enforcement chieftain, was not quite so emotional. He talked like the soldier that he is. He called his enforcement outfit an "army," and he told how he was training that army to meet the cunning of the bootleggers.

"I don't care whether the country is wet or dry," he said, "the country is going to be proud of the Bureau of Prohibition."

To the 450 at the rally, he made a plea for cooperation. He asked them not to try and get him to appoint men as prohibition agents who were manifestly impossible and he asked them not to expect his agents to go after petty violators. As well, he said, expect a hotel manager to have a guest arrested for stealing a towel. What he is after, Woodcock said, are the big commercial violators. He was cheered for this.

Dr. James M. Doran, who preceded Col. Woodcock, but who now is in charge of alcohol permits, said that the big question was not whether public officials would enforce prohibition, but whether the American public would support prohibition, and he urged the drys to work for law enforcement on the part of the public.

The rally was really an old-fashioned "pep" meeting, the kind that, multiplied by thousands, brought about prohibition. After the dinner was over, Dr. McGarey called on all the school teachers present to stand up. Then he called upon the judges and lawyers to stand up, and among those who responded was Police Court Judge Isaac Hitt.

Then he called upon newspaper men to hold up their hands. Two hands at the press table were held aloft. There was a third reporter at the church, but he was outside taking a smoke. He had tried to light up in the hall, but one of the drys in charge had politely asked him to refrain.

BUILDING INDUSTRY UNIT REORGANIZES

Trades Employers Association Elects Charles Dowd as New President.

AID TO BUY MOVEMENT

Coming as a solution to what has been described as "an unpleasant situation in the building industry," a decision was reached yesterday to reorganize the Building Trades Employers Association. This move is expected to give much impetus to the buy in Washington movement.

The decision to reorganize the Building Trades Employers Association came as the culmination of a series of meetings called by James F. Murtaugh, chairman of the cooperative committee of the association.

The decision was reached at a joint session of five members of the Steel Erectors Association, and five of the iron contractors association. These representatives, with full power to act, decided to "scrap" the former organization and unite upon "a new and carefully considered association."

Charles Dowd was elected president of the new body; Emil Schmidt, vice president, and Louis Otto, treasurer. Thomas Grant was named as temporary secretary. A committee consisting of J. H. Ford, of the Steel Erectors Association, and Mr. Schmidt, former president of the Iron Contractors Association, was appointed to draft rules for the new body to be laid before the full personnel of both organizations at a meeting called for 2 o'clock on the afternoon of January 20.

Mr. Murtaugh was given full credit for "his diplomatic and vigorous handling of what has been a most difficult situation."

At a meeting of the Buy in Washington council at the Willard Hotel, E. H. Rosengarten, vice president, presiding in the absence of E. J. Murphy, the president, called attention to the fact that the builders have been the "grateful" recipients of much help from the council. He asked in turn what could be done for the delegates in lines other than building.

John Colpoys suggested that similar benefit might be derived by the local meat packers, employing bakers and linoleum representatives. Representatives of these and other lines will be invited to the next meeting of the council, it was decided. The date of the next meeting will be announced by Mr. Murphy.

West Point Examination Dates Are Scheduled

Dates have been set for mental and physical examinations of candidates to fill a vacancy among District appointees to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the District Commissioners, announced yesterday. Eighteen candidates are being notified.

The mental tests will be held January 27-28 at the Franklin administration building, while the physical examination will be on January 26 at the fire truck house at Fourteenth street and Ohio avenue northwest. A principal and two alternates are to be chosen.

Walter Reed Area Extension Favored

$300,000 Is Provided in Bill to Enlarge Hospital Grounds.

Proposed extension of Walter Reed Hospital grounds to the south of the present limits was approved in a report made to the House yesterday by its military affairs committee.

The committee favorably reported the bill introduced by Representative John J. McSwain (Democrat), of South Carolina, providing $300,000 for acquisition of additional land between Sixteenth street and Georgia avenue immediately contiguous to the southern boundary of the hospital grounds.

The land which would be acquired under the provisions of the bill comprises 22.78 acres, exclusive of the ground which would be used for streets in accordance with the highway plan if that plan were followed out.

The bill authorizes the Secretary of War to initiate condemnation proceedings to take land owners of which do not want to sell at a price he considers fair and reasonable.

OBJECTIVES OF CIVIC COMMITTEES FIXED

CHAIRMEN STATE AIMS

Objectives for the current year of fourteen civic committees of the Washington Chamber of Commerce were outlined at a meeting yesterday of the bureau of civic and Federal affairs of the chamber. This was the first meeting under the new bureau plan of the chamber, which was decided upon when the five-year expansion program was adopted.

The aim of the bureau, as explained by Charles W. Darr, acting chairman, is to coordinate the work of the civic committees as well as to carry out specific objectives for the current year.

Among the specific objectives listed for 1931 are: Extension of the public school system, more library branches and an enlarged main library, intensive study of the District public health survey findings, intensified efforts for the extension of Washington's park and playground system, continuance of the fight for national representation and the furtherance of efforts to improve fiscal relations and to promote long-time financial planning.

Committee chairmen and the committees they represent, who spoke at the meeting included Col. William O. Tufts, chairman, committee on universities, colleges and private schools; Charles H. Le Fevre, chairman, committee on public schools; Dr. Arthur Deerin Call, chairman, public libraries committee; Col. Edward Goring Bliss, chairman, District finance committee; Harry M. Bedell, chairman, high water pressure committee; Thomas Slater Settle, chairman, public recreation committee, and Mr. Darr, chairman, police and fire protection committee.

Montana Woman Lost 17 Pounds Weight in 4 Weeks

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer, of Lewiston, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

When stout women can lose fat and at the same time gain in energy and vigor.

Gain in charm and vivaciousness.

Gain a healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

And at insignificant cost—isn't it time to use common sense?

Please read this letter carefully:

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. Just try one bottle and by following directions, I am sure it will convince any one. I bought my second bottle today."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

Why not try one bottle—if not joyfully satisfied—money back. When taking Kruschen you can reduce more swiftly by cutting out pastry and fatty meat—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—it's the safe way to reduce.—Adv.

DRY LAW ARGUMENT SET FOR JANUARY 21

Supreme Court to Hear Oral Views on Clark Ruling as to Validity.

PLEA FOR DELAY FAILS

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court broke a speed record yesterday to set January 21 for hearing oral argument on Judge Clark's decision holding the prohibition amendment invalid.

The court matched the record of the Government in filing its appeal within two days after the decision was rendered.

In approximately one month after the widely published decision was made the controversy will pass into the hands of the highest tribunal for final decision.

Chief Justice Hughes, when the Supreme Court met yesterday, announced the appeal would be taken up for argument on January 21 ahead of all other cases then awaiting presentation. This will enable the court to render its decision before the present term ends in June.

Counsel for William H. Sprague and William J. Howey, whose indictment on charges of transportation and possession of 50 half-barrels of beer resulted in Judge Clark's ruling, sought to have the argument postponed until April 15.

Solicitor General Thacher had contended the appeal presented no new questions and that the Supreme Court already had passed on the questions raised by Judge Clark's decision. He announced the Government was readyy to argue the appeal as soon as the court could take it up.

Government counsel are confident, in view of former decisions of the Supreme Court, that it will reverse Judge Clark's ruling.

New Prior Installed At House of Studies

The Very Rev. Justin McManus, who was recently elected prior of the Dominican House of Studies to succeed the Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, recently made provincial of the Dominican Fathers in the United States, has been formally installed in his new office at Brookland.

Father McManus was ordained to the priesthood in 1918, and after completing postgraduate courses at Catholic and Columbia Universities he taught philosophy at Providence College, Providence, R. I., until 1927. He was then appointed president of Aquinas College, at Columbus, Ohio, a post which he held until a week ago.

Garner Awarded Honor In Plant Physiology

Dr. Wightman W. Garner, physiologist in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, received the Steven Hales prize at the annual meeting of the American Society of Plant Physiologists in Cleveland last week. The award is made "in recognition of service to the science of plant physiology. Dr. Garner lives at 1367 Parkwood place northwest.

Discoveries pertaining to the effect of the length of day on plants won the honor for Dr. Garner. Research work by him and his associates disclosed that of all the factors of environment that affect plant life, the length of the day is outstanding in its action on reproduction.

7 BODIES ARE FOUND AFTER MINE BLAST

40 FLEE FROM SHAFT

Glen Rogers, W. Va., Jan. 6 (A.P.). Seven bodies had been recovered tonight from the Raleigh-Wyoming Co.'s mine near here, scene of an explosion early today, and search was continued for an eighth man.

Only the presence of rock-dust in the workings prevented the explosion from spreading, according to R. M. Lambie, chief of the West Virginia department of mines, and extending the toll among approximately 40 other miners who escaped after the blast. State mine inspectors were preparing to enter the mine for the monthly inspection at the time and immediately took up the task of directing the work of rescue.

Lambie characterized the mine as "extremely gaseous."

The United States Bureau of Mines rescue car at Montgomery was dispatched to the scene to aid in rescue efforts.

The mine normally employes approximately 450 miners on the day and night shift.

Officials said the explosion was confined to four working places in one section.

INVASION OF THE HOME.

When Senator Howell completed the draft of his now-famous bone-dry bill for the District of Columbia he sent it to the Attorney General for an opinion and was informed that in certain essential respects the bill should be redrafted if it were to be held constitutional and if it were to become of value in the war against bootleggers. Senator Howell, however, refused to heed the suggestions of the Attorney General, and the bill now before the Senate is in the form in which it was originally drawn. In his annual message to Congress President Hoover recommended that measures intended to improve law enforcement in the District of Columbia, "partially completed in the last sitting," be approved in the present session. The Howell bill is the only measure of this nature now before Congress, and it is expected that its friends, encouraged by what they may construe to be a favorable recommendation by the President, will labor actively in behalf of its enactment at an early date.

The Howell bill provides that all Washington policemen shall have authority to enforce the national prohibition laws, a proper provision to which no objection should be raised; but it provides further that search warrants may be issued upon the mere suspicion that liquor had been delivered to or was being delivered from a private dwelling. It is against this section of the bill that principal objection is raised, in that it seeks to violate the constitutional guarantee of the sanctity of the home. Senator Howell, however, has contended that this section is the heart of the bill. He intends to press vigorously for its adoption, even though the provision is obviously unconstitutional.

What would be the fate of the search provision of the Howell bill were it to become law? The answer may be reached from consideration of the recent ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of the United States vs. Go-Bart Importing Co. The principals of the Go-Bart company were found guilty some time ago of conspiring to violate the prohibition laws upon information obtained in a raid staged upon a warrant sworn out entirely on rumors of law violation. The Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Associate Justice Butler, held that the action of the Government constituted a "lawless invasion of the premises" and that the documents seized during the raid were not admissible as evidence. Asserting that the second clause of the fourth amendment "prevents the issue of warrants on loose, vague or doubtful bases of fact," Justice Butler added, with respect to the amendment:

> It emphasizes the purpose to protect against all general searches, since before the creation of our Government such searches have been deemed obnoxious to the fundamental principles of liberty. They are denounced in the constitutions of every State in the Union. The need of protection against them is attested alike by history and present conditions. The amendment is to be liberally construed, and all owe the duty of vigilance for its effective enforcement lest there be impairment of the rights for the protection of which it was adopted. * * * By pretension of right and threat of force he (the Government agent) compelled Gowen (the defendant) to open the desk and safe and with the others made a general and apparently unlimited search, ransacking the desk, safe, filing cases and other parts of the office. It was a lawless invasion of the premises and a general exploratory search in the hope that evidence of crime might be found.

Surely Senator Howell, in the face of the ruling of the highest court of the land and the vigorous language of its opinion, will no longer seek to push the bill that clearly would nullify the fourth amendment and which has for its express purpose the sanctioning of "exploratory" searches of private homes.

NEW TYPE OF PRISON.

Interest in the report of the New York commission which has been studying prison administration and construction will be Nation-wide. This commission was put to work following two serious prison riots in New York and a number of mutinous outbreaks in other States. It has confined its studies to New York prisons, but since the causes of all the riots during the last year are closely related, the report will have general application.

In brief, the remedy proposed for prison rioting is segregation. The report implies that the housing of large numbers of convicts in a single institution gives rise to cliques, to plotting and intrigue. Overcrowding was immediately recognized as one of the primary causes for prison outbreaks. That the population of a prison should be reduced to a point where every inmate can be properly housed in a cell or room of his own is taken for granted. The commission goes farther than this, however, and says that prison units should be smaller.

A new type of penal institution, referred to as a "medium security prison," is recommended. Instead of advising more formidable walls and more secure cells, the commission suggests that a certain class of prisoners be allowed greater freedom. To make this practical it outlines a plan for a model prison equipped to house not more than 504 persons. Each inmate would have a room of his own, instead of a cell. The prison would be arranged into four widely separated wings, and the population would be divided into two distinct groups. The institution would be inclosed within a cyclone fence, rather than a wall, so that air and sunshine would not be shut out, and supervision could be maintained from the outside as well as from the inside.

Prisoners sent to this institution would be carefully selected and classified. Only those considered fit for rehabilitation would be accommodated. Incorrigibles would be kept in the cells of the old-fashioned bastiles. It is felt that the greater freedom, the more adequate training and supervision that would be possible in a "medium security prison" would be conducive to the reclamation of misguided individuals who have succumbed to temptations. These prisons would be fully equipped with work shops, and it may be presumed that each inmate would be taught how to make a living at some useful work. The commission also believes that they would be less of an expense to the State.

On the whole, this seems to be a reasonable and practical approach to the problem. If New York follows this plan in its prison building program, it will become a most interesting and valuable experiment.

MARINES IN NICARAGUA.

Secretary Stimson has revealed plans for withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua after the presidential election of 1932. It may be assumed that this decision is contingent upon the establishment in the meantime of native forces capable of maintaining order and peace. The United States Government would not, of course, be justified in exposing the lives and property of American citizens in that country to destruction in 1932 or at any other time. Until Nicaragua can maintain order the United States must do so. Otherwise a collapse into anarchy, involving danger to all foreigners, would force American intervention.

It is difficult to follow the logic of Senator King in demanding the return of these marines as a result of last week's skirmish with bandits in which eight marines were killed. The fact that Sandino and his marauders are threatening the peace of the republic is the strongest reason why the marines should remain. Sandino has just issued orders to his followers to "burn the cities of our republic," and is apparently determined to launch another open rebellion.

The United States Government, of course, deplores this situation. It does not pretend to fight the battles of any other government. A few marines have lost their lives, but if the force were withdrawn the citizens and subjects of many governments might be sacrificed. This Government can not withdraw protection from Nicaragua while foreign intervention is on the horizon.

President Moncada, of Nicaragua, petitions the United States to allow the marines to remain until pacification of that country has been completed. There are indications that the Nicaraguans are leaving too much of the responsibility for maintaining order to the United States. In return for the cooperation of this Government Moncada ought to make a greater effort to build up the national guard so that it will be fully capable of protecting the country. The fixing of a tentative date for the withdrawal of the American force should stimulate the development of the native constabulary. But it is obvious that an arbitrary withdrawal of the marines at this time might be disastrous. The United States is bound to avert a situation that would warrant the occupation of Nicaragua by a foreign power.

DEPORTATION OF ALIENS.

Secretary of Labor Doak's estimate that 400,000 aliens are in the United States unlawfully is shocking to law-abiding citizens. If this estimate is correct thousands of American citizens are out of work because jobs are held by foreigners who violated the laws of the United States and forced their way into the country. The few aliens who might be excluded by halting immigration while the depression lasts would count for little in comparison with this army of aliens who are already here unlawfully.

It is estimated that 100,000 of them are subject to deportation. Why have they not been deported? Every foreigner who comes to this country in defiance of its laws is required by law to be deported. Yet only 16,631 aliens were deported last year. The law reaches only a fraction of those who are smuggled into the United States. It is not surprising that foreigners are willing to run the risk of being deported. With such a poor showing in the enforcement of the immigration laws the Government can not expect these laws to be respected.

It is apparent, however, that the Labor Department has been doing its utmost with the limited facilities available. Deportation of aliens is a costly and complicated process. To increase the present rate of deportations by only 25 per cent, says Mr. Doak, an additional appropriation of $600,000 would be necessary. Should that expenditure be made under the existing system action could be taken on only a fraction of the cases that ought to be handled. This inadequacy permits thousands of law violators to become permanent and legal residents.

Secretary Doak recommends some changes to facilitate the deportation process, but it may be doubted if any substantial improvement can be made under the existing system. The burden of detecting and convicting aliens who are here unlawfully is upon the Government. The whole process ought to be reversed. Every alien who comes to the United States to share in its opportunities and privileges ought to be required to give an account of himself. Every alien should be registered. This registration would protect law-abiding aliens who entered this country lawfully, and it would facilitate the detection of law-breakers.

Secretary Doak's statement indicates that the machinery for deportation of aliens is the weakest spot in the immigration laws. An emergency act excluding all immigration this year would not relieve the unemployment situation nearly so much as would deportation of all foreigners who are unlawfully in the United States. Many arguments can be raised for the admittance of foreigners whose skill is needed in American industry, but there can be no argument for permitting undesirables who have violated the law to remain here. Congress should give the Bureau of Immigration a larger force with which to run down and deport aliens who have sneaked into the United States.

LOSS OF 150,000 FARMS

By L. C. SPEERS,
In the New York Times.

The United States continues to grow more and more industrial and less and less agricultural. The census of 1930 when completed will show that there are about 150,000 fewer farms in the United States today than there were in 1920. Twenty years ago one-third of all the people in the country were on the farms; today only 22 or 23 per cent are. In twenty years the farm population has dropped from 32,076,960 to an estimated 27,222,000—a loss of 4,854,960. Farm values, taken as a whole, are lower today than they have been at any time in a decade.

The loss in farm population achieves a greater significance when it is viewed in relation to the gain in national population, which rose from 91,972,266 in 1910 to 105,710,620 in 1920 and 122,775,046 in 1930. On the basis of 27,222,000 farm population, three and a large fraction—not quite four—out of every five Americans are now in the towns and cities.

According to William M. Steuart, director of the census, it will be some time yet before we know just what the decreased totals are; but we know that in 1930 the number of farms operated in the United States was about 150,000 less than the number disclosed by the census of 1920.

"The story of the decrease in number of farms is an interesting one," Mr. Steuart said. "The decrease has been greatest in the industrial States of the East and Central West. In 25 States the number in 1930 is less than in 1920; in 1923 it is greater. In the decrease it is worth noting that only three States west of the Mississippi River—Missouri, Montana and Idaho—are involved, which shows that the agricultural West is at least holding its own, even though in some of those States the increases have been exceedingly small as, for instance in Kansas, where the number in 1930 is less than 1,000 more than was the number ten years ago.

"A majority of the Cotton Belt States also showed increased number of farms, only two being in the minus column—South Carolina and Georgia.

"In 25 States, which include New England, the Atlantic Coast States and District of Columbia, the Midwestern States on this side of the Mississippi and the three States west of the Mississippi—Missouri, Idaho and Montana—the farms in 1930 were 3,009,739 as compared with 3,386,840 in 1920, a loss of 377,101. In the 23 States showing increased numbers of farms the number in 1920 was 3,060,493 and in 1930 3,287,125—an increase of 226,632. For the Nation the net loss is therefore 150,469 farms.

"The increases are in the States of Minnesota, Iowa, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, North Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Washington, Oregon and California.

"It is significant that in Mississippi, one of the banner cotton States, the farms in 1930 are about 40,000 more in number than in 1920, while in Texas they are nearly 60,000 in excess of the 1920 return; in Oklahoma 12,000, in Louisiana about 26,000, in Arkansas about 11,000, in North Carolina 10,000, in Florida 5,000 and in Alabama a little over 1,000. Averaged up this is pretty good evidence that our cotton acreage is still a national asset of the first rank.

"While the increase is not so marked in the grain States west of the Mississippi it nevertheless shows that the exodus from the farms in that area has not assumed alarming proportions. In Minnesota there are about 7,000 more farms than in 1920; in South Dakota, 9,000; in Nebraska, 5,000; in Iowa, 3,000; in North Dakota, 360; in Kansas, 800; in Arizona, 3,200; in Utah, 1,400; in Washington, 5,000; in Oregon, 5,000; in California, 18,000; in Nevada, 300; in Wyoming, 300; in Colorado, 600, and in New Mexico, 1,500.

"The darkest side of the picture is in the Central States, particularly in the Corn Belt. Ohio is great industrially and also great in agriculture, and in that State the number of farms has dropped from 256,695 in 1920 to 219,659 in 1930—a loss of about 37,000 in ten years—while in Indiana the decrease for the same period is 23,000; in Illinois, about 22,000; in Michigan, 26,000; in Wisconsin, 7,000; in Kentucky, 23,500, and in Tennessee a little less than 7,000. For New England the loss approximates 30,000, while in New York State the decrease is 33,000 and in Pennsylvania, 30,000. There are 5,000 fewer farms in New Jersey now than in 1920; 4,500 in Maryland and about 400 in Delaware."

SEIJI NOMA OF JAPAN.

Seiji Noma is the magazine "king" of Japan, according to the Kansas City Star. He controls 70 per cent of the magazine business of that country and one of his nine monthlies is reported to have a circulation of 1,500,000 copies. His record is all the more remarkable in that he started life as an obscure school teacher, who had to tramp the streets of Tokyo to find a backer for his first publishing venture.

Mr. Noma was inspired to undertake his large scale enterprise by the example of an American magazine and he early learned the American lesson that "advertising pays." But he appears to be the kind of man who would have made his mark irrespective of method or profession. For, according to his biographer, Mr. Noma possesses one quality that has been observed to distinguish most men who have made an outstanding success in any field. He has a remarkable vitality and capacity for work.

He is described as being twice the size of the average Japanese, with a large head, strong brows, eagle eyes and a bushy mustache streaked with gray. He is said to be an excellent fencer. He customarily works by night and sleeps by day. But he has been known to go without sleep for three nights and days. The mere physical powers of such a man always give him a great, and too little recognized, advantage over competitors not so well endowed.

The Other Fellow's Driving Seems Wrong if You Are Used to Holding the Wheel.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

If you would learn why many experiments fail, discover why one succeeds. If nine rose bushes are sick and barren and a tenth is healthy and prolific, you needn't hunt further for an explanation when you discover that the tenth was sprayed and the others were not.

Or if ten gardeners have been equally and uniformly successful and a few of them begin to fail more often than they succeed, you are safe in assuming that the few have changed their methods.

Find a home in which the husband is reasonably decent and the wife a woman of the type commonly described as old-fashioned and you have found a successful marriage.

Find a home where husband and wife live unhappily on the verge of divorce, and unless the husband is a brute you have found a wife who isn't old-fashioned.

If the marriages of old-fashioned women succeed, and many other marriages fail, what further evidence is needed to convince you that such unions fail because the wives aren't old-fashioned?

And if marriage fails more frequently than it did in the time of our fathers, and men have changed but little while women have changed a great deal, isn't it clear that the change in matrimony is due to the change in women?

The word "old-fashioned," used to describe the woman whose marriage is successful, is not meant to imply that she is dowdy or out of style or behind the times in ways that matter, but only that her attitude toward marriage and her conception of its obligations make her similar to the wives of fifty years ago.

There are many, many reasons why modern marriages fail—loss of religious faith, want of children and apartment life among them—but there is no more prolific cause than the fact that the modern woman is economically independent and so worldly wise, so free and so cultivated that she hasn't one chance in fifty of finding a man she can "look up to."

You can't trick nature. It is nature's way for the male to head the herd. It is nature's way for the wife to respect, revere and be guided by her mate. But she can't do it if she is experienced in cocksure self-reliance—not unless she is so fortunate as to find a male wonder.

A woman can't love a man if she can't "look up to him." And marriage without love is doomed.

It is no longer easy for a woman to find a man worthy of her adoration, and to marry one to whom she feels superior is to invite a relationship intolerable to his self-respect and her own.

PRO AND CON

Interfering With Commissions.

New York World.

The various independent commissions which have been set up in Washington occupy a peculiar position. Senator Couzens and other critics of the President appear to regard the Interstate Commerce Commission as having a status like that of a Federal court, and that the Executive should avoid any utterance which might influence its decisions. That the analogy does not hold is shown by the senator's own action in moving a resolution instructing the commission to refrain from carrying out an act of Congress. One would hardly think of Congress's acting in exactly that way toward the courts.

Undoubtedly there has been too much interference in the recent past with the duties of the independent commissions.

Supreme Court and Repeal.

New York Times.

"We all know what judges will do," said John Selden. The trouble is that we don't, as was seen, for example, in the famous decision of the Supreme Court in the income-tax case. So that it can not be guaranteed that the Supreme Court will not reverse itself in the prohibition case. But the chances are overwhelmingly great that it will not. At any rate, it is well for opponents of prohibition to make up their minds that the eighteenth amendment will not be set aside in the way sought. Other means to change or repeal it will have to be invoked.

Stand By!

Atlanta Constitution.

Senator Watson says he will "stand by the President" as often as he can find out where the President stands. Attaboy, Jim!

Afraid of Congress.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The country is slowly fighting its way out of a depression of considerable dimensions. To some degree the situation is made worse than necessary by a fear psychology which has cropped up here and there. A good part of this fear is that Congress may run amuck with some of the legislation advocated by radicals of the Borah-Norris-Brookhart stripe. The uncertainty thus created runs in a vicious circle.

It has always been preached that hard times makes fertile soil for the seeds of radicalism. What the country needs is a breathing space—a period from March to December free from legislative uncertainty, at least so far as Federal legislation is concerned. An extra session will simply mean that the year 1931 will be made unnecessarily harder.

But Gosh, the Individuals!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Americans Can Not Afford to Neglect Small Local Governments, Upon Which the National Structure Rests.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Commenting on the neglect of citizens to give serious attention to the needs of their local governments, a Post editorial says, "Unwillingness to accept responsibility is one of the first symptoms of failure."

This particularly applies to exemplary and capable citizens who have succeeded in business and whose united efforts would result in efficient administration in any community. This class is specially qualified for the study and management of municipal affairs, and the pity of it is that its failure in local service results not so much from indifference as, no doubt, from a mistaken point of view.

In other words, they do not realize that if our system of government is ever to approach perfection it must be on a foundation cemented in the purity of local self-government. Exalted service may be done in the Legislature, in Congress, in the White House, but in the purview of political science it is a matter of greater importance to purge and stabilize the management of one's native town.

It is easy to understand how a man of affairs may think of high political preferment in his desire to round out a successful career by making good in the interest of the commonweal. If he misses the opportunities near at hand it is because he is only human and, like the great mass of his fellow-citizens, is inclined to neglect "the day of small things."

Perhaps some day we will all see that, while political champions serve a good purpose in the more or less spectacular administration of affairs, it is the spirit and understanding of the village patriot upon which we must depend for the continuance of our representative system as originally conceived in the framing of the Constitution.

Meantime, as I believe, there are signs of a slow awakening to the extreme importance of seeming small things, small things that are indispensably fundamental in the development of the Federal Government. Let the awakening continue, and it will not be long until even Old World misanthropists will recognize the futility of the sneer that the American system is still in its experimental stage. FEDERALIST.

Historic Landmarks Should Not Be Destroyed in Creation of New Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In this day of creating national shrines by restoring famous birthplaces and other points of interest, Washington seems to have adopted an opposite course and is apparently engaging in an orgy of tearing down historic buildings, to be replaced by another and favorite type of edifice. Hence the old Center Market, patronized by Presidents, visited by famous people from all over the world, and always a favorite spot for sightseers, mule and laborers were gathered this morning ready to begin the work of destruction.

Our legislators are making a great mistake in sponsoring the beautifying program as it is now being carried out. Old buildings of historic interest should not be destroyed; restore and repair them if necessary, but retain them by all means for future generations. To beautify a city should not necessitate erecting one building after another of practically identical appearance—a little variety is most restful and appealing to the eye. And with so many rookeries and other eyesores occupying certain sections of our city, why pick on Center Market?

Why have all the Government buildings in practically the same location? It will surely require an expert to solve the traffic problems that are going to arise. MRS. X. Y. Z.

Was Center Market Site to Be Returned to Heirs of Notley Young?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just read in The Post of the passing of Center Market. I would like to have you to tell me through your paper if the seventeen parcels of ground bought by President Washington for the market was part of Notley Young's estate and if it was sold or given with a proviso to return it to his heirs when it ceased to be used for a market. In December, 1899, when the old market burned, every paper in Washington took up the cry to pay the heirs of Notley Young, for the market was gone. About fifteen years ago some congressman took up the cry again, to clear the title to Center Market and pay the heirs. Where can the deed of transfer be found of this market-ground from the original owners?

Please let me have your answer in your paper. I have been told all my life that when Center Market's doors were closed the ground would return to the heirs of Notley Young. The story was always told exactly the same way. I understand Notley Young gave untold land to this beautiful city of Washington. Deeds always are truthful. I thank you. OLD WASHINGTONIAN.

A WOOD BURNING TRUCK.

To the unmechanical layman the idea of burning wood in an internal combustion engine on a truck seems preposterous, says the Detroit News. But the proposal is beyond the theoretical stage. It is receiving a thorough test by the Quartermaster Corps Area of the United States Army at San Francisco, and Maj. Gen. C. L. Hines, commander of the area, says he thinks it is a success.

The device, invented in France, distills a dry gas from wood. A tank filled with chips or blocks of wood produces charcoal and the gases generated in the process are drawn through a series of condensers into the intake manifold of the engine. Lacking free oxygen, the dry gases are converted into an explosive compound by admixture of air. About three and one-eighth pounds of wood will run a truck a mile. The tank or generator holds sufficient wood for a 50-mile trip.

Army reports indicate that a cord of wood costing $4 will run an Army truck 750 miles. The cost of gasoline for the same performance would be $9.75. There is the added advantage that an old rail fence or any scrap lumber will replenish the fuel supply should the tank become empty on a trip.

OIL CASE APPEALS HEARINGS DELAYED

Lack of New Justices Given as Reason for Blackmer, Fall Postponements.

HITZ IS HELD INELIGIBLE

Hearings of appeals from convictions in two cases growing out of the oil scandals were postponed yesterday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

The cases involved Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, and Harry M. Blackmer, millionaire oil man. Fall is under sentence of a year and a fine of $100,000 following conviction here on a charge of accepting a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, in connection with the Elk Hills naval leases. Blackmer was found guilty of contempt of court in two instances for failure to answer a subpena in two of the oil cases. He was sojourning in Paris at the time and through his attorneys claimed service of the subpenas by consular agents was illegal.

Action of the court came as a result of the fact that Chief Justice George E. Martin has declined to sit on the cases and there has been delay in filling the two newly created appellate seats. President Hoover on Monday nominated Justice William Hitz, of the District Supreme Court, and Judge D. Lawrence Groner, of Norfolk, Va., to the posts, but neither has been confirmed.

Justice Hitz, if confirmed, will be ineligible, since he sentenced Fall, and the bench that will hear the appeals will consist only of three justices.

HOOVER SEES BRIGHT OMEN IN AUTO TRADE

Commerce that despite the depression you have manufactured and sold during the year 1930 over 3,500,000 new automobiles. You have also disposed of large inventories of a year ago. Hundreds of miles of new roads are being constructed every day in the world and these increasing miles must be equipped with more automobiles.

"I am informed also that the consumption of gasoline during the last year shows an increase of 5 per cent over even the highly optimistic year of 1929.

"This certainly indicates that we have been cheerful in the use of our automobiles; I do not assume they are being used for transportation to the poorhouse. While I am aware that many people are using the old automobile a little longer, it is obvious that they are still using it and that it is being worn out. Altogether, the future for the industry does not warrant any despondency.

"No one needs to recall the utility and importance of the automobile in our national life. I have often wondered, however, if part of its popularity was not due to the exhilarating sense of power that we all inhale through the mastery over time and space we gain from it. It brings a sense of freedom that makes our spirit rise even though it sometimes invites for some people the depressing admonitions of a motorcycle policeman.

"I wish you success in your meeting and in the organization plan which you put forward for the new year. Every automobile and truck which you make and sell adds to employment in a hundred different trades. Yours is, indeed, a great and vital industry, the success of which is important to every one of us. I sincerely wish you a prosperous new year."

Dry Repeal Is Issue In Two Legislatures

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Repeal of the Ohio prohibition enforcement laws became a question of the first magnitude before the Ohio General Assembly today when resolutions were introduced simultaneously in the Senate and House providing for a vote of the people on the proposal to repeal the laws.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Amendment of the Eberwood law to provide light wines and beers for Rhode Island and a memorial to Rhode Island senators and representatives urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment were provided in legislation introduced by members of the Republican majority in the House and Senate here today as the 1931 Assembly convened.

ENDURANCE RECORD SET BY AVIATRICES

SPRAYED WITH GASOLINE

Los Angeles, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Bobbie Trout, with a new girl flying partner, Edna May Cooper, actress and aviatrix, set a new women's endurance flight record today. At 9:47 a. m. she piloted the Lady Rolph an hour past the previous record of 42 hours 16 minutes, set by herself and Elinor Smith, New York aviatrix, some months ago.

Soaring on beyond the new feminine mark, the two swung around another milestone in their flight this afternoon. At 2:30 p. m. the trim monoplane had been in the air 48 hours. The girl fliers declare they aim to crack, if possible, the present men's mark of 645 hours, held by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, of St. Louis.

The monotonous round above the municipal airport was abandoned for three hours between today's refueling times as the girls hied themselves in search of new scenes, flying above Hollywood, Beverley Hills, Santa Monica and the beaches.

Rough air, from a choppy wind which followed last night's inconvenient rainstorm, upset the noon refueling. Miss Cooper got a shower bath of gasoline, and the Lady Rolph obtained but 38 gallons of fuel. An emergency refueling was made at midafternoon, when the air was comparatively quiet.

A tasty luncheon of various delicacies was spurned. Instead a pound of chocolates was joyously received.

Miss Cooper, who applied a generous coat of ointment to her face after the gasoline bath, ordered a chamois skin mask for future protection from such mishaps.

Tomorrow Miss Trout will celebrate her twenty-fifth birthday. She does not plan any loops to express her joy, however—just continuous plain sailing on the long road toward the men's endurance flight record.

NEW YORK AROUSED BY KILLING OF THREE

HEAD OF FAMILY IS SHOT

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Three murders—a girl, an elderly and amiable business man, and a young convict—excited New York today.

Doris Reiling, a girl in her 'teens, who tended a bakery on Broadway near 179th street, was killed by a blow dealt with such terrific force that it crushed her skull.

Late today her foster-father, Frederick Reiling, confessed the slaying. He struck her down with a steel stool.

That was around 7 a. m. Two hours later, in Brooklyn, Philip Piccataggi, 58 years old, mild of manner and the head of a congenial family, was shot down in front of a shoe shop by two men, one with a shotgun, the other with a pistol. The motive was unknown.

Thomas Diorio, only a few weeks out of Elmira Reformatory, was done to death, apparently for incurring gang displeasure. His body, washed by the steady downpour of rain, lay in a Bronx gutter when found today, into the back of the head. There was a bullet that had drilled. Rain obliterated any evidence as to his slayers. Police, however, said he had been "taken for a ride," slain and then, like a bag of wheat, tossed out of the car. What brought the wrath of gang guns to him was undetermined.

DROUGHT SUFFERING SCENES DESCRIBED

Red Cross Man Reports on Harrowing Conditions He Observed in West.

344,000 WILL NEED AID

St. Louis, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Graphic reports of suffering in the Illinois-Missouri-Arkansas-Oklahoma drouth area were made public today by the mid-Western branch of the American Red Cross, which is administering relief to thousands of families.

To check up reports received from local officers, Albert Evans, assistant national director of disaster relief, went to St. Francis and Lee Counties, Ark., Christmas Day and investigated the condition of 37 families taken at random.

"It is almost impossible to picture the conditions I found," he reported. "There was only one home that had made any attempt at Christmas decoration and that was meager. I found six families had received Red Cross assistance and one of these had shared its provisions with another family."

Evans said the Midwestern branch of the Red Cross at the beginning of the year was supplying food and clothing to 27,835 families in southeast Missouri, southern Illinois, Arkansas and Oklahoma, and before the winter is over expects to help 86,000 families, or about 344,000 persons.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy every mother should learn all about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get only genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

WELL-TRAINED, courteous Pennsylvania dining-car waiters place before you food fit for a king. If you are on a diet, or if your appetite is jaded, they will be glad to help you select an appetizing meal.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Yale Class To Be Guests Of Stimson

Elaborate Entertainment Planned by Secretary for January 31.

THE rousing measures of "Old Eli" will ring through the stately halls of Woodley on Saturday evening, January 31, when Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson, will be host to the class of '88, of Yale University. Cognizant of the fact that "when good fellows get together" old gridiron battles are fought over again and tales of the campus revived to give a spirit of commeraderie, Secretary Stimson has arranged to have the men quartered together at the Wardman Park Hotel and will provide automobiles for sightseeing that afternoon and on Sunday morning after the dinner.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson entertained at dinner last evening in honor of the dean of the Diplomatic Corps, Senor Don Manuel Tellez, and Senora de Tellez. The other guests included the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, the Minister of Sweden, Mr. W. Bostrom; the Minister of Nicaragua and Senora de Sacasa, the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, Senator and Mrs. Claud A. Swanson, Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Sydney A. Cloman, Mrs. McCook Knox, Mr. Herschel Johnson, and Capt. Eugene A. Regnier.

Mr. Johnson is serving as chief of the Division of Mexican Affairs in the State Department. He succeeded Mr. Arthur Bliss Lane, who is now attached at the United States Embassy in Mexico City as counselor.

Senator and Mrs. Morrow have returned to Washington after spending the holidays at their home in Englewood, N. J.

The Chilean Ambassador and Senora Davila will be the guests in whose honor the Financial Counselor of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Boncesco will entertain at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel this evening.

The guests will include the Counselor of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Nano, the Counselor of the Czechoslovakian Legation and Mme. Skalicky, Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood, of New York, and Mrs. Greenwood's sister, Miss Maud Dayton, also of New York; Col. R. C. Foy and Mrs. Foy, Mr. Pierre de Salis, Attache of the Swiss Legation; Mr. Harold H. T. Horan, Miss Linda Cella, Miss Fulda Cella and their brother, Mr. Roberto Cella.

De Lignes Entertained As They Depart.

The German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron entertained at dinner last evening for the retiring Ambassador of Belgium and Princess de Ligne. After dinner a number of the De Lignes' friends were invited to say good-by to the envoy and his family, who leave Washington today for New York and will sail tomorrow for Belgium.

The Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi will entertain at dinner this evening in the embassy.

Miss Janet Large, niece of Mrs. Hoover, who has been a guest at the White House for several weeks, left yesterday to resume her studies in Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Fry, who were guests on Monday night at the White House, also left yesterday for their home in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann will not be at home this afternoon.

Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, was the guest in whose honor the officers of the Quartermasters Association entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton. The company numbered 80 and included the Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. Frederick H. Payne, and Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, Mr. F. Trubee Davison. The music was furnished by the Army Band.

Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, will not observe her day at home this afternoon.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen will entertain at dinner Friday evening in the legation.

Senator and Mrs. David Aiken Reed will return to Washington today from the South where they have passed the holidays.

Lewinski Residence Leased by Bulkley.

Senator and Mrs. Robert J. Bulkley have leased the house at 3145 Sixteenth street from Dr. Karl von Lewinski retiring German Consul General in New York and Mme. von Lewinski.

Representative and Mrs. William R. Eaton have returned to their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel after a two weeks trip to Panama. They were accompanied by their niece, Miss Genevieve Barkalow, who is spending the winter with them.

Mrs. Lawrence D. Tyson, widow of Senator Tyson, accompanied by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. Gilpin, and their young sons, Tyson and Kenneth, sailed last night on the Conte Grande for Naples. They will pass about eight months abroad. Landing at Naples, they will go to Rome where they have leased a villa.

Mr. Gilpin has left his racing stable at Scaleby Manor, in Clarke County, Va., in charge of a trainer, and another trainer has charge of his horses on the Cuban and Mexican tracks this winter. Mr. Gilpin is the comaster of the Blue Ridge Hunt Club, with Mr. Congreve Jackson.

The Minister of Cuba in Uruguay and Mme. Salano and their small daughter, Marguerita, have come to Washington and are guests at the Wardman Park Hotel.

The chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, Mr. Henry Prather Fletcher, and Mrs. Fletcher will entertain at dinner on Saturday evening in their home on Observatory Circle.

The Counselor of the Netherlands Legation, Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, who has been in Europe on a two months' vacation, will return to Washington about January 20.

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Blair have returned to their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel after a two weeks' cruise on the Conte Grande.

Mrs. Fleming Newbold and her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Ryan, jr., will sail Saturday for France. They will remain in Paris a week and will return to Washington on January 28.

Doherty, Mrs. Victor Kauffmann, Mme. Lessinoff, Mrs. Karl Klemm and Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr.

This will be the second of the 1930-1931 series and the cotillion will be held in the grand ballroom and the Chinese room of the Mayflower.

Visit Is Planned To Jardines in Egypt.

Miss Louise Brooks, daughter of Mrs. Lionel Atwill, and Miss Louise Harrison Gwynn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Gwynn, accompanied by Mrs. James Huntington Turner will join the United States Minister to Egypt and Mrs. William M. Jardine and their daughter, Miss Marian Jardine, the middle of this month in Cairo.

Miss Phyllis Hight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Hight, will sail Saturday for Cairo to join the party. Planning to return to Washington next spring, she will be accompanied by Miss Jardine, who will make a series of visits here.

Miss Gwynn, Miss Brooks and Mrs. Turner will return in June. After leaving Cairo, they will go to Athens, then to France.

Dr. Elias Brache, jr., Secretary of State of Santo Domingo, is a guest at the Hotel Lafayette.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Perkins Hill have returned to Washington and are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hill, at their home on Bancroft place, where they will be for two weeks while looking for a house. Mrs. Hill before her recent marriage was Miss Alice Worthington. She and Mr. Hill spent part of their honeymoon trip cruising with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roebling aboard their yacht, the Black Douglas.

Miss Hilda Ann Hill, who is spending some time in the Philippines with Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John A. Hull, will return to Manila tomorrow with Mrs. Hull, after spending the Christmas holidays in Baguio, where Mrs. Hull was hostess at a house party. Gen. Hull is serving as legal counsel to the Governor General of the Philippines, Mr. Dwight F. Davis.

Mr. Ralph Snowden Hill will entertain at luncheon on Sunday at his home in Georgetown for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham Glasgow, of London, who are visiting in this country. They will arrive in Washington Friday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins for a few days.

Mrs. Thomas B. Hutchinson has returned from spending the holidays in Pittsburgh and has as her guests her niece, Mrs. Thomas Ryall, jr., and her small daughter.

Florida Calls Are Obeyed by Capital Folk

Mrs. Slater Is Spending the Season at Casa Biela.

Following the lead of fashion, members of smart circles throughout the East are assembling at Florida resorts. The trek to the Southlands started shortly after Christmas, and with the official opening of the winter season at the various beaches in the offing, Florida is now the mecca of society.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney have closed their home, Llangolem, in the hunting section of Virginia, near Upperville, and joined the colony at Palm Beach, where they have taken a cottage for the season.

Mrs E. H. G. Slater has just arrived there from Washington to spend the season at Casa Biela.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hergesheimer and Miss Mary Brown Warburton, annual visitors to the resort, are also established at Palm Beach for the winter months.

St. Augustine, perhaps a little more quiet, but no less fashionable, is also a haven for a number of people. Mrs. Leonard Outhwaite is there, although Mr. Outhwaite, after spending a short time with his wife, has gone to New York on business in connection with his new book, "Atlantic Circle." Mr. and Mrs. Outhwaite made an extended cruise on their schooner, Kinkajou, last year, when the former gathered material for his book.

Mr. Peter de Visser, who has been in Washington for several months, making his home with the Attache of the Polish Embassy, Mr. Jan Tomaschewski, and Mr. Edward Weintal, sailed yesterday for Europe to pass about two months in Switzerland, and at his home in Holland.

Miss Belle Perkins, of Richmond, after cruising in Southern waters and visiting Bermuda during the holidays, has returned to the Mayflower.

Mrs. M. de Clare Berry, who has been in Richmond for several days, has returned to Washington.

Representative and Mrs. Charles B. Timberlake are now at the Shoreham Hotel, where they will make their home during the coming year.

Mrs. Demarest Lloyd is spending a few days in New York, where she is staying at the St. Regis. Mrs. Edwin B. Parker is also at the St. Regis.

Former Attorney General and Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer entertained at dinner last evening at the Carlton, where they are spending the winter. Their guests were Justice of the Supreme Court and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts and Mr. Henry P. Fletcher, former Ambassador to Italy.

Miss Kingman To Be Wed in New Chapel

Nuptials January 27 to Be First in Joseph of Arimathea.

In the first wedding ceremony to be held in the Chapel of St. Joseph of Arimathea in Washington Cathedral, Miss Katharin M. Kingman, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Ralph W. Kingman, will become the bride of Lieut. Frederick R. Weber, of Fort Howard, Md., on January 27.

Miss Kingman has included among her attendants a number of the young girls who are "daughters of the Army." Miss Catherine Carr will be her maid of honor. Miss Elizabeth Bull, Miss Marjorie Simonds, Miss Caroline Willcox, Miss Betty Allen, of Trenton, N. J.; Miss Ethel Percy Cochran, of Cincinnati; Miss Renee Ledoux, of New York, and Miss Lorraine T. Richardson, of Berkeley, Calif., constitute the list of bridesmaids.

Invitations to be members of the wedding party were discovered by the eight young women who found the surprise on the back of artistic place cards painted by Miss Kingman for a luncheon she gave at the Army and Navy Club.

The ushers for the wedding, which will be a military one, include Lieut. Henry Kunzig, of Fort Washington; Lieut. Tom Connally and Lieut. Charles Wiegand, of Fort Howard; Lieut. Herbert Gibner, of Fort Hoyle; Lieut. Hamilton Young, of Washington Barracks; Lieut. Clarence Renshaw, jr., of Washington; Lieut. William Caraway, of the University of North Carolina, and Lieut. Albert Watson, of Fort Myer.

Among those who will come from New York for the wedding will be Mrs. Alfred C. Miller and Mrs. W. F. Austin. They will be guests at the Kenesaw during their stay.

One of the most popular young women of the Army group, Miss Kingman, is being widely entertained, several parties having taken place since the announcement of her engagement of November 15 and several already announced. On January 14 Mrs. Franklin King will give a bridge party; on January 24, following a wedding rehearsal at the Cathedral, Miss Marjorie Simonds, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George S. Simonds, will give a dinner at the Shoreham, and on January 26 at the Carlton, the bride and bridesmaids will be the guests of Miss Catherine Carr, daughter of the late Col. Daniel J. Carr and Mrs. Carr. The wedding party will be the guests of Miss Elizabeth Wainwright Bull, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Henry T. Bull, who will give a luncheon on January 27 and will also give a bridge tea for the bride at her home on Columbia road.

Miss Kingman made her debut in Washington in the fall, having been presented by Col. and Mrs. Kingman at the Army War College, when her engagement was announced. Last year she was the guest of Judge and Mrs. Pierre Crabites in Cairo.

Commemoration Mass For Joffre on Sunday.

In commemoration of Marshal Joffre a mass will be celebrated in New York on Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Church of St. Vincent de Paul. The French Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel, accompanied by M. Pierre de la Blanchetai, First Secretary of the Embassy, and Capt. Louis Sable, Naval Attache, and Maj. Emanuel Lombard, Assistant Military Attache. Many prominent persons of New York, Washington and other cities have received invitations from the French Embassy to be present.

Mr. Woodbury Willoughby, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Willoughby, has recently returned to Washington with Mrs. Willoughby and their small son. He has been in Warsaw, Poland, the last three years, where he was associate of the financial adviser to the Polish government, Mr. Charles S. Dewey. Before leaving Poland Mr. Willoughby had the decoration of Polonia Restituta conferred on him by the Polish government.

Mrs. Mahlon Pitney will not be at home next Monday, but will receive on Monday, January 19.

Dr. Pitamic Entertained by Papal Envoy

Jugoslavian Minister Recently Knighted by Holy See.

The apostolic delegate, Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi, entertained at dinner at his residence last night in honor of Dr. Leonide Pitamic, Minister of Jugoslavia, who has been created recently a knight commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great by the Holy See. The following attended the dinner:

Senator David I. Walsh, Admiral William S. Benson, the Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University of America; the Rev. W. Coleman, Nevils, president of Georgetown University; Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; the Right Rev. Philip Bernardini, the Catholic University of America; the Rev. John J. Burke; Mr. D. J. Callahan, supreme treasurer, Knights of Columbus; Mr. Clarence E. Martin, Martinsburg, W. Va.; Dr. Roy J. Deferrari, dean of the graduate school of the Catholic University of America; the Rev. Dr. Francesco Lardone, the Catholic University of America; the Very Rev. Paul Marella and the Rev. Francis E. Hyland, of the delegation staff.

Mrs. Leigh Palmer is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Howard Tucker, for a week. Mrs. Palmer has recently returned from a visit to South Africa.

Miss Julia Funkhauser, of St. Joseph, Mo., has returned to her studies at Martha Washington Seminary after spending her Christmas vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Brown at their home in Linden, Md.

The junior members of the Riding and Hunt Club will be given an opportunity to display their skill at a Children's horse show to be staged at the club Saturday at 2 o'clock.

Miss Elizabeth Martin is chairman of the committee arranging the party. The committee is composed of Ruth Ellen Patton, Margaret Cutler, Betty Couzens and Peggy Grimes.

Yule Greetings By Mrs. Graves Liked by Wales

Card Is Acknowledged Showing Dog Named After Prince.

What's in a name? A very great deal thinks Mrs. Carroll S. Graves, wife of Commander Graves, retired, whose star of fortune shines with a beckoning light whenever the three magic words, "Prince of Wales" bob into the limelight. Because she is an ardent admirer of the heir to the throne of Great Britain, whom she met years ago in Canada, Mrs. Graves not only stakes her luck at the races on the famous horse, The Prince of Wales, but has named her Samoyede dog for the "most popular young man in the world."

And now comes from the real prince an acknowledgment of Christmas greetings sent by Mrs. Graves this holiday time, the greetings being a card with the picture of her dog, Prince of Wales, which is the pet of the Navy group and of the many friends of the Graveses.

A friend of long-standing of the prince, Mrs. Graves has a collection of photographs of "Mr. David Windsor," which alone take precedence over those of the beloved dog and also the horse. Ardent race enthusiasts, Commander and Mrs. Graves rarely miss any race within "going" distance of the Capital. Although they spent some years in San Francisco, Commander and Mrs. Graves have lived in Washington several years, spending their summers at Cape May in the rambling old home where the pet dog, Prince of Wales, claims the run of the corridors and spreading lawns. A proud dog he is, seeming to sense the royal favor he enjoys as well as serving as splendid mascot for his mistress.

Mrs. F. Trubee Davison, who will receive this afternoon from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock, will be assisted by Mrs. Daniel Reed, Mrs. Harcourt J. Pratt and Mrs. James E. Fechet.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Andrew T. Long, who are in Nice, were entertained recently at dinner by the American Consul in Nice and Mrs. Robertson Honey, at the Palais de la Mediterranee.

Miss Virginia Harris has gone to New York for the week-end. She will join her aunt and uncle, Representative and Mrs. William E. Hull at their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel on Sunday evening.

West Virginians to Honor Senator and Mrs. Goff.

Senator and Mrs. Guy D. Goff will be honor guests at the third annual reception and dance of the West Virginia State Society tonight at the Willard and will head the receiving line. Other honor guests who will form the receiving line will include the other members of the Senate and their wives and the members of the lower house and their wives from West Virginia.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Bridging a Gap.

The typical child of today sees his ther leave every morning for what vaguely calls business, carried on a strange place called an office. ere he knows that his father performs the miracle known as making oney.

Except to those children who are ought up on a farm where the ocesses by which the family living earned are comprehensible to them an early age, the entire matter of rning a living may well seem a range, remote and awe-inspiring siness which must impress upon em their own inferiority in an ult world.

The children of a primitive civilltion are luckier in this respect. ey watch their elders fish and ave and hunt and engage in simple agriculture.

While they are little more than bies, they follow them about, now d again lend a helping hand and so gradually acquire the knowledge and skill which they must have to take their places as adults in the community.

Because the gap between adult and child life is made wider through the complexity of existence in a civilized world, children miss not only this direct preparation for work but also that companionship which facilitates their identification with grown-up interests and activities.

The only way a father can bridge this gap between himself and his son is through a community of play interests or through the pursuit of a hobby in which he may initiate his child.

To go fishing or sailing with father, to learn from him beginnings of golf or tennis, to hand him tools when he is tinkering in the garage, to be permitted to share with him anything he enjoys doing, is, in part at least, to meet his need for that identification with his parent through which he becomes adequate for the demands of adult life.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

An exceedingly smart afternoon gown of black is discreetly touched with white lace. (Courtesy of Jean Patou, Paris.)

Paris, January 6.

"BOOTS — boots — dancing up and down again"—truly an endless array of them or slippers, rather, these glad, mad nights, when gayety and pleasure are the only things we think about!

O-o-oh, to be comme il faut, you have to have hundreds of pairs—and you'd want them anyway if you saw them. They are utterly frivolous—and you wouldn't expect them to last and last as other, more practical shoes do, would you?

What are some of the loveliest I have recently seen? Wel-l, Grecian sandals that have taken an amazingly modernistic twist. Most of these have very high heels, indeed, and in a pair of water-marked moire there is a band of silver kid inserted in the heel following the circular design of the vamp. One shoe of black satin has a silver kid toe tip, heel and cut-out silver kid as an instep strap. And several airy, dainty lame (lah-may) sandals, of course, with intricate pipings and slender heels of gold or silver kid.

And if the slippers do happen to be plain in line and fabric—oh, faille, moire or flat crepe, they have all sorts of gay and sparkling little gadgets to liven themselves up with. Buckles that are made to wear at the center front of the shoe are much more popular than those to be worn at the side. 'N' have you seen the brilliant-studded, bow-shaped buckles for our best evening footwear? And could anything be more gorgeous than a detachable buckle of topaz bordered with rhinestones and carved gold?

I found a hat that had EVERYTHING. Chic, becomingness and comfort were the most important things—unless you think a hat that can be folded up into a tiny packet and carried in your pocketbook, and that won't spoil in the rain, are more so. Anyhow, I paid a fortune for the hat—an Agnes model—and it has all these desirable features and more besides. And you can easily copy it if you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for my illustrated leaflet. You'll love to see how easy and inexpensive it is to copy this Agnes hat.

Fashion French—Soutache (sootash), braid; soutien-gorge (sootien-gorzh), brassiere; sparterie (sparte-ree), buckram; stoppeur (stoppeur), mender; surjet (soor-zhay), whipstitching; sur mesure (soor meh-zoor), to measure.

Black and white is used again, and charmingly, in this Patou afternoon frock! This dress, which is black, is trimmed with dainty touches of white lace which form a tiny collar and jabot at the neck and puffed undersleeves which are tight at the wrist. This is a time when to be conservative is to be chic, too, don't you think? And then, Patou chic!

Au revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

A Severe Indictment.

WHEN that little bride wrote asking what to do about a husband who was already becoming what the bride called "frisky" and kissing the neighbors "to see what would happen," she started a small-sized riot in the ranks of the more experienced. Many and dire are the prophecies that have been mailed to this column concerning that frisky young man. If he turns out even one-half the villain that the older women declare him to be, nothing short of a constitutional amendment could properly dispose of his case. Mrs. T. J. E. "knows all about these wretches." Would you like to hear what Mrs. T. J. E. knows? We just know that you would, so her letter follows:

"Oh, that good-for-nothing wretch. Can you imagine him starting before the honeymoon is fairly over? That fellow will never be an earthly bit of good and the girl should leave him before she has a couple of deserted children to support. Oh, I know all about these wretches. I married one and so did my sister. But we divorced them. It took me ten years to realize that you can't make anything out of a man that has a strip of elastic for a backbone. And on top of that more conceit than money. My husband used to take one hour to get dressed. It was nothing for him to brush his hair ten times of a Sunday. And he thought every woman on earth was waiting for a kind look from him. Do you know what he had the nerve to tell me once? That he made love to women because "it made the poor things so happy and he loved to see their faces light up."

"The conceited goose. Well, he started when we were married two years. The first was a milliner in our town. He had to advise her; she was so helpless. She fleeced us out of $200 without any one's advice. After that it was some woman all the time. At last I packed up everything but the mirror where he spent most of his time and left while he was on a trip. You should have heard him cry and beg me to come back. We had been married ten years. And for another ten he kept begging. He never even married again. I did and got a good, sensible man who combs his hair when I get good and mad and make him.

"My sister married another sheik. He was a singer. I have always said there is something the matter with all singers. He was terrible. After six years she gave up. Every little while he comes back to borrow money. Now you mark my words that young man who is starting in so soon to give his wife trouble is headed for no good and he will drag her down with him. He will be spending money on girls that should buy clothes for his children. And his wife will be going out to work to keep the home together. Such men should be taken out to sea and left to Providence. They think women will stand for anything just to have them around. I could see the whole pack drown and not throw a rope. I was very much surprised at the mild answer that came from Frances McDonald's pen to that bride. And I more than suspect she felt sorry for the girl and hated to tell her the truth. Well, I wish some one had told me the truth sooner. Ten years is too long to waste on a manniken; or on a silly flirt who wants to try his wiles on every woman that comes near him. A man who will kiss his wife's girl friends when they come to her home should be tarred and feathered and then left for the birds. I know them and I only wish I had charge of dealing with them."

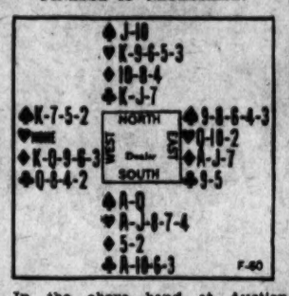
WORK ON BRIDGE

LEADING SO AS TO BE ABLE TO FINESSE IF NECESSARY.



In the above hand at Auction Bridge South would bid one Heart; West, two Diamonds; North, two Hearts; East, three diamonds; South, three Hearts, and then West probably would pass. If he bid four Diamonds, North or South would call four Hearts.

The hand was played at Contract. South bid one Heart; West, two Diamonds; North, two Hearts; East passed, and South bid four Hearts.

In the play West won with the King of Diamonds; East won the second Diamond and South trumped the third. South then led the Ace of trumps, being greatly dismayed when West refused and he saw that the adverse Queen would be good. However, he put dummy in the lead with another trump, led a Spade, South finessed the Queen, and West's King won. West returned the Spade and South won with the Ace.

Declarer then figured that the Queen of Clubs was in the East hand; so he led a small Club, won with dummy's King and finessed the return. West's Queen won and, of course, East's Queen of trumps took a trick later; so the adversaries took two Diamonds, one Heart, one Spade and one Club—a total of five tricks—and Declarer was down two.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The hand was very badly played. When Declarer trumped the third Diamond there was only one way for him to finesse trumps, and he should have guarded against the possibility of West's holding no trumps by leading a small trump to trick 4. If he had done so he would have won with dummy's king and being then able to place the Queen, would have finessed the Ace-Jack on the return, taking three trump tricks and leaving one trump in each hand. He then would have been in position to try a Club finesse either way, or to try a Spade finesse which could be taken only one way. He had lost two tricks, and could lose one more which he should have let go immediately by not attempting the Spade finesse, leading first Ace and then Queen. That would put one of the adversaries in the lead and it would not matter which one. If whoever won with the King of Spades led a Club, North and South must make three Club tricks. If he led a Diamond or a Spade, South would ruff and North would discard a club. Game was assured either way.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

SECRETS OF KEEPING FERNS THROUGH THE WINTER.

IN October when you purchased your ferns they were beautiful. Now, about the first week in January, you notice that the midstems of the fronds are covered with tiny, shiny brown mounds, all the plants look dejected and you decide to discard them, with—possibly—the remark: "I never did have any luck with house plants."

Here, in reply, let me suggest that luck, when it comes to caring for house plants, is the most undependable of all aids in gardening. Keep in mind the fact that before you purchased the plants they had been receiving systematic care. They had been growing in a house lighted on all sides, where the temperature of the air was probably taken twice a day, and where the plants were regularly watered and cultivated. Suddenly removed from this environment so well suited to their needs, brought into your steam-heated room and after that not even watered properly—is it any wonder that the ferns become ill?

Of course, you can not convert a city apartment into a modern greenhouse; neither must you forego the joys of having a few ferns to bring a bit of the big outdoors into your living room. With systematic care there is no reason why you can not have beautiful ferns the entire winter.

First, every day their foliage should be thoroughly sprinkled. The water must reach the under surface of the leaves, as there is the favorite habitat of the brown, hard-shelled insect called scale. These tenacious pests always attack a half-sick fern, and rarely, if ever, attack healthy ones.

Second, every other day set your plants for 15 minutes in 6 inches of water. This insures a thorough soaking of the soil in the lower portion of the pot, which sprinkling does not reach.

Third, each day turn the plants a bit, so that they will have a more even distribution of sun—so very necessary to perfect foliage development.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

DRIED MILK AS A FOOD.

(Bureau of Dairy Industry.)

Dried milk mixed with the right proportion of water looks and some cases tastes very much like fresh milk, though the flavor depends to a great extent on the method of manufacture and the age of the powder.

In food value also dried milk restored to liquid form compares favorably with fresh milk, except perhaps in vitamin content. According to experimental data published by the United States Public Health Service and other agencies dried milk powders like any other kind of heated milk may lack vitamin C and if used in feeding infants, another food rich in this vitamin such as orange or tomato juice should be given as a safeguard. The skim milk powders are also deficient in vitamin A because it has been largely removed with the fat. In general, dried milk, like the condensed and evaporated forms, is of greatest value where fresh milk is difficult or impossible to obtain.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Goodhue" is of English origin, and means "the good servant," its second element being the Middle English "hiwe" which means "servant" and "helper." However, in a few cases "Goodhue" is a corruption of "good Hugh." The personal name "Hugh" is ultimately of Teutonic origin, and may be translated "mind," "thought," and "soul." Finally, it is believed that occasionally "Goodhue" may have had the most obvious meaning of "good hue," in which cases it was of course first given as a nickname to persons with good complexions. Some early spellings of this name are "Godhug" (1273), "Godhugh" (1305), and "Godhewe" (1307). It is on record that the first person of this name to come to the New World was a certain Nicholas Goodhue, who came to Virginia in 1635.

The family name "Heath" has come down to us from two English sources. It frequently means "he who lives on the heath." However, another common source of this name is the dialect form "hythe" which means "harbor" and which also indicates an original place of residence. A certain John de la Hethe and a William atte Hethe are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, a famous thirteenth century list of English names.

The family name "Fleisch" is of German origin. It means "flesh" or "meat," and was first applied as a nickname to butchers. In most cases it occurs in such compound names as "Kalbfleisch" (calf-meat) and "Schweinfleisch" (hog-meat). A certain Kuonrad Fleisch is known to have been living in Basel in the year 1286. The form "Swininfleis" appears to be first recorded in 1279.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

TONIGHT'S the night at the National. Mr. George Kelly's new play, "Philip Goes Forth," breaks precedence a bit and begins a midweek run—or a run in midweek. Already, the play has been seen in two cities—Baltimore and Lancaster, Pa., and comes here with the approval of two sets of play reviewers.

• • • •

Rather an unusual week in Washington theatricals this, since two of America's more important playwrights—and both Pulitzer prize winners—are here with new offerings. By this time, of course, everybody knows that Mr. Philip Barry is showing his latest work at the Belasco—"Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

• • • •

Mr. Frank Perley, who is company manager for the play at the Belasco, feels that he is the champion commuter between Washington and New York. As an important official in the executive realm of Mr. Gilbert Miller, the producer, Mr. Perley comes to town every time a new play comes out of the Frohman workshops. Unless the records are all wrong, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" is the third venture this year. Others were "Marseilles," and "Petticoat Influence," with Helen Hayes.

• • • •

When Herbert Marshall walked on the stage of the Belasco Monday night, to play the lead male role in Barry's new play, he received an ovation—and yet Mr. Marshall has played in Washington only on one or two occasions prior to this. The answer is, he is a favorite remembered for his sterling work in Frederick Lonsdale's comedy, "The High Road"—here at the National some seasons ago—and also remembered by his friends at the British Embassy for heroic work in the World War.

• • • •

Zita Johann, now in the first flights of her stardom, and destined to be one of the really great actresses on the American stage, was discovered here in Washington not so many seasons ago as the lovable Consuelo, the esuestrian tango queen, in Leonid Andrevev's masterful play, "He Who Gets Slapped." That was after Margalo Gilmore had played the part in New York—and there was a secret opinion here that no one ever played the part with quite the finesse of Miss Johann. Well, she is now safely started on her way to gather achievement, as witness her work in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

• • • •

When the aristocratic atmosphere of a Barry play fades out of the Belasco on Saturday night 'twill be succeeded by the rough and rowdyish ramifications of a rip-roaring mystery play, "The Blue Ghost," which starts on Sunday night. One of the co-authors of this offering is Bernard J. McOwen. Unless some one else uses the same name, Mr. McOwen is the man who once had "a quick-change act" on the old Keith circuit—a playlet in which he performed many characters, mostly out of the pages of Dickens. His favorite was Fagin, a villain of the old school. The lead character in the mystery thriller coming to the Belasco next week is described as "the archfiend of all times." This is out-Fagining Fagin.

• • • •

From this distance, it looks as if next week's theatrical offerings will be highly spiced drama. Down at the National, once the George Kelly play is started on its way to New York, the boards will be cleared for Francine Larrimore who hopes to remain the week in "Storm Song." Her last visit here, Miss Larrimore was seen as the central character in "Chicago," a murder mystery out of the tabloids.

• • • •

Louise Groody and Irene Delroy are in town—just spending a few days, and looking over the two new plays here; according to Gardiner Moore, manager of the Shoreham, who has them as guests of the hostelry.

• • • •

Manager Jimmy Lake of the Gayety Theater announces a special midnight show Friday night of this week. Hinda Wassau will appear as guest star with Gladys (Youth) Clark, and her frivolities company; also Billy (Fuzzle) Fields and a coterie of high class entertainers.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from noon to 2 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The unfavorable hours are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 6:15 p. m.

January 7 holds out many bright prospects. The planetary aspects favor the business, as well as the social, side of life. Changes will be made apparent that will bring success, and old friendships, almost forgotten, will be renewed to the advantage of all concerned.

Children born on this January 7 will always be a source of anxiety. Not only will health conditions be a disturbing influence, but, as the years roll by, weakness of character will create forebodings. These children must be surrounded with a harmonious environment.

If you were born on a January 7, you are a prodder, and the signs denote that "you will get there." Your ambition is graded. Once you have reached what you thought was the acme of all your desires, you see other heights ahead, and then set out to conquer them. You are contented, but never satisfied. Slowly, but steadily, climbing all through life, undismayed by danger, encouraged by past performances, you are bound, in your own sure, slow way, to achieve success.

You are self-contained, never explosive. You trudge, whilst others may run. You remain calm, whilst others lose their heads. You concentrate, when others diversify. You work, when others play. There is nothing spectacular about you. A strong personality does not exude from you. As a social companion, you are not brilliant nor all the time entertaining. You are solid, and, in every sense of the word, dependable and sincere. In your considered judgement, there is only one way of doing a thing—the right way. No makeshifts appeal to or are used by you.

Your disposition is a tolerant, although not a cheerful one. You are too silent to be congenial and too "matter-of-fact" to be romantic. The few friends you have are loyal and true. In home life, you will command the respect of one and all. You may not inspire a violent passion, but you will, however, create an atmosphere of solid affection that will endure forever.

Successful People Born January 7.

SOCIETY

West Virginia and their wives will also be honor guests and will assist in receiving the guests.

The president of the society, former Representative Stewart F. Reed, will present the company of West Virginians and their friends to the honor guests.

Bridge will be a feature of the evening's program.

Mr. Francis Drake LaRue and Mrs. Annie Laurie Hall, of Tennessee, brother-in-law and niece of Dr. Ellison, are spending a few days in Washington as the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Everett M. Ellison at their home in M street.

Members of the Community Drama Guild of Washington will be guests of the Arts Club tonight, when at 8:15 o'clock the Montgomery Players will present H. F. Rubinstein's three-act play, "The House," under the direction of Mrs. R. H. Rice, through the cooperation of Mrs. William J. Peters, chairman of play-readings of the Drama Guild, and the courtesy of the dramatic committee of the Arts Club, of which Mr. J. Milnor Dorey is chairman.

The players who will appear in the reading of "The House" are Mr. and Mrs. Irving Day, Mrs. Raymond Sanford, Miss Martha Roberts, Miss Anna Moore Converse, Mrs. Jane Plummer Rice, Mr. Hubert Teitman, Mr. Morris Edwards and Mr. Ralph Fowler.

Pen Women to Present New Coffee House Talk

The District branch of the League of American Pen Women will present the second of a series of Coffee House Talks Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Stoneleigh Court studio. Charles Edward Russell, journalist, author and lecturer, will be the guest speaker. His subject will be writing biography, but he will also touch upon the subject of scientific relation between music and poetry.

The guests will be seated at small tables, where coffee will be served amid an atmosphere of Elizabethan days. The public is invited and may make reservations with Miss Francis Walker, at the Ontario Apartment. Mrs. James T. Watson, jr., is responsible for all arrangements.

The FACULTY
Dr. Pierce's Clinic

DR. R. V. PIERCE met with such unusual success in his private practice that he gathered around him a number of eminent specialists and surgeons and established a Clinic and Hospital. Today this Clinic is of the same high caliber as ever. The physicians still find Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a most dependable tonic for patients who are rundown and need their digestion improved and their blood enriched.

A strong, healthy body depends upon the right number of rich, red blood cells. Thousands of people have a low blood count. To this may be attributed skin troubles, rundown systems, and even more serious ailments. Rich, red blood is the body's protector against infection and disease. It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

If you tire easily, lack pep, if your skin is not clear, if your appetite is gone, you owe it to yourself to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When you take this vegetable tonic your appetite picks up, your whole body feels invigorated. You regain your vim, vigor and vitality.

It can be had at any drug store.

Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., if you want free medical advice, using the symptom blank wrapped with each bottle of "G.M.D." On receipt of 10c Dr. Pierce will send you an acquaintance package of

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood, Jan. 6.—Joe E. Brown became known as a sunken-chested fighter who couldn't fight in "Hold Everything" and as a slope-shouldered bench warmer who couldn't play football in "Maybe It's Love," but actually he is one of the few all-around athletes in Hollywood.

JOE E. BROWN

But because Joe never is convincing as a sportsman on the screen, he probably never will be anything but a "has been" athletically to the public.

Brown's forte is baseball, a game he used to play professionally, and he sometimes scrimmages with children in his neighborhood when football is in season. Years ago he was a circus tumbler.

Much of his spare time is spent keeping fit and when he works out, his two sons, Don, 14, and Joe, 12 are always right beside him.

The Best Dressed Men.

Adolphe Menjou, who is no slough, sartorially, has named the fifteen men in the world whom he considers the best dressed, including only four actors: Douglas Fairbanks, Frank Elliott, Clive Brook and John Barrymore.

Barrymore, he says, cares less for the details of clothes selection than most men, but he carries his clothes magnificently. The others are always conservatively correct, never spectacular.

The hint may help you gain Mr. Menjou's attention next year.

The fatal mistake of not bringing up to date "The Man Who Came Back" has been made by the Fox company. Scarcely a change has been made in the play that, 10 years or more ago, was pretty fair entertainment. Styles in drama, as in everything else, are different now.

The story concerns a dissolute son whose father turns him out. The boy is rescued from almost complete degradation by the girl, whom he marries. Then the reconciliation. It seems terribly unconvincing.

In Passing.

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and his wife Joan Crawford, refused the use of a private car on a trip East and went in a drawing room • • • John Barrymore and the Beery brothers, Wallace and Noah, were heavy investors in a Hollywood building and loan company that closed its doors • • • Every one is wondering if Colleen Moore will come back to the screen and when.

Neuritis!
There is no pain like Neuritis. There is nothing quite so torturing—so utterly unbearable as Neuritis. It robs life of all joy—and makes people desperate. But Neuritis is not hopeless—it responds to proper treatment. A well-known physician has written us, "Have been drinking Mountain Valley Water for six weeks for Neuritis and am feeling better than I have for two years." Mountain Valley Mineral Water from Hot Springs, Arkansas, brings relief in Neuritis because it gets at the root of the trouble—it tends to neutralize the acids which are irritating the nerves and retards the further accumulation of these acids by aiding healthy, normal elimination through the kidneys. Renew your hope—learn how Nature can can help you. Phone for our booklet today. Met. 1062.

VAST OCEAN SERVICE CREATED BY MERGER

Consolidation of Roosevelt and I. M. M. Lines Is Finally Effected.

FLEET OF 68 STEAMERS

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—A world-wide shipping service under the American flag will be created through a consolidation of interests of the International Mercantile Marine Co. and the Roosevelt Steamship Co., which was announced today.

The merger, which has been rumored for several months, was announced by P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine. The Roosevelt company, which was organized in 1925, will retain its corporate identity and Kermit Roosevelt will continue as president. He will also become a vice president and a director of the International Mercantile Marine Co.

Mr. Franklin said that the principal object of the consolidation "is for the development and upbuilding of shipping in an important manner under the American flag, in which the Roosevelt Steamship Co. has for several years been actively and exclusively engaged."

Fleet of 68 Steamers.

The consolidation creates a fleet with a total tonnage of 550,000 tons, the largest under the American flag, and operating approximately 68 steamers. The Roosevelt company operates 18 modern motorships, with a total tonnage of 110,000 tons, to Australia, India, the Philippines and the Far East, and has one subsidiary, the Baltimore Steamship Co., which soon will inaugurate service between Baltimore and Havre and Hamburg.

The International Mercantile Marine fleet is divided among five lines, touching most of the leading Eastern and Gulf ports of the United States and principal English and European shipping points, West Indies and Mexico, Central America and South America. It has 40 steamers with a tonnage aggregating 440,000 tons.

New Members of Board.

At a meeting of the board of directors of International Mercantile Marine, representatives of the new interests were elected to the board. The new directors, in addition to Mr. Roosevelt, are Vincent Astor, Basil Harris and John M. Franklin.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Franklin, vice presidents of Roosevelt, were named vice presidents of the International Mercantile Marine.

The consideration through which the International Mercantile Marine acquires control was not announced. Mr. Franklin said that it would be made on the basis of an exchange of stock, but did not disclose the terms.

Asked whether the International Mercantile Marine would dispose of its foreign-flag lines, the Atlantic Transport, Red Star and Leyland Lines, Mr. Franklin declined to comment, but said that the consolidation was the first step in whatever may be necessary to develop a shipping service under the American flag.

WORK'S RADIO BRIDGE GAME

Four Bridge stars of the first magnitude played an extremely interesting hand as the seventh of Milton C. Work's radio broadcasts, heard from Station WRC yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Guy U. Purdy, Omaha, Nebr., as South, the Dealer, held: Spades, none; Hearts, A, K, Q, J, 9, 7, 3; Diamonds, A, Q, 10, 3; Clubs, A, K. John T. Slade, Boston, Mass., as West, had: Spades, A, K, Q, 8, 5, 4, 3, 2; Hearts, none; Diamonds, 9, 7; Clubs, 8, 4, 3. Mrs. Warren L. Gefficken, Jacksonville, Fla., as North, had: Spades, J, 10, 8; Hearts, 8, 6, 2; Diamonds, 5, 4, 2; Clubs, Q, J, 9, 7. As East, Mrs. C. E. Traver, Salt Lake City, Utah, had: Spades, 9, 7; Hearts, 10, 5, 4; Diamonds, K, J, 8, 6; Clubs, 10, 6, 5, 2.

Mrs. Purdy, South, with a hand on which she planned to bid up to five Hearts, opened with one heart rather than a preemptive four, as she felt that if she bid her Hearts up gradually in case Spades were bid against her, she might be doubled, which would create the opportunity for a profitable redouble. Mr. Slade, West, bid one Spade. He also would have been justified in making a preemptive bid; but did not do so as preemptive bids made after opponents have declared usually do not preempt.

North and East passed; South said two Hearts, West two Spades. North and East continued to pass, and South and West continued raising their suits until the bid stood at four Hearts by South; which West passed. North passed, but Mrs. Traver, East, realizing that Mr. Slade, West, had a very strong Spade suit and a hand that probably could take eight tricks, and confident also that he would have doubled the four-Heart bid had he held the defensive strength necessary, made a deliberate game-saving overbid of four Spades. Mrs. Purdy, South, bid five Hearts, which the other three players passed.

Mr. Slade West opened the play by leading the King of Spades. The North hand went down for Dummy, and Declarer played from it the 8 of Spades. East followed with the 9 (the start of a high-low signal to partner, indicating ability to ruff the third lead of the suit), and Mrs. Purdy, the Declarer, ruffed with the 9 of Hearts.

Declarer then led the Ace of Hearts, expecting that the three adverse trumps would be divided 2-1. She planned to lead two trumps, then the Ace and King of Clubs, after which she intended to put Dummy in with a trump to lead the Queen-Jack of Clubs. This would give her discards of two losing Diamonds from the closed hand, and leave her in position to try the Diamond finesse. But when West played the Deuce of Spades on the first Heart lead, Declarer realized her plan would not work out. To this trick Dummy played the Deuce of Hearts; East the 4.

Abandoning her first plan of play, Declarer, to tricks three and four, led the Ace and King of Clubs, all following with their two lowest Clubs. To trick five Declarer led the Trey of Hearts; West played the Trey of Spades; Dummy the 6 of Hearts, and East the 10.

Mrs. Traver, East, was then in a quandary as to her lead. Realizing that a Spade would not be effective, she led the 8 of Diamonds, hoping that her partner might hold the Ace or Queen. If South held both these cards, the boldness of the lead might induce her to refuse the Queen finesse. But Mrs. Purdy, seeing her contract assured regardless of the location of the Diamond King, and wishing to make a small slam, played the Queen. West played the 7; and the Deuce was played from Dummy.

Declarer then led the 7 of Hearts from the closed hand; West discarded the 4 of Spades; Dummy, North, won with the 8 of Hearts; and East played the 5, her last trump. Declarer then led the good Queen and Jack of Clubs from Dummy, discarding the Trey and 10 of Diamonds from closed hand; after which she spread her hand, claiming the remainder of the tricks, which adversaries conceded. She scored 48 trick points; 80 for the four honors in one hand; 50 for the small slam.

In his remarks following the close of the play Mr. Work particularly emphasized Mrs. Purdy's clever handling of the play when she realized, at trick two, that her original scheme would not work out. In Mr. Work's own words: "She was called upon to make a play which rarely arises and which few would have the ability to recognize when it appeared. It is a Bridge gambit . . . the giving up of a trick unnecessarily in order to gain more than a trick as a result of the sacrifice.

"After the first trump trick, Mrs. Purdy could see that if she drew all of the adverse trumps, next led her Ace and King of Clubs, it was most likely that the adversaries, each time she led a Diamond, would be able to force her by leading a Spade; in which case she might lose three Diamonds and fail to make her contract of five Hearts. It was clear that by making an entry in Dummy, she could obtain two discards on Dummy's Queen and Jack of Clubs, and also get a lead toward the Ace-Queen of Diamonds in closed hand. So that by giving up one trick, she would be sure to get two in return and have the additional possibility of a Diamond finesse, which might produce one more. Therefore the sacrifice was sure to result in a gain. To carry out this plan, she shifted from trumps, established Dummy's Clubs, and then led a small trump to trick 5, overtaking in Dummy. Mrs. Traver, East, was helpless. If she refused the offered gambit, she would be throwing away a trick, as Dummy would hold the trick and lead Clubs immediately. She made the best play possible under the circumstances when she took the trump trick."

For bidding this hand at Contract Bridge, Mr. Work recommended what is called the Common Sense System. South would open with two Clubs, over which West probably would bid three Spades, trying to shut out a bid from North and to put the bidding to a height which would make it difficult for South to show the two declarations which the two-Club bid indicated. South, however, would have been intending to bid four Hearts if North answered with two Diamonds, the weakness take-out of the artificial two-Club bid. South's intended second bid would show the exact character of her Heart holding, but of course North would not know that and would pass West's three Spades. East, on the strength of her King-Jack of Diamonds, would jump West's Spades to four. South would then bid five Hearts, which would end the bidding, as North has no justification for making a slam bid.

Another way which Mr. Work suggested as proper bidding at Contract would be South, five Hearts originally, followed by three passes.

For problems 11 and 12 in his Bridge Handicap Series Mr. Work announced these hands: South: Spades, K, 10, 8, 5; Hearts, A, K, 8; Diamonds, A, K, 7; Clubs, K, J, 8. West: Spades, J, 9, 3; Hearts, J, 7, 3; Diamonds, 8, 2; Clubs, A, Q, 7, 4, 2. North: Spades, Q, 2; Hearts, 9, 6, 4; Diamonds, Q, J, 9, 6, 5; Clubs, 9, 6, 5. East: Spades, A, 7, 6, 4; Hearts, Q, 10, 5, 2; Diamonds, 10, 4, 3; Clubs, 10, 3.

South is Declarer, playing a No Trump contract (one No Trump at Auction, three No Trumps at Contract Bridge). The cards played to the first trick are: West, the 4 of Clubs; North, the 5 of Clubs; East, the 10 of Clubs; South, the Jack of Clubs. To the second trick South leads the Ace of Diamonds and all follow suit.

Question 11—What is the correct lead for South to trick three?

Question 12—What is the lead to trick four?

Paxton Again Wins Popular Art Prize

'Two Models,' in Corcoran Exhibit, Gets Largest Vote of Public.

William M. Paxton, of Boston, was awarded the "popular prize" of the twelfth exhibition of contemporary American oil paintings, with his painting entitled "Two Models." The award, which amounted to $200, was made by visitors to the exhibition, which was held at the Corcoran Gallery of Art during the week of December 29.

This is the third time Mr. Paxton has been awarded the popular prize, having received it at the seventh exhibition, which closed in January, 1920, and at the eighth exhibition, which closed in January, 1932.

Approximately 5,000 votes were cast for the "popular prize," with the 395 pictures which were shown in the exhibition eligible to compete. The voting was widely scattered, Mr. Paxton's painting receiving 145 votes. A picture by Paul Trebilcock entitled "Anthela" received the second largest number of votes. The exhibition will continue on view until next Sunday evening.

Short-Measure Fuel Results in $10 Fine

Upon a charge preferred by George W. Roberts, District superintendent of weights and measures, George M. Hipple, an employe of a filling station at Fourteenth and V streets northwest, was fined $10 by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court yesterday for selling short measure gasoline.

An investigator testified that there was a shortage of 106 ounces, or nearly a gallon, in a purchase of five gallons made Monday.

TRADEWIND TO BEGIN BERMUDA HOP TODAY

Lieut. MacLaren Sets Start for 5:45 A. M. to Avoid Naval Planes.

CARRIES FREIGHT LOAD

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Lieut. William S. MacLaren announced tonight that he and Mrs. Beryl Hart would take off at 5:45 o'clock tomorrow morning in their freight-carrying monoplane, Tradewind, bound for Bermuda, the Azores and Paris.

This will be the second start of the plane across the Atlantic with a freight load. It was forced back on Saturday by a broken sextant and a heavy fog, after coming within a short distance of, but failing to locate, Bermuda. The island lies about 650 miles southeast of here.

Today the plane remained in its hangar while a northeast storm blew itself out. Predictions were that the storm would have passed by tomorrow and that a tail wind probably would speed the fliers on their way.

The time for the take-off was set, Lieut. MacLaren said, in order that the monoplane may be out of the way before thirteen naval planes hop off for Miami on the first leg of their flight to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for winter maneuvers of the fleet.

He said they probably would fly around in this vicinity for some minutes to get the load settled down and make sure the engine is functioning properly before going out to sea.

A new start on the flight was delayed first by necessity of securing a new sextant and making minor repairs to the ship and then by a financial tangle over payment for the new sextant.

Optimist Club Dance To Be Held Tomorrow

The annual winter dinner dance of the Washington Optimist Club will be held tomorrow night in the ballroom of Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street. Delegations from the Baltimore and Richmond clubs will attend, 100 local members acting as hosts.

Wash B. Williams, club president and chairman of the entertainment committee, announced today that the teams of Matt Hall and George O'Connor and Bill Raymond and Fred East have been engaged as entertainers.

Community Chest Aid Urged.

The Readers Club of Washington, meeting last night at All Souls' Church, heard an appeal for support of the Community Chest by Mrs. Fred T. Dubois. The speaker illustrated her talk with a large chest made of imitation cedar, containing 75 smaller chests.

House on County Line Also Is Water Divide

Casar, N. C., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—A lot of people tell Edison Mull he lives in a queer place, but its home to him.

Mull is a resident of two counties. He can stand in one room and be in Cleveland County, then walk into another and be in Burke County. The county line runs through the middle of his house.

But there's still another freak about the Mull home. It is built on a hill. The water that runs off the east side when it rains, trickles down the slope and finds its way to the Catawba River, while that which strikes the west side of the roof goes to sea through the Broad River.

Man, Charging Motor Hit Him, Asks $10,000

Alleging he was injured when an automobile was backed out of a garage near Thomas Circle, Augustus B. Pauntleroy, of 3201 Sixteenth street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover $10,000 from Gustav Ring, with offices in the Tower Building.

Pauntleroy, through Attorney George A. Berry, asserts he was hit by a machine owned by the defendant and operated by an agent. Negligence on the part of the agent in not keeping a proper lookout was charged.

January 26 Is Set For Bradys' Trial

Brothers Accused in Fatal Blast to Face Court in Anne Arundel.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 6.—Trial of the Brady brothers, Herman and Leroy, of Seat Pleasant, Prince Georges County, indicted for the bomb murder of New Year's Day 1930, when three people were fatally injured and several others less seriously hurt, will begin in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, January 26, it was announced today by Judge Robert Moss. The case has been removed here under a change of venue, from Montgomery County to which jurisdiction it previously had been transferred from Prince Georges County.

Judge Moss fixed the date following a conference this afternoon with State's Attorney A. Theodore Brady, of Arundel, and Attorney Hall, of Upper Marlboro, and Nicholas H. Green, of Annapolis, who are associated as counsel for the Brady brothers.

Herman Brady, husband of one of the victims of the blast, elected trial by court when the case came up in Montgomery County. Leroy preferred trial before jury and the case resulted in a mistrial. Action for removal on the grounds that a fairer trial could not be obtained in Rockville then was taken.

Tennessee Speaker Named.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Deadlocked for two days, the Tennessee Senate Democrats got together this afternoon and selected Scott P. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, for speaker, while a crowded legislative chamber shouted and applauded.

A New Foe to Fat

A few years ago, millions of people suffered from excess fat. It was a blight to beauty, health and vim. Lives were shortened, all life's joys reduced.

Now look about. Excess fat is fast disappearing. Not by starvation, not by harmful drugs. Science has discovered that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. Its secretion helps turn food into fuel and energy. A scanty secretion lets too much food turn to fat.

Now doctors the world over combat that cause. They feed the lacking factor until weight returns to normal.

That factor is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. Thus any obese person may employ this method in its best form at small cost.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others, and the use has spread. Now a large part of the slenderness you see is due to this master help.

Now excess fat is folly. It is also folly to starve or overdo, or use methods harmful or absurd. The right method—the method which all doctors now employ—is at your call. The price at your drug store is only $1.

Go get it today if you need it. A book in the box gives the formula and explains the reasons for results. Don't carry this burden longer when people all about you have so easily thrown it off.

TESTING HEALTH KNOWLEDGE.

THE fifth annual meeting of the Chicago Principals' Club is devoted to methods employed in the Chicago schools of teaching health. The following extracts are taken from a method of testing health knowledge of pupils used by them, as it is used by a great many schools elsewhere.

For eating a good noonday meal school children should plan to use about one-half hour.

Boys and girls who wish to be healthy should choose for luncheon hot soup, baked potato, milk.

One of the chief causes of decayed teeth is having food lacking in some elements while the teeth are growing.

It is best for children to eat at regular times each day.

Cooked meat or vegetables should be kept in a cold place, covered.

One reason why green, leafy vegetables are healthful is that they contain iron and vitamins.

While eating, it is a good thing to feel comfortable and happy.

One reason why people should not smoke is that it often harms the lining of the nose and throat.

In washing and drying dishes very hot water and soap are needed every time.

Get long and regular hours of sleep to keep well.

There is less danger of your giving a cold to some one else if you cover your face when coughing and sneezing.

If the organs of our bodies could talk they would say—wear loose clothing.

In choosing what clothes to put on when you dress in the morning, you should think whether or not they are suited to the weather.

One way tuberculosis is spread is by coughing and spitting.

Safety in games means watching out so as not to trip or to hurt other people.

We help to keep from having accidents in the water when we learn how to swim and how to save a drowning person.

Every one should start killing flies as soon as the first fly appears in the spring.

The best reason why patent medicines should be avoided is that they often contain drugs which are bad for us.

We get the best air we breathe by being out of doors in the sunshine.

The best way to spend the time right after school is to play out of doors in the sunshine.

SCHMELING STRIPPED OF TITLE BY NEW YORK BODY

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—If the ethics of the football coaches are all that the coaches say they are, why is it, I wonder, that when a substitute player is sent out upon the field to relieve one of his colleagues who has just been thumbed in the eye or victimized for a 10-yard loss, the referee finds it necessary to resolve himself into a committee of surveillance and shadow that young man in such a manner as to imply very frankly to the crowds that the young man is a potential cheat? Why, also, is it considered necessary, whenever the physician, the trainer or the water boy enters upon the playing yard to perform some official duty that the referee shall attach himself to him and haunt him like a private detective at a keyhole?

These very obvious acts of suspicion occur many times during every football game, and they would seem to suggest that honesty can not be taken for granted in football. The boys may be honest, but it is considered a good idea to make sure.

Now, who do you suppose made all this necessary? Not President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard nor President What's-His-Name Angell of Yale, because it just does not agree with their reputations in the community. Curiously, President Angell's front names escape me at the moment, although I can instantly recall that Babe Ruth's front names are George Herman, that Jack Dempsey's are William Harrison and that Max Schmeling's are Maximillian Siegfried Otto. At any rate, I feel quite sure that neither President Lowell nor President Angell ever grabbed a substitute by the ear as the substitute trembled on the sidelines, prancing and fidgeting in anticipation of the great moment, and adjured him to tell the quarter back, the dumb cluck, to try the so-and-so play or to run a couple over the left tackle, who was out of position.

SUBS USED AS ERRAND BOYS

Rather, I suspect, it was the coaches, and not the coaches of Harvard and Yale, but just some coaches, who were trying to run the teams exclusively from the sidelines and were sending in substitutes as errand boys with their instructions. Presently it was agreed that unless the players were to be frankly classed as dummies without sufficient independence or intelligence to select their own plays in an amateur game, the practice of coaching from the benches ought to be abolished. So it was agreed to cut it out.

But in order to make sure that one coach would not evade the agreement to the disadvantage of another the detective or eavesdropping branch was organized, and that is why nowadays a school with a fine reputation and high ideals and all that sort of thing sees its athletes and its attaches shadowed as though they would cheat at the slightest opportunity.

DETECTIVE BRANCH ON JOB

Sometimes, seeing a player dash out to report and seeing the referee fall in with him to make sure that he did not communicate instructions illegally to his associates, I have wondered that the president of the university did not drop over the little fence, call his team around him and say, "Inasmuch as we are regarded as a bunch of crooks, let's call it all off and play some gentlemen's game."

Last fall one of the coaches was discussing the subject of set-up games in which a big team spends a couple of hours rough housing a sucker team, using 30 or 40 players against, maybe, 18 or 20. It was suggested that in such games the big team agree to make substitutions only for injured or winded men, and the

Kuhel Bore Greatest Price Tag, $50,000, Says Report.

Nine Cost $4,000 or More; Most Deals on Cash Basis.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THE cost of keeping up with competition in major league baseball may be gleaned from the fact that, including the release of some players at the current market rate of exchange, the Washington Club spent $201,400 for playing talent alone during 1930—and even then has no outstanding new performer to show for its investments.

This information was given stockholders at their annual meeting at Griffith Stadium yesterday. Largely because of this heavy output, which includes some payments due in 1930 on investments initiated in 1929, no dividends were declared, although it was reported that there is a substantial surplus available to take care of the coming training trip and current expenses.

Kuhel Bore Highest Price Tag.

Joe Kuhel was the highest-priced rookie bought, his price ticket reading $65,000, but the Nationals saved $15,000 on his purchase by giving the Kansas City Club Pitcher Bill (Beverly) Bayne, valued at $10,000 and First Baseman Harley Boss, who was accepted in lieu of $5,000 cash. Boss was later rebought by the Nationals at this figure.

Although Carl Fischer is regarded as a $39,000 purchase, Carlos Moore actually cost the Nats more in cash. President Griffith had paid $2,500 for the privilege of looking at Moore; and when he finally decided to take a chance on him and retain him, he had to dish out $17,500 more to the Birmingham Barons. Later Moore was sent to Chattanooga, hurt his arm there, was brought back here for the Washington Club physician to treat, and then returned to the Lookouts. As Moore won two well-pitched games after his return to Chattanooga, the Nats may yet cash in on this investment.

Regarding Fischer's case, the Nationals' had to pay but $12,000 cash to the Newark club, getting credit for $17,500, the estimated value of Outfielder George Loepp and Pitcher Myles Thomas.

All Other Deals On Cash Basis.

In all other deals, however, business was done on a straight cash basis. Nine players cost the Nats $4,000 or more, with Catchers Ed Kenna and Bill (Pinky) Hargrave heading the list. They were labeled $7,500, while Outfielder Earl Webb, Outfielder-First Baseman Baxter Jordan, Infielders Ray Treadaway and Wally Dashiel and First Baseman Harley Boss were bought for $5,000 each. Valued at $1,000 less were Pitchers Herb Pyle and Walter Tauscher.

Twelve other rookies were bought during the year, and some already have disappeared. The complete list of purchases will be found in an adjoining column.

ROCKNE PAYS TRIBUTE TO GRIDMEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker today presented to the Notre Dame Team the Albert Russell Erskine award, a large silver trophy emblematic of the national intercollegiate football championship. The trophy was received on behalf of the team by Frank Carideo, quarter back.

At the same time, in accordance with the conditions of the award, Knute K. Rockne, famed Notre Dame coach, was presented with an automobile as well as with a scroll which set forth that he had set up the "noble ideal of victory with honor."

Rockne, upon receiving the scroll, said:

"Some people may say that this award constitutes overemphasis of football, but it does not seem to me that because a man is keen, intelligent and able on the football field that he must be dull in the classroom, any more than because a man is keen in the classroom he will be dull on the football field.

Classroom Ability of Players Praised.

"I wish that Mr. Erskine would give an award for an academic contest. The eleven boys who form the Notre Dame varsity team could, I believe, hold their own with any other eleven boys in the country in the classroom."

The trophy is awarded annually by a jury of award consisting of 275 sports writers from all sections of the country. W. O. McGeehan, of New York, is chairman of the committee of award. The trophy was awarded for the first time last year and was won by Notre Dame.

Moynihan's Secret Marriage Is Revealed

Rawlins, Wyo., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The secret marriage last September of Tim Moynihan, assistant football coach at Notre Dame University and Miss Mabel Roach, Rawlins school teacher, was announced here today.

The couple met while attending high school. Moynihan lived here with an aunt, Mrs. T. W. O'Hara, and graduated from the Rawlins High School in 1925.

Christner Will Fight Campolo in Argentina

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Victoria Campolo, Argentine heavyweight, announced today that he had accepted a match with K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio, here early in March. Campolo said he intended to return to the United States and continue his title quest immediately after the match.

Central and Eastern Fives in Games Today

The scholastic basket ball menu for the day is in the nature of a lull before the storm of this week-end's start of the high school series. Central is due to play George Washington University's Frosh at Central, while Eastern plays host to the Little Generals of Washington-Lee High, of Ballston, at Eastern.

The Colonial Frosh is out for a win against Central, having dropped a decision to another local high school, Eastern, Monday afternoon in one of the big upsets of the season.

Eastern should have a breather today against Washington-Lee, whose basket ball teams do not ordinarily come up to the comparative caliber of the school's football squads.

Western Outclasses Woodward Five, 58-23

Western High's sharpshooting basket ball team reached the near-zenith of its powers yesterday afternoon at Western's gym when the Woodward School Team was sent home on the short end of a 58-to-23 score after a game which saw Everett Buscher and Anthony reach their peak for the season.

Buscher, playing his first game since an early season injury received in the Baltimore City College game, produced a rarely accurate eye, aiding his team's points by 27 markers.

MARIA HAZARD, at the age of 100, could count 500 children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. During the eighteenth century, when she lived, an abundance of cheap land encouraged early marriages and many children. When Maria Hazard died 205 of her descendants were alive and one granddaughter had been a grandmother for fifteen years.

East's "Big Three" Leading in Reforms By Pruning Schedules, Banning Scouting

Harvard, Princeton and Yale Exerting Their Influence.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The old Eastern "Big Three" isn't what it used to be in the days of its bewhiskered, heavily padded football giants. Competitively, Harvard, Yale and Princeton no longer dominate the East, let alone any other section of athletic activity, but their influence nevertheless remains potent in the intercollegiate world. They are among the leaders now in widely-discussed plans for football reforms.

The old triple agreement, involving one of the strictest athletic codes in effect anywhere in the country, was broken up more than four years ago when Harvard and Princeton severed relations, but its provisions still are effective through the dual agreements made by Yale with its two old rivals. Nevertheless, Yale was the only member of the ancient triumvirate given a "purity" rating a year ago by the famous Bulletin 23 of the Carnegie Foundation.

Yale First to Seek End of Scouting.

Yale was among the first major colleges to seek the removal of scouting as a by-product of college football but the support for this, especially at Harvard, disappeared after a brief trial.

The trio long have restricted the start of fall football practice to September 15, although there was some agitation for the removal of this restriction last season. Since then, however, leaders of the three institutions have favored its retention, along with the abolishment altogether of spring practice.

The Associated Press survey now has disclosed a definite move on the part of these leaders gradually to reduce the length of football schedules as part of the move to eliminate gridiron overemphasis.

Harvard, Princeton Prune Schedules.

Yale has not yet committed itself, but Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, of Princeton, has gone on record as favoring a reduction in the number of games. Harvard is understood to be considering pruning its competition from eight to seven games in 1932 and probably to six by 1933. Princeton already is on a seven-game basis. Harvard's president, Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, has gone so far as to suggest it would be ideal for Harvard to play one major football game a season, with Yale.

The size of athletic receipts, which at Yale and Harvard have reached the million-dollar class in recent years, is not "viewed with alarm" by the old "big three." During the year ending last June 30, Harvard took in almost $700,000 from football, but paid out more than $1,000,000 to maintain all its sports, replace and repair buildings and condition the playing fields. Yale's income and outlay were slightly larger for a similar period, due to the bigger "gates" possible in the Eli bowl.

Despite decreased receipts last fall, as much as $150,000 at Harvard, none of the three plans to curtail 1931 athletic programs, unless it applies to spring football practice. Schedules all have been arranged for some time and the athletic machinery is too elaborate to be overruled on short notice, even if it were considered necessary, due to business conditions or agitation.

The "endowment" of college football, suggested by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, has met with no responsive indorsement among the old triumvirate. Harvard believes it would need at least a $10,000,000 endowment to keep its sports program going properly.

"Athletics for All" Policy Developed.

The "athletics for all" policy has been developed at Harvard, Yale and Princeton to a point where upward of 75 per cent of the student bodies engage in some form of sport. This often is lost sight of, in the opinion of W. J. Bingham, Harvard's progressive graduate manager, because there is so much of the spectacular connected with intercollegiate competition, for example, last fall, 1,350 undergraduates at Harvard played some form of football, although the varsity squad numbered only about 50.

Friedman Considers Many Coaching Offers

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Bennie Friedman, all-America quarter back at Michigan a few years back and now a professional star, said today he had discussed coaching assignments with representatives of the University of California and several Eastern schools but had signed with no one.

"I talked with W. W. Monohan, California graduate manager, when he was East recently," Friedman said, "but we did not get to the contract stage. I am considering various possibilities now and that's as much as I can say."

Bennie declined to say with what Eastern schools he had discussed coaching assignments but friends named Pennsylvania and Yale. Friedman helped coach the Eli forward passers last fall.

Decline in Receipts Presents no Problem to Large Schools.

League Not to Admit Pro Fives This Season

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The American Basket Ball League will not admit any new teams for the second half of its season, John O'Brien, president of the league, announced today.

Applications have been received for a second Chicago team and for franchises for Dayton and Canton, Ohio, but the executive committee ruled to consider them only for the 1931-32 season on the grounds that these cities would not have time to assemble teams strong enough to compete with the five league members.

As a special consideration to the Toledo Club, the first game of the second half of the season has been advanced to January 10, four days before the completion of the first half. A change in Toledo's home dates, the Red Men advanced their clash with Fort Wayne to that date from January 16.

Auburn Signs Kiley As Part-Time Grid Aid

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, announced late today that Roger J. Kiley, former Notre Dame star, had accepted a contract as part-time assistant coach here for next year.

Kiley, a Chicago attorney, came here this last fall to assist Chet Wynne, head coach and former team mate, in installing the Notre Dame system.

Dr. Knapp said "the combination of Chet Wynne, coaching the back field, and Kiley, the ends and line, did wonders for the team this year. With good material coming up from the freshman team, prospects for 1931 are materially better."

Under the coaching of Wynne and Kiley, Auburn won its first Southern Conference game in four years this last Thanksgiving, defeating the South Carolina Game Cocks, 26 to 7.

Sharkey Bout Rejected By Manager of German; Accepts Stribling Fight

Says Georgian Would Rather Fight Recognized Champion.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—W. L. (Young) Stribling will fight Max Schmeling in Chicago next June despite Schmeling's disqualification by the New York Athletic Commission, his father-manager announced today.

The elder Stribling said he accepted terms to put his son in the ring with Schmeling at a Chicago milk fund benefit. The affair will be held at Soldier's Field, although the date is not definite.

"We'd rather fight for the National Boxing Association in Chicago and meet Schmeling than meet Sharkey or any other contender in New York. Regardless of the action of the New York Commission today in withdrawing recognition from Schmeling as champion, he still is generally recognized as the champion and I see no reason why W. L. should meet Sharkey in New York or elsewhere."

Agreement Made By Telephone.

The elder Stribling said he concluded agreement for the Chicago fight in a telephone call with Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, in New York today.

Under the agreement Stribling will receive 12½ per cent of the gate. Schmeling, "Pa" said he assumed, would fight on the basis of the $500,000 offer made previously to him.

He declined to comment on the possibility W. L. may meet Primo Carnera under the promotion of Frank Bruen here this winter. He expected to confer shortly with Bruen, formerly vice president of Madison Square Garden, regarding the effect on the preparations for a Miami match of the $1,000 fine imposed upon Carnera by the Spanish Boxing Commission.

Action of Commission Drives Title Bout to Chicago.

Deny Jacobs' Plea Sharkey Engage in Build-Up Bout.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The storm brewing over the heavyweights for the past six months broke in a crash of verbal thunder today as the New York State Athletic Commission stripped Max Schmeling of his championship and drove another title fight into outer pastures.

Rising in all its proud might to stand off the logic of Joe Jacobs, manager of the Teuton; of Bill Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, and the combined attack of sports writers and fight critics, the commission ruled Schmeling null and void for refusing to sign immediately for a return match with Jack Sharkey. Then in the same breath, the fistic fathers declared they would accept as champion the winner of a match between Sharkey and Young Stribling, the pride of Georgia, although they had refused up to this point to consider Stribling as a fit opponent for Sharkey in a match to determine an outstanding challenger for Schmeling.

1926 Precedent To Be Followed.

So, following the precedent of 1926 when Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney were forced to Philadelphia to fight for the heavyweight crown because of commission objections, Schmeling will take his title claims either to Chicago, Detroit, Jersey City or Philadelphia in June and defend them against the assaults of Young Stribling.

Although four bidders already are in the field for the match, Nate Lewis, matchmaker at the Chicago Stadium which controls Soldier Field, and its seating capacity of 100,000, has the inside track with a $500,000 bid for der Maxie's services as well as an option on Stribling. Lewis and Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, arrived here today for further conference with Jacobs.

Jacobs has all but formally accepted the Chicago offer and in Miami today, "Pa" Stribling announced he had come to terms definitely with Lewis and Strotz for a title fight with Schmeling at Soldier Field, in June. Stribling declared he was not interested in matching his son with Sharkey, either in New York or elsewhere.

Stribling-Carnera Plans Vague.

Meanwhile, it appeared that negotiations for Stribling to fight Primo Carnera, the big Italian, in Miami next month, or for any heavyweight match in Florida, were very much up in the air as a result of today's development. It was understood Stribling, assured of a Schmeling match, was disinclined to risk any other venture in the meantime.

Harassed by an almost united boxing front that can see no justification in the commission stand, James A. Farley, head of the board, stood by his guns with the support of Gen. John Phelan, and insisted at a stormy meeting today that Jacobs answer "yes" or "no" to an ultimatum that Schmeling sign immediately and post a $10,000 forfeit for a title bout with Sharkey here in June.

Jacobs Pleads for Contract Rights.

In vain Jacobs asked that the commission stands by a contract it forced Schmeling to sign with Madison Square Garden last June before it would license the German for his first duel with Sharkey—a contract calling for Schmeling to defend the title, if he won, against an opponent to be named by the Garden 90 days before June, 1931.

Jacobs also offered to sign Schmeling immediately for a match here in June against the winner of a Sharkey-Stribling match or against Sharkey, if Stribling refused to take the preliminary contest. The commission still insisted on a "yes" or "no" answer to its ultimatum, and this Jacobs refused to give.

Then, without the support of William Muldoon, the 87-year-old "iron duke" of boxing, the commission voted to vacate Schmeling's title even after Carey, as head of the garden, said he did not want to sign a Sharkey-Schmeling match now without some sort of preliminary build-up to stir public interest. The first meeting of the pair last June ended in a fiasco with Schmeling winning on a foul in the fourth round.

Despite its advocacy of Sharkey the commission apparently has succeeded only in eliminating the Boston belter from another title chance in 1931. With both Schmeling and Stribling booked for Chicago, there is no other heavyweight of importance in the field to challenge Sharkey for a title match in New York.

Farley Defends Commission.

Farley defended the commission's stand after the meeting, declaring again that Schmeling promised to meet Sharkey before any one else after the commission had been "good sports" and declared him champion despite his "unfinished contest" with Sharkey.

"Schmeling refused, for reasons offered, to accept Sharkey now as a title opponent," he said. "He has not played as fairly with us as we did with him. If he were any kind of a sport he'd want to fight Sharkey again and clear up the muddle.

"We don't want this argument with Schmeling. We don't go out of our way to pick fights. But we are doing what we think to be the fair thing and the best thing for general good of boxing. That's our stand and we're sticking to it."

Schmeling, in Berlin, Flays N. Y. Commission

Berlin, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, writing in the Berliner Zeitung, says he will defend his world heavyweight title in Chicago against any opponent picked by the National Boxing Commission, but that he will not defend it in a New York ring where he won it.

Schmeling said he would not enter an American ring where the New York Athletic Commission had anything to say about the referee.

The German boxer had some harsh things to say about the New York commission and especially James J. Farley, its chairman.

"Only with bleeding heart and after many days deliberation could the commission, headed by Mister Farley, bring itself to recognize me as the winner of the title bout," Schmeling wrote, "while the National Boxing Commission, with 33 States behind it, recognized me the day after the fight.

"Mister Farley, good friend of Jack Sharkey, never could reconcile himself to a non-American holding title and naturally wants to set all wheels in motion to hoist his friend Sharkey onto the throne."

Schmeling also viewed the new no-foul rule of the New York commission with a jaundiced eye.

He said he was making his statement at this time to give German sport fans a clear view of the American pugilistic scene, "particularly since the next few days, perhaps, may bring the news that the New York commission has disallowed my world championship title."

Schmeling's expressed friendliness for the National Boxing Commission might have been tempered somewhat had he known of the vote it is taking on whether to declare vacant the throne he now occupies. First returns indicated a widespread opinion that it should.

Walker's Middleweight Title Is Declared Vacant

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Taking time out from its heavyweight war against Max Schmeling today, the New York State Athletic Commission declared Mickey Walker's middleweight title vacant, depriving the Rumson, N. J., terrier of his last championship claim of the many he has held and lost in the past eight years.

The action was taken on the grounds that Walker had refused to respond to the commission's ultimatum that he take steps toward a title defense.

Walker won the middleweight championship from Tiger Flowers in 1926.

Five Games in Cuba Scheduled by Robins

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—A spring exhibition schedule of 31 games, including five intraclub combats at Tropical Stadium, Havana, was announced today by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Havana series will give the patriotic Cubans a chance to root for the only Cuban battery in the big leagues—the aged Adolfo Luque and the young Alfonso Lopez.

Chicagoan's 75 Leads Miami Midwinter Golf

Miami, Fla., Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Win Day, Chicago, shot a 75 over windswept links today to lead the pack of 27 players in first day qualifying play of the Miami midwinter amateur golf tournament.

Two strokes behind Day was Lee Chase, Buffalo, with a 77. Jack Villas, Chicago, had a 79, and Charles Durand, Brooklyn, came in with an 81.

Jim West, of Miami, 1930 champion, will lead approximately 60 entries in qualifying play tomorrow. Match play will start Thursday and continue through Sunday.

U. S. G. A. GLAD TO RETAIN BOBBY JONES ON BOARD

Film Contract No Bar to Office

National Head Says Jones' Act Caused No Problem.

Even Pro Eligible to Serve on Committee, He Points Out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—If the retirement of Robert T. Jones, jr., from competitive golf for 1931, followed by his business ventures in motion pictures and radio, has precipitated any critical reaction within the United States Golf Association, national officers have not heard about it.

They see no reason for, nor do they anticipate the development of, any opposition to the reelection of Jones as a member of the executive committee for 1931 at the annual meeting of the association this Saturday in New York.

"No one acquainted with our organization would suggest that Mr. Jones is not eligible to sit with the ruling body of the association," said Herbert H. Ramsay, who is slated for elevation to the presidency of the U. S. G. A.

Could Even Elect Pro To Committee.

"The fact is that, if we desired or felt it was advisable, we could elect a professional golfer to executive committee membership, so long as he was enrolled in a member club. Nothing in our by-laws prevents it. So far as Mr. Jones is concerned, he has been duly nominated to continue on the committee and we expect his unanimous election. The committee feels that he should continue to serve the game of golf and is most desirous of retaining his advice and counsel."

The understanding here is Jones has turned down all further commercial offers, feeling he has undertaken enough in signing radio and motion picture contracts, in addition to which he already has his newspaper work and law practice.

"Gentleman Rider" Appellation Doomed

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—"Gentleman Riders" may become "amateurs" when the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association meets here Thursday.

Sentiment against the use of the word 'gentleman' in steeplechase and hunting circles as distinguished from professionals has been crystallizing for some time," says Frank Bryan, secretary of the association, "and several members have called for a general discussion of the rules at the annual meeting, specifying that as one of the points.

"The word 'gentleman' hardly fits as we mean it and has come into disuse except in the rules. Judging from expressions of opinion heard it is almost sure to be thrown out."

—Fair Grounds Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE Belzonia Allowance Purse for 4-year-olds and up at a mile and a sixteenth is the best race on the Fair Grounds card today, although the conditions are identical with the Pine Hills Purse. The Belzonia has the better field, and the number should bring about a keenly contested race. Six horses are to start, and the chief contenders seem to be SKIRL and ROCKET GLARE.

SKIRL was beaten in his last start by Bocaratone after leading most of the way, but the C. V. Whitney colt should prove best of this field. In his race prior to the Bocaratone contest, the son of Broomstick beat Eil-Weir by three lengths and that effort repeated will carry him safely through in this. ROCKET GLARE was unplaced in the New Year Handicap, but in her previous race beat the winner of the New Year Handicap, Play Time, by four lengths, running him into defeat at the head of the stretch. The Labrot filly should make it interesting to SKIRL and hold the others safe. GUIDE RIGHT, a recent winner, but inconsistent, probably will find this distance too far, but should be as good as third.

FIRST RACE—Maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings start in the first race, at three furlongs. The Joseph Leiter entry is picked to win, but neither PRINCE HOT SPUR nor PRINCE TRAFALGAR has started. They are well bred and reported to be good prospects. NEWBURGER is making his second start. In the race won by Proteus, he was well supported, but got pinched out of it at the start, closing fast. He is rated the contender against the Leiter pair on the form of that race, but TEMPUS, by Eternal, may get the place.

SECOND RACE—FUDGE should repeat in the second race, for 3-year-olds. The Goldblatt colt won easily Saturday from Our Johnny. PRINCIPIO won his way out of the maiden class as a 2-year-old on December 30, at Jefferson Park. He beat Sun Porter in that race and paid $94, but he ran well in the East in the spring and is rated the contender in this dash. FLY GUY or OUR JHONNY should be the third horse.

THIRD RACE—SPURRIER seems to have the best chance he has had in the third race and he should win it. The distance of a mile and a sixteenth suits him, and his second to Shark in his last race, beaten by a short head, is sufficient excuse for his selection. The race was over a good track and was run in good time. PETER DIXON has been improving and is rated the contender. Last out, he was third to Foreign Relations. GRIFF W seems to be the only menace in this field to the straight and place selections. He will be as good as third, and might get first money.

FOURTH RACE—The Pine Hills Purse, fourth race, should go to GRECIAN BEAUTY, scratched yesterday. DRESS SHIP won his last and will be the dangerous contender. THOMAS SETH will find third money easy. He may go after more. GRECIAN BEAUTY was second to Eil Weir last out, but in her previous race beat as good a horse as Kadiak. DRESS SHIP showed sudden improvement in beating Scone in his last start. If he repeats that race he will be very dangerous.

SIXTH RACE—JACK HASKELL, which won his last start from Celtic Prince, has the best chance in the sixth event on this card. MORSNUFF unplaced in that race, looks like the contender in this, going back a few races on him, for he beat Bob Kernan easily in his previous start. RUANE may get in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—SORRENTO in the seventh race is a standout. In his last start, he won over Vorpell at a mile and a quarter in the good time of 2.06 2-5 on the Jefferson Park track. SHARK, winner over Spurrier in his last start, will be a keen contender. His race was a smashing one, and should hold the others safe if he repeats it. YARGEE has the call on third money. He was unplaced in his last start, but can hold his own with this kind.

GAME FINISH SCORES FOR REPROOF

Filly, Favorite, Withstands Challenge of Donny Johnny.

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK, New Orleans, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—F. Sansone's Reproof and the Negro jockey, R. Simpson, proved the winning combination to land the purse in the Pom Pom, a six-furlong sprint which featured today's card. Reproof was an odds-on favorite and ran and won like a good favorite should, stepping the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5.

Donny Johnny was second and Michigan Girl third.

The start was good and Reproof opened a three-length lead on Donny Johnny in the run up the back stretch. Reproof continued to hold away around the turn and into the stretch, but at the furlong pole Donny Johnny moved up to her and appeared as if he would run by the filly. Reproof, however, had something left, and drew away again to win by a length and a half. Donny Johnny beat Michigan Girl a length for the place. The winner paid $3.60.

False Start Thrills Crowd in Fifth.

The fifth race gave the crowd a thrill when the field got away to a false start, in which Bob Shannon and Voltear ran about a quarter mile at top speed.

When the real start came it was good, Patricia Marian rushing to the front and leading to the final furlong where Eil Weir took command and drew away to win by two lengths. His time was 1:39 3-5, and he paid $9.40.

Mardie won the second race in a drive, defeating the hot favorite, Flying Nancy, with My Sweets third.

Jockey J. Smith rode his second straight winner of the day when he landed Mardie a winner.

Flying Nancy is a very speedy filly but is a rank quitter. She can run very fast but will not carry her speed over five furlongs.

She led the field to the stretch where she quit and Mardie, closing fast, won by a length.

Jockey E. James, who has been out of the saddle for more than a week, had the mount on Flying Nancy, but second was the best he could do.

Zoom Closes Fast To Win Third.

C. V. Whitney's silks were borne to victory in the third race, when Zoom, under Russell's hustling ride, accounted for the purse. Betty Beau was second and Broad Meadows, owned by E. R. Bradley, and odds-on favorite, was a poor third. He is probably overrated.

Betty Beau took the lead early, leading by a length to the stretch, where she tired and Zoom, closing gamely, won going away by half a length in 1:13 1-5, and paid $22 for each $2.

Duellist, paying $23.10 for a $2 ticket, won the sixth race in a drive by a length over Broker, who beat Domina a head for the place.

It marked the third victory of the day for J. Smith. His previous winners were Marie and Bunama.

Mardie was the only short priced one of the trio, the other two being long shots.

CLOSE GAME TO BOYS' CLUB

Eastern Dribblers Are Nosed Out by 24 to 20 Count.

THE Boys Club turned tables on Coach Charlie Guyon's fast Eastern High School five last night, nosing out a 24-20 victory in one of the big upsets of the season. Eastern had been a heavy favorite by dint of its fine season and an earlier defeat of the Boys Club tossers.

For once the Eastern regulars failed to stem the tide when Coach Guyon injected them into the fray at the start of the second period. With the score tied at 5-5, the Boys Club drew gradually away to lead at 15-8 at the half, at which time Eastern's reserves again entered the game.

Eastern Rally Falls Short.

Led by Gregory and Lassise, former all-high Tech guard, the Clubmen staged a drive in the second half that saw them draw safely away from Eastern until near the end, when Eastern, by reason of the stellar shooting of Noonan, center, threatened, but fell short of deadlocking the score.

It was a rough and tumble game from start to finish, with Referee Haas experiencing difficulty in quelling too fierce playing.

HYATTSVILLE FIVE EASY FOR TECH

Suburbanites Bow, 39-14, as Tech Regulars Run Wild.

TECH, Coach Artie Boyd's District champions, mowed down the Hyattsville High Five yesterday afternoon at Tech by the score, 39-14, in a game which resembled a runaway when Tech's regulars took the floor at the start of the second half.

Hyattsville, showing great improvement since the first of the season, fairly well held its own, trailing at 6-4 at the end of the first quarter, and at 14-8 at the end of the half.

Tech Regulars Run Up Big Score.

But here the combination of Russell, Reichardt, Johns, Reed and Willison took the situation in hand and began to pile up a lead which saw Tech in the van by the score 25-9 at the end of the third quarter, and 39-14 at the final whistle.

Tech's defense was airtight against the thrusts of the visitors throughout the game, while even Tech's reserve strength found it possible to nick the visitors for telling points. Wheeler, Coach Boyd's alternate forward, was the high point scorer of the day, with 11 points to his credit.

INTERCITY LEAGUE.

The Western Electric Quintet increased its lead in the Intercity League last night by handily defeating the last-place Laurel Independents, 46 to 17, at the Laurel Armory. The leaders have won four games and lost none. The Brentwood Hawks forfeited to the De Molays when they were unable to muster a full team at starting time. In an exhibition game, the Hawks lost to the De Molays, 32 to 20.

STENOG FIVE OUTSCORES GONZAGA

Duryee, Lucas Lead Business High to 27-15 Victory.

BIG BILL DURYEE and little Bobby Lucas led an uncertainly playing Business High School basket-ball team to victory yesterday over Orrel Mitchell's Gonzaga High tossers by the score of 27 to 15, in a game played at Business' low-ceilinged gymnasium.

While Business failed to produce much smoothness, it was soon evident that it was the better team on the floor. The game got off to a slow start, the score standing at 4-4 at the end of the first quarter. From then on it was all Business. Duryee put his team in the van early in the second period and the score at the half stood 15 to 7 in favor of the Stenogs.

Entire Business Squad In Action.

Lucas' floor game shone all during his appearance in the game. Coach Woodworth used his entire squad during the game.

Nolan was the chief threat of the Gonzaga outfit, and with Fitzgerald made up the best passing combination of the game, but the quality of the other Purple performers was not up to the standards set by these two.

G. W. QUINTET TO INVADE NAVAL ACADEMY TODAY

Old Line Five Opens With Gallaudet

Colonials' Strongest Line-Up Ready for Annapolis Fray.

Columbus to Engage Shepherd; Central Plays G. W. Cubs.

FEATURED by George Washington University's test against the Navy, and the opening of Maryland's court season against Gallaudet, an interesting day of college basketball is offered to local and nearby fandom today. Two other resident college teams, Columbus and G. W. Frosh, also swing into action today against Shepherd College, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., and Central High, respectively.

Coach Jimmy Pixlee put his Colonials through their final practice yesterday in preparation for their battle with the Midshipmen. Pixlee was cognizant of the task ahead of him, but a note of optimism has been evident at the downtown school of late.

Navy Has Two Victories To Credit.

While Navy has not been defeated this year, having the scalps of William and Mary and Duke on its belt, it will have to produce top form to turn back the Colonials. G. W. also has in mind the trouncing the 1930 team received at the hands of the Middies.

The Colonial opening line-up is the best Pixlee can muster. Burgess and Conner have received the call for forward posts, Chambers will start at center, with Zahn and Fenlon guards. Mulvey, Jeweler, Carey and Castel make up the bulk of the reserve power. The Colonials leave at noon. The game gets under way at 4 o'clock at Forbes Gymnasium.

A somber note was struck to Maryland's basket ball chances for the year yesterday by the announcement that Bob Gaylor would not return to school. Gaylor, high scorer and outstanding floor man last year, was looked upon as the chief threat of the Old Liners this year. Coach Shipley will shift Berger to guard, "Bozey" of late having displayed a little of Gaylor's knack of getting the ball off the backboard.

Gallaudet has been sweeping through its opposition to date, and while on paper is doomed to meet defeat tonight, looks to the demobilized condition of the College Parkmen as a situation out of which most anything might arise. The game is scheduled for 8 o'clock at Ritchie Gymnasium.

Columbus Hopes to Put Shepherds to Rout.

Columbus' game tonight at Central against Shepherd is in the nature of a return game. The Knights journeyed to the West Virginia institution on the night of December 17 and met with a decisive defeat, but were without the services of several sterling performers. Coach Tommy Connor reports that his squad is in good fettle for the fray tonight and is looking forward to a victory.

G. W.'s Frosh, taken back by a loss to Eastern High Monday night, wind up the college basket ball scheduled for today. The young Colonials will meet another strong scholastic covey in Central, but are expected to come away from Central Gym the victor.

Navy Strengthened For Colonials Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 6.—In good stride again following the holiday lay-off of nearly two weeks, the Navy Basket Ball Team will resume action tomorrow, entertaining the five of George Washington. The Tars won their first three starts before Christmas leave and are anticipating a hard battle from the Colonials, though expecting to win.

Wilson's pupils may be said to be in much better shape now, as the squad has been strengthened by the addition of Blimp Bowstrom, Hagberg, and other football players who joined it during the last few days, academic regulations requiring a lay-off following the close of a gridiron campaign.

Consumers-Saks Play Benefit on Saturday

Griffith Consumers basketers will meet the Saks Clothiers at 9 o'clock Saturday night in the Boys Club Gym in a benefit game, the proceeds to be turned over to the widow of William Andrews, former veteran sandlot athlete and manager, who died last week.

Tickets are on sale at sports stores and the Griffith Consumer office.

WAR COLLEGE VICTOR.

Army War College five bested the Bolling Field tossers last night at Bolling Field by the score of 24-16 in a fast and furious game played before a crowd of 200.

A Garrison finish on the part of the Collegians clinched the game.

STOCKS GAIN AGAIN, LED BY FAVORITES

RAILS, INDUSTRIALS UP

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—With the exception of one setback which scarcely lasted through the first hour, the stock market made steady progress today.

It was a slow advance, but gained momentum during the afternoon and the favorite industrials were up a point or two net. Rails made a better showing, and there was group strength in such other subdivisions as the foods, coppers, tobaccos, motion pictures and chemicals. Activity increased slightly on the rally, although sales totaled only 1,906,610 shares.

Overnight selling orders were executed at concessions amounting to not much more than a point. Shorts who extended their commitments on the theory that the decline, even if corrective, had still further to go, ran against the stone wall of dullness and retraced their steps by covering. This erased the losses and thereafter the market climbed slowly, deriving considerable encouragement from the higher grain prices in Chicago.

Small Lots Traded.

An unusually larger number of preferred stocks sold, mostly in ten-share lots, and prices in many instances rallied 2 to 3 points or more. This obvious investment buying, coupled with firmness of bonds, suggested confidence was being restored, although it was recalled that two or three false starts of the same sort had been seen last year before the seriousness of the depression was realized.

Aside from new lows in silver bullion at New York and London, news was largely colorless. Sugar stocks were helped by word that curtailment negotiations were to be resumed in Berlin. American Sugar and South Porto Rico rallied a couple of points. Coppers ignored the reduction in Cerro de Pasco's dividend, and Calumet & Arizona, Kennecott, American Smelting and Anaconda were up a point or two. The move in chemical shares was more vigorous, Allied rising 3, Union Carbide 1 and United Carbon about 2. Warner Bros. led the amusement group and was taken actively, with a gain of a point. Motor issues were quiet.

The Iron and Steel Institute's figures on steel ingot production for last year, 39,652,539 tons, tallied closely with previous estimates. Wall street, much more interested in the first quarter of 1931, rather expects tomorrow's report on operations to show a fair increase.

Fifty million dollars went unloaned in the money market, where funds were offered unofficially at 1 per cent. Bank loans on securities, as well as commercial borrowings, rose rather nominally in the last week, but the former item showed a decline of $490,000,000 for the calendar year. Commercial loans shrank $895,000,000 during 1930, reflecting the stagnation of trade.

These Lead Advance.

United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone, National Biscuit, General Electric and Westinghouse gave the share market strong leadership in today's advance, all closing a point or more higher. New Haven rallied 4, Wabash, Atchison and Southern Railway 3, Baltimore & Ohio 2¾ and New York Central and Pennsylvania nearly a point. American Tobacco "B" advanced 3 and Liggett & Myers 7. Goodyear Rubber tumbled 3¼, but reduced its loss. Wall street heard the dividend rate might be reduced at the directors' meeting tomorrow.

July wheat, new contract, rallied a cent, but other futures closed unchanged. An improved export demand was reported; in addition, Argentine advices said the harvesting weather there was unfavorable. Corn was strong, 1⅞ to 2⅜ higher. Cotton met early pressure, but recovered and closed a point lower to 4 higher.

A drop in the Canadian dollar to a discount of one half of 1 per cent was traced to the fact that the Montreal office where gold is bought was closed because of a holiday, but hastily circulated rumors had it that an embargo was imminent and so the exchange suffered. A shipment of $2,500,000 in Canadian gold was received here. Other foreign rates were irregular. Shanghai taels made a record low coincident with the decline in bar silver.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—With corn receipts the smallest in many months, almost at the vanishing point, grain prices jumped today. Speculative buying of corn future deliveries broadened and the market rose 3½ cents over the day's bottom figures. Commission house trade was larger than for some time past.

Corn closed strong, 1⅞-2½ cents higher, wheat unchanged to 1¼ up, oats 1-1⅛ advanced, and provisions showing 5 to 20 cents gain.

New upturns in corn followed fluctuations of 1½ to 4 cents every day for more than a week. Commission houses said that for the present corn furnished an ideal trading market, and they made much of persistent falling off shown in the movement of corn from farms. Chicago received only 29 cars; St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha arrivals likewise were meager.

Corn primary arrivals totaled 460,000 bushels, against 982,000 a year ago. Much of the expanded purchasing was to stop losses, but included a large share of fresh investment. Part of the investment buying was associated with talk of probable increased industrial use of corn, notably for the manufacture of sugar, and with reports of an expected world agreement on sugar production.

Compared to corn, wheat was sluggish, but finally scored sharp rallies. Unfavorable harvest conditions in Argentina and Australia were reported, and dearth of moisture for winter wheat from central Kansas through Missouri to extensive areas east of the Mississippi, some towns resorting to winter rations. June delivery of wheat brought 78 cents, compared with recent transactions at 65 cents. In oats, the feature was small receipts, only four cars at Chicago.

Closing indemnities—Wheat, May, 81⅜; July, 64⅞@65; 66¾@66⅞. Corn, March 70¼, 72⅜; May, 71⅝@71¾, 74½; July, 72½, 75½.

BONDS STILL KEEP ON UPWARD TREND

Rails Make Best Average Gains, Some Going to New Highs.

U. S. TREASURIES RISE

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—All sections of the bond market made progress today under the impetus of a good demand that influenced brisk bidding in many investment and speculative issues. Trading was quiet during the morning and realizing checked the advance. The offerings were well absorbed, however, and bonds resumed their upward movement in the afternoon in a turnover comparable with the best of the year end.

Accumulation of all classes of railroad obligations was large and the best average gains among domestic issues were in that section. Atchison general 4s, a favorite with savings banks, sold within ⅛ of its two-year high level, and new highs were reached by Canadian National Railway 4½s, and Central Pacific Shore Line 4s, the latter on a 4 point advance in heavy trading.

C. & O. 4½s at New Peak.

Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s reached a new peak at 106⅞. Many of the investment rails that have a high rating have recovered the ground lost in the heavy selling last year.

The response of United States Governments to the cheapness of credit brought an advance in both long and short term issues. Treasury short-term issues were unusually active and closed about ⅛ higher on the average. Treasury 3¾s of 1940-43 surpassed its 1929 peak.

Amusement issues led the advance in stock privilege bonds that followed the strong finish in shares. Pathe 7s gained 4 points following announcement of the merger with Radio-Keith-Orpheum. General Theaters 6s rallied 3⅜, and Warner Brothers advanced 4 and closed 3¼ higher.

Brazilians Active.

Brazilian bonds took a sudden spurt and many other Latin-American issues moved upward with them. Activity in the Brazilian bonds was the best in some time and brought advances that ranged as high as 6 points. The largest gain was by Brazilian Central Railway 7s. The Government 8s advanced 5, and the 3½s about 2. Several of the state loans firmed in a thin market.

There have been rumors that Brazil was arranging a new loan in Europe, and reports here said New York would participate, but bankers denied them.

Offerings tomorrow will include a $3,500,000 5 per cent issue of the City of Atlantic City, N. J.

MORTGAGE CONCERN RETAINS ITS BOARD

CAR LOADINGS IN 1930

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

All directors of the National Mortgage & Investment Corporation were reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday. They are: Dr. George M. Ruffin, Charles W. Norris, James T. Gibbs, Vernon G. Owen, George W. Offutt, Irving O. Ball, James W. Beller, Col. M. C. Buckey, MacPherson Crichton, Clarence F. Donohoe, Harold E. Doyle, John J. Hamilton, Gen. W. A. Holbrook, Ashton C. Jones, Crandal Mackey, Maj. J. Garfield Riley, James P. Schick, W. W. Stewart, Hugh A. Thrift, George E. Walker, William D. West.

At the organization meeting of the board of Firemen's Insurance Co. of Washington and Georgetown yesterday, the following officers were reelected: William M. Hoffman, president; Albert W. Howard, vice president and secretary; James N. Fitzpatrick, jr., assistant secretary.

Encourages Credit Men.

In a message to the Washington Association of Credit men, Dr. Stephen I. Miller, executive manager of the national association, states: "Our best business asset as we go into 1931 is a saner, sounder mental attitude.

"We have had a proper shaking up that always jars the nerves, but also improves the circulation. We have been purged of a lot of fantastic ideas. We have discovered the efficacy of thoughtful planning and discriminating use of our working and investment capital. These things have cost a lot of money, but they were worth it."

Complete reports for the year show that 45,887,413 cars were loaded with revenue freight in 1930, the American Railway Association announced. This was a reduction of 6,940,512 cars, or 13.1 per cent, under 1929, and a reduction of 5,702,474 cars, or 11.1 per cent under 1928.

Dr. David Friday, widely known economist, will be speaker at the open meeting of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at the Willard January 26.

Insurance Now Better.

H. Cochran Fisher, of the Aetna Life Insurance Co., is recovering from a severe illness.

Thomas E. Jarrell, president of the Washington Savings Bank, will leave January 12 for St. Petersburg, Fla., for a meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He will be accompanied by Dr. George M. Sharp.

Lawrence Lampson, of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, has been elected president of the C Club of Central High School graduates.

Frank Stetson, vice president and trust officer of the National Savings & Trust Co., and W. W. Spaid, partner in W. B. Hibbs & Co., have returned from a visit at Savannah.

Wrigley to Accept Wheat in Barter

Company Regards Grain as Cheap and as Promising Profits.

Chicago, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—A plan of the William Wrigley, Jr., Co., Ltd., of Canada, to take wheat in exchange for its products in Western Canada was explained in a letter today from its Toronto offices.

"We have decided," the letter said, "that all money owing us in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta from December 12, 1930, to May 1, 1931, shall be accumulated to purchase wheat for delivery in May, 1931. In other words, we propose to take wheat in exchange for Wrigley's products."

The company explained it had three purposes. Cash was not to be taken out of the western provinces, but the money left there in the form of wheat. The company said it believed wheat at 65 cents a bushel was cheap and would make money. Also the plan would relieve to some extent the carrying strain on farmers, pools, and other business enterprises.

Crude Oil Output Continues Falling

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 44,650 barrels in the week ended January 3, totaling 2,082,100 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. Daily average production east of California was 1,544,600 barrels, a decrease of 16,350 barrels.

Refineries representing 95.7 per cent of the estimated daily potential refining capacity, operating at 58.7 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average run of crude oil to stills as 2,095,300 barrels. Daily average the previous week was 2,207,400 barrels for refineries, representing 95.7 per cent of potential capacity operating at 61.8 per cent of capacity.

U. S. Steel Stock Offered At 140 to Employes

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation has decided to offer employes of the corporation and its subsidiaries the privilege of subscribing for 100,000 shares of common stock at $140 a share.

Under the offer made January 14 last year employes of the corporation and its subsidiaries subscribed for 98,321 of 100,000 shares of common offered at $169 a share.

Nash Income Slumps; Dividend Remains Same

New York, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Nash Motors reported for the year ended November 30 net income of $7,601,164, equivalent to $2.78 a share, against $18,013,781 the preceding year. Directors today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.

Manati Sugar Co. reported for the year ended October 31 consolidated net loss of $186,797, against net profit of $843,316 the year before.

Lloyd's Bank Cuts Dividend.

London, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Lloyd's Bank, first of the big houses to make a current dividend declaration, announced today 15 per cent would be paid on the A shares, compared with 16 2-3 per cent paid for the last ten years. Reductions were announced also by one of the large building societies and it was expected cuts would follow in other organizations.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Weather Bureau, Washington, Tuesday, Jan. 6.—8 p. m.

The forecast for the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Fair Wednesday, Thursday increasing cloudiness and warmer, followed by rain beginning late Thursday afternoon or night; diminishing northwest winds Wednesday, becoming southerly and increasing Thursday.

The extensive eastern disturbance has continued to move northeastward with gradually increasing intensity, being central tonight over the Bay of Fundy. Eastport, Me., 28.78 inches. It has been attended by rain in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, snow from the Lake region eastward to Maine, and rain, changing to snow flurries, in Ohio Valley and the Appalachian region. The snowfall was heavy in portions of northern New England and northern New York. Strong shifting winds and gales are reported from practically all Atlantic Coast stations. Eastport, Me., reported a maximum velocity of 52 miles an hour from the east.

A disturbance has developed over the southern Plateau region Monday night is now central over eastern Colorado, Pueblo, 29.46 inches, with a trough extending northward to another disturbance that is advancing eastward over Manitoba, Churchill, 29.46 inches. These disturbances have caused rains in the Pacific States and local snows in the Plateau region. Pressure remains low over Greenland and Alaska, and it is abnormally low over the Aleutian Islands, Dutch Harbor, 29.22 inches. Pressure is relatively high over western Ontario southward to the Yucatan Peninsula, Merida, Yucatan, 30.10 inches, and over California, Fresno, 30.04 inches. The temperature has fallen in the Plateau and southern Rocky Mountain regions and almost generally east of the Mississippi River, and it has not changed materially elsewhere.

Generally fair weather will prevail in the Washington forecast district Wednesday but the eastward advance of the eastern disturbance will be attended by rain in Tennessee, the Ohio Valley, and the lower Lake region Thursday, and in the Atlantic States Thursday afternoon or night. The temperature will rise in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the western lower Lake region, and portions of the South Atlantic States Wednesday, and almost generally in the Washington forecast district, except Kentucky and Tennessee, Thursday. Colder weather will again overspread the Ohio Valley and Tennessee by Thursday night.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been. Just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

LEGAL NOTICES

TO RECORDER OF DEEDS, CITY OF Washington, District of Columbia: Pursuant to the District of Columbia Corporation Code, this annual report of the "Standard" Corporation of the District of Columbia, is filed. The capital of the "Standard" Corporation is $100, all of which is fully paid in. The corporation has no existing debts. HARRY G. UHL, President and Trustee. ARTHUR T. UPSON, Trustee. January 6, 1931. HARRY G. UHL being duly sworn, says that he is Secretary of the "Standard" Corporation, and as such is duly authorized to verify the foregoing report, and that the facts therein stated are true. HARRY G. UHL. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of January, 1931. (Seal.) MARGUERITE H. COLLIERE, Notary Public. 7

Washington, D. C., January 1, 1931.

WE, THE PRESIDENT AND THE Majority of the Trustees of Sandos, Inc., of the District of Columbia, do hereby certify that the Capital Stock of said Company is twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), and is fully paid in, and that there are no debts of said Company. F. L. SANDOZ, President. ANNA M. SANDOZ. THOMAS SANDOZ, Trustees.

L. Hugo Frankenberger, Treasurer of Sandos, Inc., of the District of Columbia, do solemnly swear that the facts contained in the foregoing certificate are true to the best of my knowledge and belief. HUGO FRANKENBERGER, Treasurer. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of January, A. D. 1931. (Seal.) VIRGINIA COMFORT, Notary Public, D. C.

BRANDENBURG & BRANDENBURG, Attorneys. Fendall Building.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia. The Poca Valley Bank, a corporation, Roane County, West Virginia, plaintiff, vs. Erastus D. Whited and Emma K. Whited, R. F. D. No. 2, Spencer, West Virginia, defendants. At law No. 76428. The object of this suit is to recover judgment against the above-named defendants for thirteen thousand, seventy-nine and 26/100 dollars ($13,079.26), less a credit of forty-six hundred twenty-nine and 13/100 dollars ($4,629.13), paid on account thereof, upon a certain settlement sheet rendered against said defendants by the Circuit Court of Roane County, State of West Virginia, as set forth in the declaration and particulars of demand filed in this cause and to have judgment of condemnation of certain property of the defendant levied on under an attachment issued in this suit to satisfy the plaintiff's claim, it is therefore, this 30th day of December, 1930, ordered that the defendant appear in this court on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays after the day of the first publication of this order, to defend this suit and show cause why said condemnation should not be had; otherwise the same will be proceeded with as in case of default; provided that this order be published in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post once a week for three successive weeks. By the Court: O. R. LUHRING, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By FRED C. O'CONNELL, Assistant Clerk. 31.7.14

PROPERTY OWNERS HIT BORLAND LAW AT PUBLIC HEARING

Declare Statute Is Wrong in Principle and Insist That It Be Shelved.

OFFICIALS RECOMMEND PASSAGE OF SUBSTITUTE

Taxation Problem Debated at Length; Report May Be Made Shortly.

Protest against the principle of the Borland special street assessment law, voiced by District residents yesterday before the Senate District committee, was climaxed by an appeal to Congress by William McK. Clayton that Congress "rest on its oars" and let the courts eliminate what little has been left effective of the law.

The Borland law, Mr. Clayton told the committee in the course of a public hearing, has been one of the most unpopular and distasteful of all forms of taxation.

"This matter," Mr. Clayton said, "makes no difference except to the people of the District. If the Borland law is repealed and no revenues are derived from its application it simply will mean that the revenues lost through this source of taxation must be made up out of general revenues.

Let Law Die in Court.

"That is what the people of the District want. It is their money. They have to pay for the street improvements. Surely Congress does not want to be in a position where it shall tell them that they may not pay for improvements in the manner they wish to pay for them.

"In the name of the people of the District I ask this committee not to enact this bill proposed by the District Commissioners. Do nothing about the matter. Just let us take the question into the courts and kill the rest of the law. The courts already have said, in decision after decision, how unfair and inequitable the law is. Do not let us perpetuate it with this new legislation."

Mr. Clayton's appeal was a summation of protests against the Borland law and the new law proposed by the Commissioners to overcome the restrictions on the present law by court decisions.

Further Challenge Likely.

Vernon E. West, principal assistant corporation counsel, who had preceded Mr. Clayton, had told the committee that a decision of the Court of Appeals in the Dodge c... earlier in the day practically eliminated the existing law as an effective instrument. Even in those cases where assessments might still be imposed without going against court decisions, Mr. West said, it probably was just a matter of time before a successful challenge would be made in court. The Borland law, he said, was in such shape that personally he wouldn't think of paying an assessment which might be levied against him under it.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, took exception to Mr. Clayton's proposal. Dr. Reichelderfer said that he believed Congress should enact a new law, such as was proposed by the Commissioners or else flatly repeal the Borland law. As long as the Borland law remains the Commissioners are bound to attempt to enforce it, and its enforcement will be very inequitable, the Commissioner said.

The hearing was more of a debate between District officials, who sponsored the amendment to the Borland law, and small property owners who were opposed to the principle of the law, however expressed.

Capper Questions Witnesses.

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, asked pertinent questions now and then and sat back to give both sides ample chance to express themselves.

Their arguments and discussions went into the record for the benefit of members of Congress who will have to pass on the question. Every one was polite enough, but so heated became the discussion that Ernest H. Pullman, of the Manor Park Citizens Association, formally on the witness stand before the committee, was interrupted for so long that he apparently felt that everything else he had to say had been said by others and, thanking Senator Capper, left the witness chair apparently as well pleased as though he had not been interrupted.

William W. Bride, corporation counsel, took a prominent part in the discussion, as did Capt. Herbert C. Whitehurst, engineer of highways. They agreed with protestants against the law and protestants agreed that never before has there been such a fair and just administration of the law by District officials. The two sides parted ways, however, when it came to approval of the Borland law in principle. District officials approved the law in principle and taxpayers disapproved of it in principle and declared that inasmuch as it was their own money which was being spent Congress ought not to thrust this particular law on them.

No Decision Rendered.

No decision was made by the committee. Senator Capper said he expected a committee decision in a fortnight and that personally he favored the Borland law principle.

Much the same thing happened in the morning before the Houst District committee subcommittee on streets, avenues and traffic, of which Representative Gale H. Stalker (Republican), of New York, is chairman. That committee had called a hearing to consider both the Borland law amendment and the new traffic law, but as had been expected, there was so much discussion of the Borland law that traffic was put over for consideraton at another hearing, to be held in the next few days.

Among those appearing at the hearing before the Senate committee yesterday afternoon, in addition to those mentioned, were George E. Sullivan, an attorney; Thomas E. Lodge, of the Federation of Citizens Associations; Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations; William E. Sheehan, of the North Capitol Citizens Association; John C. Cassiday, a property owner; T. W. Buckley, of the Manor Park Citizens Association; Evan H. Tucker, of the Northeast Citizens Association; Bruce L. Casteel, of the Trinidad Citizens Association, and John C. L. Ritter, of the Southeast Citizens Associations. Every one opposed the Borland law in principle and the enactment of the substitute proposed by the District Commissioners.

DEAD MYSTERY MAN IS CLAIMED BY SON

LATTER'S HOME SOUGHT

The body of Joseph W. Farrar, eccentric figure killed Sunday night at Dupont Circle, was claimed last night from the Morgue by his son, J. Edward Farrar, of California street near Connecticut avenue northwest.

Yesterday morning a coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death absolving from blame Don Jose Ricardo Gomez Acebo, First Secretary of the Spanish Embassy, driver of the automobile which struck him.

Farrar's address had not been determined last night, although it was learned that his wife, Mrs. Anna R. Farrar, lives at the California street home with the son. There is said to be another son residing in New York City.

Until November 15, Farrar made his home on Thirteenth street near O street northwest. His landlady there, Mrs. Annie Armentrout, said that when he departed he was eighteen months in arrears with his room rent. She brought suit and obtained a judgment of $270 against him. She believes he was a man of considerable wealth. At one time, she said, he showed her two $10,000 bills, which he was taking to a bank.

The rent receipts bearing the signature of James M. Johnston, which were found in his pocket, provoke the belief that he may have been known by that name.

William E. Leahy, attorney, said that he had known the man for twenty years. Leahy said Farrar was a college graduate and a man of considerable ability. He believes he made a living trading on the stock market.

BROKER'S SENTENCE IS UPHELD ON APPEAL

Moffatt Must Serve Five Years on Two Charges of False Pretense.

INDICTMENT HELD VALID

William Lee Moffatt, former Washington investment broker, who was convicted in District Supreme Court eleven months ago and sentenced to serve five years in jail on two charges of false pretenses growing out of stock sales, must serve his term, according to a decision handed down yesterday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. Moffatt has been in jail since his sentence.

Moffatt was convicted on evidence that he had represented to prospective investors that the Riggs National Bank was behind the Bankers Investment Trust Corporation, a project he was promoting.

The appeal was taken on contention of Moffatt's counsel that the indictment had failed to state the Riggs National Bank was a corporation; that the court erred in permitting a vice president of the bank to correct the omission in his testimony, and that the Government had neglected to elect at the conclusion of its case whether it would ask the jury to find the defendant guilty of larceny after trust or false pretenses, both of which were cited in the indictment.

Justice Charles H. Robb, in his opinion, held that none of the points raised by the defense was reversible. He specifically pointed out that the Riggs National Bank was only brought into the indictment to show false pretenses, and that the necessity of describing it as a corporation did not arise, since the bank did not own the stock involved in the case.

Wines, Liquors And Cigars Loot

49 Pints of Whisky Are in Haul That Is Made at Drug Store.

Thieves made a wholesale haul last night at a drug store at 5017 Connecticut avenue, when they succeeded in getting away with 49 pints of assorted liquors, chiefly labeled as "Spring Garden," "Chicken Cock" and "Old Taylor" varieties, according to a report made to police by Samuel F. Higger, of 4817 Thirty-sixth street northwest, the proprietor.

Other merchandise taken included five quarts of wine, three boxes of cigars, 4,000 cigarettes of various brands, 20 pounds of boxed candy and seven compacts. The whisky, wine, cigarettes and compacts were valued by Higger at $235.

Police say that $185 in cash was also taken from the register in the store. The thieves entered by jimmying a rear door, and police were able to obtain fingerprints.

Assault by Repairman Held Not Agent's Fault

An assault committed by a man sent by a rental agent to an apartment to make repairs is beyond the scope of the man's employment and the rental agent can not be held responsible.

This was the substance of an opinion of the District Court of Appeals rendered yesterday in upholding action of the District Supreme Court in throwing out a suit brought by Virginia E. Grimes, wife of an apartment janitor, against the B. F. Saul Co., the agent. The woman claimed the workman attacked her while making the repairs.

Wife Sues for Divorce, Naming Corespondent

Naming a corespondent with whom she asserts her husband has been living for the past two years, Mary Wolf, of Kenilworth avenue northeast near Quarel street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant her an absolute divorce from Charles M. Wolf, of F street northeast near Thirteenth street.

The couple was married December 31, 1918 and the wife says she was forced to leave her husband on March 7, 1927. There are two children. The wife in addition to divorce seeks the custody of the children and permanent alimony. Attorney Martin F. O'Donoghue appears for the wife.

Worker Pinned Down By Telephone Poles

Charles Soper, 25 years old, of 1213 H street northeast, was caught under three telephone poles he was helping unload when they fell from a truck at the Benning plant of the Potomac Electric Power Co., yesterday afternoon. His head and face were lacerated.

The Fire Rescue Squad was called and rendered first aid, later taking Soper to Sibley Hospital, where he received further medical treatment. Although physicians said that the injuries were not serious, he was admitted to the hospital for further attention.

Attorney General's Car, Driverless, Runs Away

Outrunning its chauffeur by a radiator cap, a large limousine owned by Attorney General William D. Mitchell early yesterday morning piled up against a tree in Rock Creek-Potomac parkway near the Cabinet officer's home. The automobile was badly damaged, while the pursuing chauffeur suffered a sprained back when he attempted to halt the runaway.

It all happened when Frank Rhodes, Mr. Mitchell's driver, left the car parked on a hill for a few minutes. As he turned his back, the big machine, its brakes slipping, started rolling down the incline. Rhodes leaped to the running board in an effort to pull on the emergency brake, but was thrown to the pavement, while the car gathered speed until the tree halted it.

12 Pairs of Shoes Stolen.

More than twelve pairs of men's shoes were reported stolen from a shoeshop owned by Sam Oshinsky, at 1214 Seventh street northwest, yesterday. He told police they were taken Monday night and that the value was about $20.

City Judge Will Officiate At Real Chinese Wedding

Washingtonians who are invited will be treated to an ancient and elaborate marriage ceremony in approved Chinese fashion except for the officiating magistrate, it was indicated yesterday when a license was issued for the marriage of Henry Chin Bow and Ching Yee Gin, both Chinese.

The only Occidental note in the whole scheme, it was understood, will be Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of Municipal Court, who is slated to be the officiating magistrate. Of course, Occidental guests will be there, but they will not participate in the real ceremony.

As yet the date and place of the wedding have not been set, according to Mr. Bow. Oriental affairs of ceremony are tardy in being arranged, he explained, and there are many things which must be attended to.

Bow gave his address as 229 G street northwest, and his bride's as 231 G street northwest. Bow is 34, the bride, 33.

HIGH SCHOOLS HERE MAY LOSE SERVICES OF ARMY OFFICERS

War Department Plans to Eliminate 48 Assigned as Instructors.

APPROPRIATION IS CUT IN ESTIMATES FOR 1932

Retired Men, if Removed, Can Not Be Replaced From Active List.

Students of some of the universities and high schools of Washington and nearby Virginia may lose their military instructors if the recommendations of the War Department, embodied in the department's annual estimates for next year, are carried out.

The War Department appropriation bill, as reported to the House by the appropriations committee provides for the elimination of 48 retired Army officers now engaged in instructing high school and university students throughout the country.

There are now 149 retired Army officers receiving increased compensation for active duty, of whom 104 are in civil education institutions. Of the total, 136 are in the United States. The others are largely in the Philippine Scouts, or on recruiting duty.

Will Eliminate 48 Men.

The War Department asked Congress for only $131,132 for extra pay for these officers in 1932 fiscal year as compared with $168,650 appropriated for the same purpose in the current fiscal year. War Department officials explained to the committee that 48 of these retired officers were to be eliminated.

Just how the contemplated decrease of $37,518 will be divided next year has not been explained. Neither the reports of the department nor the testimony of department officials or Army officers before the committee went into details.

Washington, however, is expected to feel the cut some place, inasmuch as there are eight retired Army officers now assigned to universities or high schools in the city or nearby.

Four retired Army officers are assigned to District high schools for the training of the cadet corps; one is assigned to Howard University; one is assigned to the Arlington County High School; one to the Alexandria High School, and one to St. John's College in the District.

Subject of Recent Protest.

Under the law it is forbidden to assign active Army officers to such duty, or to recruiting duty, if retired officers are available. That means that if there is a reduction in the training force of retired Army officers in this territory they may not be replaced with officers in active service.

The number of Army officers assigned to military training in high schools and colleges throughout the country was the subject of bitter protest on the part of those opposed to war in the course of public hearings held a few months ago by congressional committees.

City Firm Low Bidder On Addition to School

The Graham Construction Co., of Washington, was low bidder yesterday on the four-room addition to the John Greenleaf Whittier School, Fifth and Sheridan streets northwest, according to Rolan M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District engineering department. Its estimate was $83,940.

Eleven bids were made, the highest of which was $106,601 by the Castor & Castor Construction & Engineering Co., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Exploding Cartridge Slightly Injures Woman

Pearl Breeden, 35, of 1121 Four-and-a-half street southwest, was slightly injured about both arms yesterday when a cartridge, lying on the stove, exploded. She was sitting in the kitchen at the time. Police believe that children in the household found the bullet and placed it on the stove.

The woman was treated by a private physician.

IN HIGHER POST

NUGENT DODDS.

PROMOTION IS GIVEN SMITH PROSECUTOR

Nugent Dodds' Name Sent to Senate as Assistant Attorney General.

TAKES LUHRING'S PLACE

Nugent Dodds, of the Department of Justice, who recently prosecuted and convicted three officials of the F. H. Smith Co., yesterday was promoted from special assistant to the Attorney General to Assistant Attorney General.

His nomination for the higher post was sent to the Senate by President Hoover in the afternoon. When it is confirmed, Dodds will take over an office that was made vacant when Oscar Luhring was made a judge in the District of Columbia. Luhring had been preceded by Col. William (Wild Bill) Donovan.

President Hoover yesterday sent two other nominations to the Senate, naming Simon E. Sobeloff, of Baltimore, as United States attorney for Maryland, and Dr. Eugene H. Mullan to be a medical director in the United States Public Health Service.

Mr. Dodds was born in Mount Pleasant, Mich., June 17, 1887, the son of former Representative Francis Henry Dodds, a Republican, who served in the Sixty-first and Sixty-second Congresses. He studied law for one year—1909 to 1910—at Georgetown University Law School. At that time he was serving as his father's secretary on Capitol Hill. He completed his law studies in 1913 at the University of Michigan.

He has been a special assistant in the Department of Justice for the last six years. In his new role as Assistant Attorney General he will be in charge of the prosecution of criminal cases involving financiers in all parts of the country.

Policemen Install Association Heads

Lieuts. Smith and Varney Deliver Addresses at Session.

Installation of officers was conducted last night at a meeting of the District of Columbia Policemen's Association, held in Odd Fellows Hall, 419 Seventh street northwest.

Those installed for the coming year are L. C. Hauschild, president; R. A. Chambliss, first vice president; F. C. Wheeler, second vice president; W. J. Kerns, recording secretary; G. H. Chrisman, financial secretary; W. C. Adcock, treasurer, and T. T. Hefferman, trustee. Hefferman was elected to serve a term of three years. H. W. Lineburg was installing officer.

Hardie Meakin, manager of the Fox Theater, was presented by J. O. Patton, chairman of the entertainment committee, and elected an honorary member. Speakers included Lieut. Milton D. Smith, of the Traffic Bureau, and Lieut. F. A. Varney, former president of the group.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"IZZAT SO?" A SHORT STORY.

("Washington has instructed census supervisors of twenty cities, where a special unemployment census will be taken, to list persons selling unemployment apples as employed."—News item.)

SCENE—A city street.

Census Taker (accosting apple vendor)—Ah! Pretty nice, eh?

Apple Vendor—What's pretty nice?

Census Taker—Being regularly employed at a time like this when so many people are out of work.

Apple Vendor (somewhat aghast)—Just run over that agin, please.

Census Taker—I say it's nice to have a job at a time like this.

Apple Vendor—Listen, mister, I ain't got no job; I'm selling apples.

Census Taker—Don't be silly. You've got a steady job and I'm glad to know it.

Apple Vendor—Now, look here, I . . .

Census Taker—Don't argue. Who knows best whether you are employed or not, you or Washington?

Apple Vendor—I do, mister.

* * * *

CENSUS TAKER—You're positively disrespectful and, I might say, even unpatriotic.

Apple Vendor (puzzled)—Say, Whaddya mean?

Census Taker—When Washington states specifically that a man selling apples is not unemployed he is not unemployed.

Apple Vendor—You mean to tell me that Washington made any ruling like that?

Census Taker—Positively. It was decided on at a conference of Department of Labor and Census Bureau officials. I'll read it to you—Rule 76, Section A: In taking a census to determine the number of unemployed it shall be held that all persons selling unemployment apples are employed.

Apple Vendor (very baffled)—But the only reason I'm out here in the cold selling apples is that I ain't employed!

Census Taker (firmly)—I'm very sorry, but you're mistaken about that.

Apple Vendor—I tell you I'm a mechanic by trade and . . .

Census Taker (with an air of finality)—Don't argue any more, sir. What's your name?

Apple Vendor—Gus Bolokowitcz.

Census—Where do you live?

Apple Vendor—Municipal lodging house.

Census Taker (making entry on census sheet)—Okay. Gus Bolokowitcz, municipal lodging house, occupation FRUIT SALESMAN!

LINES ON OBSERVING AN ABANDONED CHRISTMAS TREE.

Just a few short days ago
You shone as a thing of glory—
Symbol of religious glow,
Beacon of an old, old story.

Now upon a public dump
I behold you cheerless, very,
Just a stripped and battered clump—

AMERICA IS LAGGING IN PROGRESS, HE SAYS

Urges Shorter Hours and Other Policies; Reports Will Be Submitted.

The Government of the United States should lead the world in its forward-looking personnel policies, Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, said in a statement made public last night, announcing the convening here tomorrow of the winter meeting of the executive council of the federation in the Labor Building, at 10 B street southwest.

"The Federal Government is now lagging behind the progressive policy which has dictated the five-day week, which has become so prevalent in private industry," Mr. Steward said. "It is on the promise that the United States Government should lead the world in treatment of its workers that we shall endeavor to obtain a five-day week for the public service.

"Shortening the work week for Government employes redounds to their health and well-being, but it has an even broader effect than that. There is no question that the five-day week in the Federal Government would contribute tremendously to the economy and efficiency of conducting the public business."

Awards to Be Announced.

The meeting of the federation council tomorrow will hear announcement of awards in the organizing campaigns which has been conducted in the ranks of Government workers throughout the country. The activities of various individuals and organizations will be passed on and rewarded by the council meeting. The effort of the campaign, Mr. Steward said, has been to spread the thought of collective bargaining among Government workers everywhere.

There are 383 unions affiliated with the federation. They are located in every State in the Union, and in the Panama Canal Zone, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Alaska and Europe. The union formed among the employes of the Paris, France, embassy includes in its membership members of the foreign personnel service in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America.

Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the federation, will report to the council meeting the result of the membership campaign. The campaign, incidentally, is looked on with considerable interest because of the pending fight in Congress over the question of bringing underaverage salaries of Government employes up to the average of their grades as prescribed by law. Although this question has been treatde by several members of Congress in the course of debate as one of benefit only to employes in Washington, analysis shows that about two-thirds of those who would be affected are employes in the so-called field service; that is, Government employes outside of the National Capital.

Will Attend Meeting.

Announcement of the appointment of Earl R. Hoage, nationally known labor leader and president of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, as Western representative of the federation, was made by Mr. Steward. Mr. Hoage will attend the council meeting tomorrow. A member of the Denver, Colo., local union, Mr. Hoage has been city treasurer of Denver. He resigned and his appointment as representative of the federation is due to his exceptional organizing ability it was said at federation headquarters.

In addition to President Steward and Secretary Treasurer McNally, the executive council meeting will be attended by the following, all national vice presidents: John Fitzgerald, New York; L. E. Bentley, New Orleans, La.; Lee R. Whitney, Milwaukee, Wis.; Charles L. Wiegand, Baltimore, Md.; J. P. Thompson, San Francisco, Calif.; Thomas W. Gould, Cleveland, Ohio; M. J. Hines, Leavenworth, Kans.; Walter P. Taylor, Tucson, Ariz.; John W. Ross, Norfolk, Va., and Organizer John D. Cloud, New York, N. Y.

Two Capital Residents Are Will Beneficiaries

Word has been received here that Mrs. Hannah W. Locke and Mrs. Cornelia W. Vanderpool, both of this city, receive $25,000 each and one-half the residuary estate under the will of their father, Grinnell Willis, who died recently in Morristown, N. J.

The estate was valued at more than $1,000,000.

Pocketbook and $50 Stolen.

A pocketbook said to have contained more than $50 in checks and bills, as well as jewelry and personal papers, was stolen yesterday from Mrs. Gertrude Butts, of 3308 Twenty-second street northeast. She told police that the pocketbook was taken from an office at 1358 B street southwest, where she is employed.

Deputy Coroner Gets Car Tag 13 by Courtesy

Deputy Coroner Joseph D. Rogers came very near losing his coveted automobile license tag No. 13, it was learned yesterday, and it was only because of the generosity of Corporation Counsel William W. Bride that he was able again to carry it as he has done for several years in the past.

Believing that no other motorist dared to court disaster by asking for the "13" tag, Dr. Rogers did not apply for the number until the public distribution was well under way. Then, to his dismay, he found that the tag had gone to Mr. Bride upon the latter's request.

After hearing the lament of the deputy coroner, Mr. Bride yesterday agreed to give up the tag. In return he was assigned plate No. 16.

SENTENCE OF DEATH FOR SLAYER STANDS

Aldridge, Convicted for Killing Policeman, to Die on January 23.

DEFENSE PLEAS DENIED

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals yesterday confirmed the death penalty imposed on Alfred Scott Aldridge, Negro, for the murder of Policeman Harry J. McDonald on July 6, 1929, at Seventeenth and Q streets northwest.

In the opinion written by Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, the court held defense counsel had waited too late to make its contention that the man had been served with another indictment instead of the one on which he was being tried. This point was raised after the trial had begun.

The court also held that the District Supreme Court had not erred in refusing to declare a mistrial when the victim's widow fainted at the sight of the fatal bullet nor in refusing to question prospective jurors as to possible racial prejudices.

McDonald was killed while attempting to arrest Aldridge and his brother, Albert. The latter was killed in the battle, and was said to have held a fully loaded gun in his hand. The survivor claimed that his dead brother had shot the policeman, and that he had picked up his brother's gun while fleeing from the scene of the fight. The effort of McDonald to arrest the men grew out of an attempt to rob a nearby drug store. Aldridge is under sentence to die in the electric chair on January 23.

New Traffic Law Given Committee

Public Hearing Expected to Be Called on Measure in Near Future.

The proposed new traffic law for the District was turned over yesterday by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, to a subcommittee headed by Senator Hamilton F. Kean (Republican), of New Jersey.

Senator Kean is expected to call a public hearing on the law, perhaps on Friday, or in any event, in the near future. Senator Kean is very much interested in traffic regulation in the District, as was evidenced by his questions at the hearing held by the full committee yesterday on the Borland law amendment.

The House District subcommittee, headed by Representative Gale H. Stalker (Republican), of New York, expected to consider the proposed new traffic law at a public hearing yesterday, but time consumed on the Borland law prevented and Mr. Stalker, too, is expected to have a hearing on the traffic bill in the next few days.

License Application False, Wife Charges

Charged with making misrepresentations in an application for a marriage license, Abraham Solomon yesterday was arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on a charge of perjury and ordered held for action of the grand jury. Bond was fixed at $2,000.

Solomon was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Mary Solomon, his second wife. In her affidavit, she charged that on May 12 last, when Solomon obtained the license to marry her he had declared he had never been married before, when in fact he had.

Man Arrested in Theft Case.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS BODY FIGHTS WIDER THIRTEENTH STREET

100 FAMILIES WOULD SUFFER LOSS, IS CLAIM

Plans for Wilson Teachers' College Are Explained by Superintendent Ballou.

Opposition to the proposal to widen Thirteenth street northwest north of Monroe street until the thoroughfare is "at least" widened below Florida avenue was voiced in resolutions adopted by the Columbia Heights Citizens Association at a meeting last night in the assembly hall of the Columbia Heights Christian Church.

This action was taken after Charles T. Clayton, chairman of the law committee of the association, explained the purposes of the bill now pending in Congress which would give the District Commissioners power to condemn several feet of property on either side of Thirteenth street between Monroe street and Spring road for the purpose of widening the street.

Need Is Greater Below.

W. L. Bedrow, one of the property owners along the affected area, told the association that 100 families would suffer loss of property if the street is widened. Both Mr. Bedrow and Mr. Clayton held that Thirteenth street between Florida avenue and Logan circle is in greater need of widening than the northern section of the street.

Approval was given a resolution presented by J. Clinton Hiatt, chairman of the committee on public safety, asking the Public Utilities Commission to issue an order requiring all operators of automobiles, trucks, buses and street cars to refrain from moving on upper Fourteenth street until traffic lights flash to green instead of starting when the light is at the amber signal. Enforcement of this regulation would reduce accidents on the street, it was held.

Addressed by Ballou.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District schools, told the association of the development of Wilson Teachers College, which is located in the Columbia Heights section. The purpose of the college, he said, is to train boys and girls with high school education as teachers in elementary schools for positions not only in Washington, but other parts of the country. He referred to the development of the Wilson institution as a college as a move promising more in the local school system than any other.

The association indorsed the movement of the American Civic Association to abandon unsightly billboards. Albert E. Westrater, the president of the association, presided. An entertainment program was presented.

Devonshire Association Acts Against Billboards

The Devonshire Downs Citizens Association last night pledged its support to the campaign of the American Civic Association to remove billboards and other advertising matter from highways leading into Washington. A resolution offered by Dr. J. M. Aldrich was unanimously adopted, at a meeting at 3923 Windom place northwest.

The association also indorsed the movement to provide an additional force of guards at the District Jail to relieve those now working seven days a week. J. B. Dickman told the association an increase of four guards would remedy the situation.

Plats and maps of the new school building and community center to be erected at Thirty-seventh and Tilden streets were exhibited by J. W. McGarry, of the Richmond Park Citizens Association. Joseph D. Kauffman, of the Community Chest, and Harry N. Stull, of the Staunton Park Citizens Association, also spoke.

Z. A. Jones was named to head a committee to consider changing the name of the association, while J. K. Hyde was appointed a committee of one to investigate the prospects of early municipal action to relieve the downtown parking situation.

Actress Suicide To Be Cremated

Kathleen Baxley's Friends Raise Fund to Carry Out Her Wish.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning for Miss Kathleen Baxley, an actress, whose body was found in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, Monday. The services will be conducted at the undertaking establishment of J. William Lee, 833 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

In a conversation with friends, shortly before her threat to "try the river," Miss Baxley had expressed a desire to be cremated. A fund for this purpose was raised among her friends by Mrs. James Coleman, of 4445 Q street northwest, and Mrs. J. D. Arrington, of 1806 Connecticut avenue northwest. So the young woman's wish will be carried out.

A coroner's jury had given a verdict of suicide. Miss Baxley often had told of her intention to kill herself, it was said at the inquest. She had been in ill health for years. So far as known she had no living relatives. She was reared in a Richmond, Va., orphanage, and for several years was a toe dancer on a vaudeville circuit.

Baltimore Firm Bids Low on Bridge Task

The low bid on the job of widening the Monroe Street Bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio tracks, between Eighth and Ninth streets northeast, was made by P. Caroona & Son, of Baltimore, with an estimate of $83,025, it was announced yesterday. Three bids were entered.

The present roadway is to be widened from 30 to 50 feet. The bid includes $2,000 for removing part of the structure before the new work begins.

Child Hurt by Auto.

Margaret I. Davis, 8 years old, of 538 Tenth street southeast, was slightly hurt yesterday when struck by an auto as she was crossing the street near her home. Ruth O. Moody, O street near Fourth northwest, was driving the car. The child was treated for lacerations and abrasions at Casualty Hospital and then taken home.
